Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs died slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

CAPT. WILLIAM NIXON, M.I.N.A.

on the 1st July, but no trace of him could be obtained until recently, when it was ascertained that he had been killed in the German trenches on that day. He was by profession a naval architect, serving his apprenticeship with the Blyth Shipbuilding Company. For some years before the war he lived in Belfast, and was in the employment of Messrs. Workman and Clark, in their technical department. In November, 1914, he enlisted in one of the Irish regiments, but almost immediately was given a commission in the Northumberland Fusiliers, with whom he proceeded overseas in December, 1915.

A man of many friends, his loss will be greatly regretted on Tyneside and in Belfast.

His younger brother, Ernest, who holds a commission in a Territorial Battalion is now in this country after having received his second strip of gold braid for wounds.

CAPT. JOHN NORMAN ARMSTRONG.

Capt. John Norman Armstrong, who died on the 16th January of wounds received on the 10th January, was the eldest son of Councillor and Mrs. I. Armstrong, of 6, Alexandra Road, Morpeth. He received his early education at Morpeth Grammar School, whence he proceeded to Armstrong College, Newcastle-on-Tyne. He joined the O.T.C., and received a commission in the Northumberland Fusiliers in December, 1914. He was sent to Gallipoli in September, 1915, and served at Suvla Bay until the evacuation. He went to Egypt, and remained there until last July, when he was ordered to another front. He was gazetted Captain last October.

Regimental Notes.

Extract from The Regiment:—

STAFF-SGT. PAYNE.

"The typical grim soldier-figure above is a veteran ex-Regular of the famous 'Fighting Fifth' (Northumberland Fusiliers), Staff-Sgt. Payne, who, enlisting as far back as 1897, served over 12 years with the Colours, fighting under Kitchener at Khartoum and again in South Africa, for which he received both the King's and Queen's Medals. Emigrating to Australia, he was one of the first to join up on the outbreak of war, and with the first Australian Expeditionary Force he fought throughout those epic early days in Gallipoli where he received no fewer than 17 wounds! On one occasion a 300lb. shell threw him 20ft. in the air, rendering him deaf, dumb and blind. Invalided to Australia he made a remarkable recovery, and is now back in a training camp in England eager to prove to the enemy that, as a great foreign writer has said, 'a son of Briton yields to nothing but death!' Note his four gold strips for wounds." (Owing to an error on the part of the block makers his arm has been cut off at the elbow, but the strips are there all the same!!—EDITOR, St. George's Gazette.)

Col. Herbert and Officers wish to convey their most hearty thanks to those who so kindly remembered them at this Festive Season by sending them cards and greetings. They hope that next Christmas greetings may be sent and received by all without having to pass the sinister Censor who so ruthlessly eradicates the most priceless poems.

Cards and greetings were received from the following:—

Lieut.-Col. Roundell and Officers
Lieut.-Col. A. D. Gibson and Officers
Lieut.-Col. A. W. Little and Officers
Lieut.-Col. Shakespeare, C.I.E., D.S.O.
Lieut.-Col. Daniel and Officers
Lieut.-Col. W. Platt, D.S.O., and Officers
Lieut. H. Hogshaw
Lieut. H. C. Bucknall
} Northumberland Fusiliers.
2nd-Lieut. S. A. Rose
Maj. R. G. McLaren and Officers, The West Yorkshire Regt.
Capt. A. S. Glynn, R.A.M.C.

The engagement is announced between Lieut. J. K. Fraser, Northumberland Fusiliers, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Fraser, Kensington Terrace, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Beatrice Hebe (Kem), youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Storey, of Loughrigg Brow, Ambleside, and Cross Hill, near Morecambe.

We re-print a photo of a troupe of pierrots which should interest the large numbers of Officers, N.C.O.'s and men who were enlivened by their excellent show during Christmas week, 1916. Modesty apparently has prevented them from giving us any information as to their individual identity although the carefully arranged display of "lingerie intime" by No. 3 of the front rank does not betoken an excess of diffidence. Collectively these are known as the Scotton Scamps, and we are informed that they are all Officers and nearly all of them have been wounded at least once, and one of them three times.

"THE SCOTTON SCAMPS."

Lieut.-Col. H. B. Warwick, at the expiration of his sick leave, is attached for duty to the — Battalion, with which he began his soldiering at Alnwick in 1896. Among his brother Officers in the good old days were Lieut.-Col. R. F. Roundell, the present C.O. of the Battalion; Lieut.-Col. Roddam; Maj. E. P. A. Riddell, D.S.O.; Maj. D. F. de C. Buckle; Capt. A. M. Gibbes (our late Editor but one); Maj. H. R. Sandilands; and Lieut.-Col. G. P. Westmacott, D.S.O. Col. Warwick is one of the many Officers now serving with the Regiment who previously served in the old Militia Battalion and who have rendered distinguished service in the present war. The Battalion has also the distinction of having introduced to the Service the present Colonel of the FIFTH, Maj.-Gen. P. S. Wilkinson, who served in it with Brig.-Gen. C. B. Westmacott, who commanded the Worcesters so brilliantly in the early part of the war.

The "St. George's Players" recently produced a highly successful entertainment in the Y.M.C.A. Hut in the lines at a certain spot on the North-East Coast. The programme consisted of a one-act play:—

"REPRISAL."

(BELGIUM, 1914).

Adapted by Capt. C. H. Markham, from
A Story by Sir A. Conan Doyle.

CAST:—

Maj. Von Baumgarten	CAPT. C. H. MARKHAM
Le Vicomte de Château-noir	MAJ. C. P. HAWKES
Sgt.-Maj. Schultz	LIEUT. E. G. L. KEATINGE
Henri	2ND-LIEUT. C. DUNN-YARKER

Followed by a musical entertainment by the "Na Poos," in which Maj. Hawkes, Capt. Markham, Lieut. Keatinge, C.S.M. Husthwayte, Cpl. C. Langtry and Cpl. Ellis took part. C.Q.M.S. Wilson and Sgt. Warner were in charge of the stage arrangements, and the music was excellently rendered by the Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Steffan.

The building was filled by a large and appreciative audience, and it is hoped to repeat the performance in aid of the Comforts' Fund.

A S. Bn. Warrior writes as follows:—

"12th January, 1917.

"Stated in the words of one of old man Euclid's problems it runs thus:—

"Given.—A battalion, and a small village.

"Required.—To make the village habitable, and sanitary, and despite a scheduled accommodation of 579, to billet therein a decent sized battalion.

"After a few days the time-honoured letters 'Q.E.F.' were written with a flourish.

"Having done that we proceeded to live there; drilling, digging, and it is rumoured, once playing. But that's a sad story, and is easily summed up in the score 0—4. If that is not clear, it will have to suffice. Its a sad story.

"Such is our history; uninspiring, monotonous, military. Christmas Day we spent quietly. New Year's Day we worked.

"A day or two later we brightened up, and now to congratulate the recipients of well won honours. Lieut.-Col. F. W. Daniell has been awarded the D.S.O., Capt. W. Fawcus and C.S.M. C. H. Price the M.C., while the C.O., 2nd-Lieut. A. K. Lawrence, R.Q.M.S. Hodgson, Sgt. J. H. Clark and Pte. Drysdale have been 'mentioned.' Total to date: 1 D.S.O., 4 M.C.'s, 2 D.C.M.'s, 3 M.M.'s, and 5 'Mentions.' May that list continue to grow.

"The artist this month has been developing into a musketry fiend, with the result shown. He advocates the use of this type of target throughout; there is an added zest, and shooting is improved. (For testimonials see small handbill.)

"We welcome Lieut. O. H. Cheffins back to the Battalion after his sick leave, and also 2nd-Lieut. W. R. Davies, whom we have amongst us again for the first time since early in 1915.

"Some other word should be coined in the Army. Why does one always 'find' things? In other words, one purloins, abstracts, appropriates to one's own use, 'makes,' 'wins' or otherwise 'pinches' things. But some other

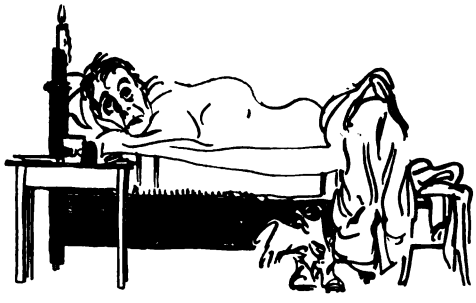
A correspondent sends this account of his unit's doings at Christmas, or rather we should say of the doings of the "M.P." and "D.M.P." of his unit. "Les Autres" apparently contented themselves with consuming the loot and, let us hope, viewing in the situation "out there" the rainbow tints suggested by the multi-coloured cordons of which he writes so feelingly. To the M.P. we extend the hand press of silent sympathy. We, too, have had some:—

"The Mess President was ill. Of that there could be no doubt. Even the approach of the Christmas Season couldn't rouse him; the prospect of a trip to —— to buy the extras for the Christmas dinner failed to get him up. Truly he was ill.



"THE MESS PRESIDENT WAS ILL."

"Now the Mess President, hereinafter referred to as M.P., is a careful man. He audits the accounts excellently, and in general runs the show well. (I hope this meets his eye!) The Deputy Mess President, hereinafter named the D.M.P., likes a good time, and has his own particular fancies, which do not correspond with the M.P.'s ideas on the subject of catering.
"So it turned out that the M.P. was hors de combat, and had to depute the D.M.P. to do the shopping. A list of goods required was written and the methodical brain of the M.P. computed the cost, and he handed 250 francs to the D.M.P. The latter went off joyously in the mess cart, and matters were quiet. There was nothing to report until 6.30 p.m. The anxiety had been too much for the M.P. He got up.
"At 7 p.m. the D.M.P. returned, with the load. He made a graceful entry with a fine turkey slung over his shoulder. We others, humbler members of the Mess, were delighted. Yes, the bird was fresh, a plump specimen. No one had expected more than a scraggy chicken or two. We, I repeat, were delighted. The M.P. took one look at that noble bird, and had a relapse
"He recovered in time for dinner. His sumptuous repast was a cup of boiled milk. We were more normal, and healthy. Talk ranged round the exploits of the D.M.P.
"'Any money left?' snapped the M.P.
"'Well, the —er, the—er—250 francs weren't quite sufficient,' stammered the D.M.P.
"'Oh, weren't they? Suppose you bought up the whole of the canteen, eh? Not enough, eh?' He was very irritable, the unfortunate M.P.
"'Anyway, what have you bought?'
"'Oh, a turkey, a case of whisky, two bottles of Benedictine, one bottle of Grand Marnier, Cordon Rouge, and ——.'
"'But why buy so much food?' snarled the M.P.
"'Oh ——.'
"'Grand Marnier! That wasn't on the list.'
"'But it's Cordon Rouge ——."

"'I don't care a damn if it's Cordon Vert, rose or jaune. Its —— extravagance,' blazed the M.P.

"THE M.P. IS A CAREFUL MAN."

He really was in form, and was certainly making up for lost time.

"SO THE M.P. GOT UP."

"The M.P. on a diet of bread and milk, and the D.M.P. had laid in this stock!
"'The bills later on were produced.

"'Humph. You didn't see two turkeys, buy two and bring one away, eh?'

"'You didn't think of buying a dozen Grand Marnier,

"I DON'T CARE IF IT'S CORDON VERT."

Cordon Rouge. But this bill isn't for all. Three hundred and ten francs! You profligate. Where are the other bills?' And low growls came from him as he totted them up. 'Five hundred and ninety-seven francs, seventy-five centimes, ——.' The M.P. collapsed.

"We enjoyed the Christmas dinner immensely. The M.P. was NOT present. He was in bed, with a glass of milk, untouched, by the bedside. He has since partially recovered. But the first shell that lands within 200 yards of him will produce a case for the M.O., ——, and Blighty."

"PIONEERS."

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
Near WALLINGFORD,
31st January, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

We print elsewhere another letter from Col. Dashwood concerning the Regimental Prisoners of War Aid Association, to which the attention of all is earnestly directed. We also again take the opportunity of urging upon all who can spare a bit to give to this association whatever they can afford. No matter how small the amount is it will be well spent. To our civilian readers we would say, think to yourselves how you regard the wounded man at home or the man at home on leave or the man in the fighting line. Have not we all said that nothing is too good for him and that we should leave undone nothing that we can do to relieve his suffering? or give him a good time? or lighten his burden? How much more, therefore, should we make effort to similarly assist the poor devil who is a prisoner in German hands. To our military readers we need only say "The Fates are calling to you to help your comrades in misfortune." The only way of doing this now is to contribute money to these associations which have been formed under military orders for military reasons.

We should be obliged if subscribers who are receiving their Gazettes addressed to them by a wrong title of rank would send us a post card to correct the error. It is very difficult to keep up with the times in the way of promotions and honours nowadays, especially as we cannot buy the Army List.

I am asked to state that donations towards the Comforts Fund would be gratefully accepted. Much work has already been done this winter (and in this connection our thanks are due to the loyal assistance of the Y.M.C.A., who have supplied a large and continuous number of comforts) in supplying the N.C.O.'s and men proceeding overseas, irrespective of the Battalion they belong to, but, owing to the large number that have already left, the drain on the Comforts Fund is heavy and the amounts already received are insufficient to meet future demands. The purchase of wool and payment of outlying workers in the making up of scarves, socks and mittens, postage, etc., entails a considerable amount of expenditure, and as there are still some months of winter to come, in which the comforts will be needed, it is confidently hoped that donations will still be forthcoming either in money or kind. Cheques should be made payable to Mrs. M. C. Thornton and addressed to, or c/o The Editor, St. George's Gazette, The Old Mill House, Preston Crowmarsh, Near Wallingford.

Letter to the Editor.

THE BARRACKS,
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,
26th January, 1917.

SIR,—In November last, you kindly published a letter from me announcing the formation of "The Northumberland Prisoners of War Organization," designed to supply articles to the prisoners of war of units connected with the county.

I am glad to say that this organization is now in full swing and parcels at the rate of three per fortnight have been regularly despatched since the 15th December last.

The contents of these parcels are suitably varied. In addition arrangements have been made for the despatch of 13 lbs. of bread or biscuits per fortnight for each man.

Cigarettes and tobacco are sent, duty free, once a fortnight through Messrs. R. Sinclair, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

A "first capture parcel," consisting of toilet requisites, is also sent to each man as soon as his name and address is received.

The work of packing is carried out in very suitable premises at Hales Garage, Pilgrim Street, by a number of ladies who have generously given their services for this purpose.

A strong Committee has been formed consisting of the following:—

His Grace The Duke of Northumberland.
The Lord Mayor of Newcastle.
The Lady Mayoress of Newcastle.
The Sheriff of Newcastle.
Mrs. Munroe Sutherland.
The Viscountess Allendale.
Col. E. W. Dashwood.
Capt. A. L. Napier (Secretary, Territorial Force Association).
Capt. M. Blackett Ord.
Mrs. Dashwood.
Mrs. Napier.
Mrs. McConnell.
Mrs. Taylor.
Mr. G. H. Armstrong (Hon. Secretary).
Mr. Kenneth Armstrong (Assistant Hon. Secretary).
Mr. C. F. Lloyd, National and Provincial Bank, Moseley Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne (Hon. Treas.).

As may be imagined, the expenses connected with this undertaking are very heavy. The former "Adopters" of prisoners have come forward most generously with their subscriptions but a considerable further sum will be necessary in order to meet the expenditure which for the 450 prisoners now supplied will amount to over £1,000 per month.

A general appeal for funds will shortly be made to the county, but it is hoped that all those interested in the Regiment will contribute what they can to alleviate the lot of our prisoners of war, the large majority of whom have been interned for the past eighteen months or more.

Any subscriptions should be sent to the Hon. Treasurer, and cheques made payable to The Northumberland Prisoners of War Organization.

I am,
Yours faithfully,
E. W. DASHWOOD, Colonel,
Commanding Depôt Northumberland Fusiliers.

P.S.—A number of parcels containing food or clothing intended for particular men who are prisoners of war continues to be received by the Organization. Definite instructions have now been received that such parcels are not to be despatched to prisoners by the Organization.

Parcels of this description can only be returned to the senders, therefore, no more should be sent in.

The following is taken from the Morning Post:—

"THE FIGHTING FIFTH."

NORTHUMBERLAND'S GREAT REGIMENT.

(From A Military Correspondent.)

IT is on record that a woman tried to enlist into a Northumbrian unit during the war, and had she succeeded in her object the feat of Phœbe Hessell would have been equalled. The woman named not only served in the ranks of the Fighting Fifth, but earned a pension from George IV. A stone in the churchyard at Hove commemorates her.

In raising the numerous battalions of the Northumberland Fusiliers for the present war the women have been as keen as the men, and for a long time the famous old regiment led in voluntary recruitment. The spirit of Tyneside and the dales is typified to-day in a regiment of a great number of battalions. This great recruitment of many thousand men is a marvellous record.

Raised in 1674, largely from Irishmen, it has as facings a shade known as gosling green, adopted because the original colour faded so quickly. The regiment won its fusilier cap at Wilhelmstahl, and the red and white plume worn in it was added after St. Lucia, where the men plucked the white feathers from the enemy dead and placed them in their own caps. St. George is the patron saint of the Regiment, and annually a rose is placed in the cap as a reminder of the fact. The Regiment has always done well when opposed to great odds, as Wellington said after El Bodon, and in modern days the tradition has been maintained.

In the present war the 1st Battalion went to France in the 9th Brigade, and shared in the hardships of the Great Retreat. In the first battle of Ypres the Divisional Commander, Gen. Hubert Hamilton, was killed, but Brig.-Gen. Shaw led the brigade with great dash, and the FIFTH added new laurels to their record. In this battle Territorial troops were used for the first time, Northumberland contributing one of the first units engaged. The FIFTH seemed fated to perform great deeds at Ypres, for in the second battle, when the Canadians were hard pressed, the Brigade advanced against St. Julien to relieve the pressure, and its leader, Gen. Riddell, was killed. The brigade was specially thanked by Canadian Headquarters. They suffered heavily in this fine attack, and for Ypres, Festubert, Neuve Chapelle (in particular), and other actions men in six of the battalions were mentioned. Viscount French's last despatch contained a page of Northumberland Fusilier names.

The 2nd Battalion from India took its share of the hard work, and in action after action the many units of the old regiment brought honour to the Colours. Givenchy, Hooge, Loos, La Bassée and the Dardanelles saw men of the FIFTH fighting with a spirit and purpose beyond mere praise, and under Sir Douglas Haig in 1916 the 1st and 12th Battalions were specially mentioned in despatches for work prior to the great offensive.

When the Somme work began the Tyneside men were magnificent, and one of their pipers rivalled Laidlaw in his heroic devotion. Another man was sent back with a message, and was mortally wounded. He struggled on, reached his goal, pointed to his tunic, and said: "It's in here." He then sank down and died. These deeds and many others like those of Morrison and McArthur, who outfought numbers, will live green in memory. The list of mentions was one of the longest sent home from the Somme, and many awards were made.

RESERVE BATTALION RHYMES.

I.

Pity a poor C.O.!
His life is one of woe;
No absentees
In two's and three's,
But ninety-one at a go!
Yes, a hundred or more at a go!

II.

O, the Adjutant!
He fills a long-felt want;
His language on the telephone
Would make Mephistopheles pant.
Yes, Satan would certainly pant.

III.

O, the Assistant Adj.!
He's earned his G.C. badge!
His billets are full
So he'll use the "Black Bull"
And the Wesleyan Chapel engage.
Wont the Wesleyans be in a rage!

IV.

The R.A.M.C. M.O.
Is the man who runs the show.
He finds out the germ in us,
Marks us up "Verminous," Stops our smoking also
Yes, cuts off our "gaspers" also.

V.

O, the Company Cooks!
Their stew so toothsome looks;
But it makes Little Mary
Quite contrary,
I wish they'd read cookery books.
Why don't they read cookery books?

VI.

O, the R.M.P.!
So kind and tender can be!
But watch 'em when halting
A "drunk and assaulting"!
A wondrous sight to see!
Some Jiu-jitsu to see!

VII.

O, the junior "Wart"!
A creature he of naught
He feels he's a blot,
And unhappy his lot.
But we all think him really a "sport."
Yes, undoubtedly he is a "sport."

VIII.

O, the Guard Room clock!
Of time it makes a mock
Its fast or its slow,
Or it just doesn't go.
One day I shall give it a knock.
Yes, give it a really hard knock.

IX.

O, this feeble song!
It's lasted much too long!
But I wont keep you later,
So ring for the waiter,
A whisky for me, please—not strong.
Johnnie Walker—but not going "too" strong.

"MINED!"

ANOTHER St. E. ADVENTURE.

THE morning "stand to arms" was over; and J. L. my fellow Subaltern, and I, had just composed ourselves for a well-earned rest in our dug-out, "Sandbag Villa"—a bijou residence only completed the day before, and the envy of all in the adjoining trenches—when the voice of the Sergeant-Major broke our slumber as he shook my foot—(the nearest part of me to the door)—"The Captain wants to see you and Mr. L. at once in his dug-out, sir." Giving L. a dig in the ribs with my elbow just to make sure he heard too—a necessary precaution since rumour has it he slept through the attack of the Prussian Guard at the first battle of Ypres; I seized my equipment and crawled through the narrow door into the grey light of a morning early in April.

Followed by L., half asleep and still struggling with his straps, I made my way to my Skipper's dug-out. An excited little group stood at the door consisting of S.—my Company-Commander, the Machine Gun Officer, the Company-Sergant-Major, and a Corporal and Private from one of the platoons in my section of the company line.

"Here you are at last" S. growled; "Do you know that they've just heard mining near your dug-out—come and listen." We filed off down the muddy trench to the suspected traverse—now deserted except for a somewhat scared sentry. "Just 'ere, sir, put your 'ed down and you'll 'ear it quite plain."

One by one we listened, with ears pressed against the damp sandbags, and mutters of "quite distinct"—"Evidently a boring machine"—"Hear the beggars talking" broke the expectant silence.

Then my Company-Commander spoke. "I'll report this to Headquarters at once. You," turning to me, "set to work and dig a refused trench, or," pointing to a disused ditch about fifty yards behind where we stood "better put the old one back there into a state of defence;—be as quick as you can, it'll have to be occupied to-night—clear all the men out of these six traverses."

With a groan I turned wearily to obey; it was just my luck that the Bosche should mine my sector of the trench.

I spent the rest of the morning goading weary men into some form of activity, and the knowledge that L. was fast asleep in our dug-out did not make the outlook brighter.

About midday the Mining Officer and his muddy henchman appeared and that evening, after much calculation and careful listening, they set to work to sink a shaft.

Miners are amazingly quick workers and pretty soon they had completely upset the spick and span tidiness which I prided myself always existed in my portion of the line.

The panic, however, was not only confined to my trench—Brigade Headquarters even were shaken out of their proverbial calm, and old trench maps and reconnaissance reports were dug out from the limbo which they had been relegated and hastily re-examined. No report of mining could be discovered, but eventually the description of a patrol carried out by a subaltern of our opposite numbers—the —— Fusiliers—was unearthed. This stated that some craters had been seen near "The Mound" which might be the entrance to a gallery, but as he has been spotted and fired on they could not be more closely investigated.

The "powers that be" evidently decided that this should be enquired into, for at 8 p.m. a message arrived ordering a fresh reconnaissance.

L. and I were detailed to carry out the patrol and at 11 p.m. armed with revolvers and bayonets we warily crossed our parapet, and amidst the clatter of bully beef tins innumerable crawled through our wire into "No Man's Land."

It was a good night for the work in hand, neither too dark nor too light and the German parapet stood out in bold relief as we lay close to the ground taking stock of our position. A continuous hammering came from the direction of the Mound; evidently the Bosche were strengthening their wire or revetments. Occasionally a "Very" light fired from the enemy's line soared into the air—momentarily throwing everything around us into bold relief, to fall with a hissing thud behind our parapet.

Our first objective was a deserted parapet, portion of our old front line before the Bavarians pressed it back earlier in the year; and provided that it was unoccupied by the enemy we intended to use it as a base for our more detailed reconnaissance.

Taking advantage of a lull in the continuous flight of "Very" lights we crawled carefully forward, hugging the ground; our revolvers ready. Suddenly, to my horror, I felt a tug at my leg. Lying perfectly still, I reached down to my foot fully expecting to feel the hairy hand of some enormous Bavarian grasping my ankle. Thank heavens it was only my puttee, which, threequarters unrolled, was trailing behind me and had caught in some stray wire; a halt was called till it was re-rolled, and put on, and we continued our cautious advance.

The deserted parapet was reached without further mishap, and crawling from traverse to traverse, under cover now from any stray bullets, we reached the end of the trench and peered warily out into the ground beyond.

It was then that I suddenly became aware of L.'s new luminous wrist watch, glowing like an electric torch, and to my anxious mind apparently lighting us and our surroundings as no star shell even could have done. Somewhat reluctantly he removed it—(it had only just arrived from home and he was very proud of it). Then the investigation continued; yes there were the craters, now half-full of water and obviously nothing more dangerous than disused shell holes. Our job was over and we were turning to recover the shelter of our disused parapet when a more-than-usually alert sentry opened fire from the enemy's trench.

Our retirement was somewhat precipitate, and when I found myself lying on the ground at the far end of the old trench, L. was not to be seen. He appeared shortly afterwards crawling over the uneven ground like an agitated grampus, and without further mishap we regained our fire trench, and having reported our return retired to "Sandbag Villa."

About 2 a.m. we were roused by troops filing past our dug-out door and discovered that the traverses on either side of us were being cleared of their occupants. I crawled out and hastened to S.'s dug-out, but his news was not reassuring. "Yes, they can be heard quite plainly now, its only a question of time before we break into their gallery; the noises have been getting louder," and he went on to discuss the defence of the threatened portion of the trench.

As we were talking the Sapper Officer appeared in the doorway. "It's all right, sir, we've got your Germans." We both sprang to our feet. "Where are they, have you found the mine?" "No, but we've got the cause of the noise; we've just dug up a nest of rats from under the traverse." I left them to it.

C.H.N.K.

The utility of wrist watch protectors has been confirmed by wearers of wrist watches, particularly that type of protector which completely covers the face of the watch. The T.S. (Time Saving) Protector is probably the most popular one in the Army and Navy. It is a real watch protector, in that the face of the watch is fully covered and effectively protected; looks neat when attached, and improves general appearance. Attaching or detaching is a matter of a few seconds. T.S. fits all types of wrist watches; model A is for stitched-on straps and Ingersoll watches, and the T.S. standard model for all other watches. These protectors, which convert wrist watches into miniature Hunters, can be had in either nickel or khaki finish at 1/- each. They are British made throughout by the old established British firm of John Warrillow, Ltd., Hampton House, Birmingham.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

reported "wounded and missing" in September, 1915. Born at Rickmansworth in 1891, he was at school successively at Cargilfield, Stanmore Park, and Edinburgh Academy. On leaving school he spent a year at the University of Edinburgh, and thence proceeded to Caius College, Cambridge, where he obtained a scholarship. He served as a member of the O.T.C. at Edinburgh Academy and University, and of the Medical Unit at the University of Cambridge. After taking the Natural Science Tripos he entered at University College Hospital as a student of medicine in 1913. At the outbreak of war he proceeded to France with the Australian Voluntary Hospital. In December, 1914, he obtained a commission in a Battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, and after eight months' training with his battalion accompanied it to France. He took part in the battle of Loos and in the assault on Hill 70 on the 26th September. Although twice wounded in the advance he pushed on, and eventually reached a German trench which had been captured by our troops. This was, however, evacuated soon after, and he was then noticed to be missing. As no tidings have since been obtained of him, he is now officially assumed to have been killed on that date.

Regimental Notes.

On the occasion of bidding farewell to a unit which he has commanded for the past eleven months Col. Viscount Maitland says:—"I desire to thank the Officers, Warrant Officers, N.C.O.'s and men for their constant and steadfast support at all times and to express my appreciation of all that they have accomplished. I have been proud to command a unit of a Regiment with such a distinguished past and I shall always look back with pleasure to that period during which I commanded one of its Battalions."

An officer of one of the Oldest and Boldest units writes from France:—

"24th January, 1917.

"So far this winter we have had two extremes, i.e., wallowing in mud for the first half, and now that we want to wallow (on the footer field) we cannot, owing to the exceptionally severe frost. With much weeping and gnashing of teeth we were literally forced to tear ourselves away from that salubrious neighbourhood, where all the attractions of trench warfare were provided (bathing compulsory!).

"We are now in the midst of Divisional Competitions, and judging by appearances should do very well. We have had especially good new talent as regards boxing and expect to do great things in that line. A Sergeants' Mess has been opened, and also a canteen which is run by the Padre—and many thanks to him. As regards departures, Maj. Buckle has left for the Senior Officers' School. He came out this time in October, 1915, and had been second in command practically ever since. Capt. C. M. Cooper, M.C., who was attached to us from the Durham L.I. and joined us in June, 1915, has been wounded and is now doing well. We all wish him a speedy recovery and hope he will return again to this Battalion. C.S.M. Forrest, who was wounded at the same time, has unfortunately had to have a leg amputated. S.M. Forrest was made Actg. Sgt.-Maj. during the Somme, and had just made an application for a commission which he had well earned—and we lose a good soldier by him. Cpl. Weldon was killed soon after he had received the Military Medal, and we shall all miss him with his cheery disposition. Sgt.-Maj. Weldon, his father, had also just received the D.C.M.

"We have to acknowledge, with many thanks, the following gifts sent to the Battalion:—

9,000 Gold Flake and 1,008 packets of Shands Cocoa, from the Comforts Fund, c/o Mrs. Ainslie.
3 Parcels of gloves and socks, from Mrs. Heyder.
4 Parcels mufflers, mitts, shirts and socks, from Queen Mary's Needlework Guild, Wellington-on-Quay.
500 Cigarettes, from E. C. Horne, Esq.
11 doz. Sheepskin soles, from Miss Roddam.
Soap and writing pads, from the Daily Express Cheery Fund."

Maj. Hawkes writes:—

I wonder how many Officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the old —th Battalion who are now training, drafting and defending the coast, and cursing the muddy clay, not a million miles from their own great river, realise that some hundred and twenty years ago their Battalion was doing precisely the same work in the same spot? In 1795 and 1798 the old Battalion (then Militia) faced the sea and the threats of French invasion in the same way as their successors do the German menace, and drafts of "Volunteers" marched singing down the road southward for overseas and Continental service in the same way against the Power which then sought the Military hegemony of Europe. One pictures the Officers and men of the Regiment of that day in stocks and shakoes, coatees and pantaloons floundering through the vicious slime of the coast defences. The men were the same; countrymen from Tynedale and the border, and "Geordies" from the pits. The old names now among the Officers: Coulson, Carr, Ellison, Sanderson, Burdon, Fenwick, Bates, Pierpoint, Burton, Bell, Surtees, Atkinson, Fraser, Nicholson and Reid. Perhaps in still a later century history will again repeat itself and the "Northumberland Buffs" will again experience the joys of Dirt and Drafts.

One of our most faithful and regular correspondents writes:—

"Another month gone, a cold, freezing, chilling month. There is the summing up, in all its stark crudity. Yet we see many war correspondents have got at least a column out of that one fact. Now for our padding:—

"The event of the month has been a March. The scene is set. Icicles hang from the roofs; snow covers the ground; a keen wind blows; the frost has crisped everything; the road winding onward is glacial; the road, too, seems endless; it vanishes in a cloud of dust, half limestone, half ice particles. Time: from 5.30 a.m. onwards.

Officer's Servant: "Please, sir, what is the French for 'lost'?"
Master: "Lost? Why 'Perdu.'"
O.S.: "Well, sir, then your new boots is 'Perdoo,' sir."

In one corner, the thermometer registers 22 degrees of frost, and sticks at that. It has probably gone on strike. The actors are the usual khaki-clad supers whose actions are detailed more or less accurately by the now thawed fountain pen of one of them.

"Act I.—This goes with a swing. Everybody is cheerful. The patter is bright; the music, when the instruments are not frozen, is good. It is a lively act throughout. One of the biggest of knock-about comedian shows, in their tumbling, sliding, slithering turn, holds the stage. Their antics, usually unpremeditated, kept the other actors vastly entertained. But the spirit is contagious; few are immune. Feet shoot up into the air, and packs bump the ice with a bewildering promiscuity. (Mr. Editor, the pen is more than thawed; it must have sprung a leak to manage those words.)

"Act II.—Is not quite so long as Act 1. The patter, like the day, is sparkling and bright, but the action is not so lively. Packs, which began at about 60lbs. are now positively 100. Matters are more sedate.

"Act III.—Shows signs of having something added as an afterthought. The afterthought appears to be but coldly received. But at the end of the 18th scene (or mile) there bursts forth a flickering gem. Enter O.P. a French lady, with a brightly burnished scythe. 'Hi lads, the lady barber is coming!' The strains of the regimental march save the column from collapse after that effort; for the grand finale has been reached. The curtain falls on the Battalion peacefully sleeping.

(We don't know what this is to illustrate but the likeness to Von H— is too good to be lost.—(Editor, St. George's Gazette).

"The following incident occurred in a certain mess after one march. The old dame was garrulous, and as we Northumbrians say, was determined to have 'her bit crack.' She talked on many subjects thus:—

O.D.—Old Dame. B.O.—Bored Officer.

"O.D.—'M'sieu ..... ' (for 5 minutes).

"B.O.—'Oui!'

"O.D.—'Je ..... ' (for another 10 minutes).

"B.O.—'Oui!'

"O.D.—'En soixante dix ..... ' (12½ minutes).

"B.O.—'Oui!'

"O.D.—'Les autres Officiers ..... ' (A good subject this, running to 17 minutes 25 seconds).

"B.O.—'Oui!'

"O.D.—'C'est extraordinaire, mais ..... ' (4 minutes, working up to a climax).

"B.O.—'Oui!'

"O.D.—'Et il parle bien français, comme vous, M'sieu.'

"B.O.—Oui!' And that was all the B.O. had said.

"We welcome to us 2nd-Lieuts. Broadhurst, Brawn, Guthrie; and 2nd-Lieut. A. P. Jones, who has re-joined us after spending some months in England. These are the only social changes to report this month.

"Football is in full swing, and Z Coy. is proving its worth. As soon as the gloves arrive, there will be more 'recreational training.' There may be much unsuspected talent amongst the new men!

"The Officers' team defeated the Sergeants by 2—1 after an even game, not devoid of droll antics. So the defeat of fourteen months ago is avenged."

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
Near WALLINGFORD,
28th February, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

We have several times been asked to do what we can to get information about N.C.O.'s and men posted as missing or killed. We are therefore starting a column under the heading of Information Wanted, in which will appear the names, etc., of those about whom information is desired and of those by whom the information is required. So many relatives of men killed get no news of the death of their loved ones beyond the brief official announcement that we hope that this column may be of some slight assistance to them, and to further this object we appeal to all who read these pages who can help with information in any way to do so. The most trivial incident about a dead comrade's doings and sayings, etc., during his last day or two of life are sure to be treasured by those who mourn him. In the case of men reported as missing some small incident observed by a comrade may act as the sought for link in a chain of evidence which may inspire new hope or end the suspense of a vain search.

I am asked to state that donations towards the Comforts Fund would be gratefully accepted. Much work has already been done this winter (and in this connection our thanks are due to the loyal assistance of the Y.M.C.A., who have supplied a large and continuous number of comforts) in supplying the N.C.O.'s and men proceeding overseas, irrespective of the Battalion they belong to, but, owing to the large number that have already left, the drain on the Comforts Fund is heavy and the amounts already received are insufficient to meet future demands. The purchase of wool and payment of outlying workers in the making up of scarves, socks and mittens, postage, etc., entails a considerable amount of expenditure, and as there are still some months of winter to come, in which the comforts will be needed, it is confidently hoped that donations will still be forthcoming either in money or kind. Cheques should be made payable to Mrs. M. C. Thornton and addressed to, or c/o The Editor, St. George's Gazette, The Old Mill House, Preston Crowmarsh, Near Wallingford.

The following subscriptions are due as from the months shown. We hope that those who see their names in the list will send the amount as soon as possible. Owing to closing the accounts for audit, etc., it has not been possible to publish the lists monthly of late as we have done in the past:—

As will be seen from above lists the work of collecting subscriptions entails a good deal of unnecessary labour. A lot of this would be obviated if subscribers would give their Bankers an order to pay their annual subscriptions regularly. A good many do this but the majority do not. Upon the notice of these we would impress the fact that we have in stock a charming line of Bankers order forms which we shall be delighted to forward to anyone desiring to fill one up and sign it.

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

EXTRACTS FROM "ST. GEORGE'S GAZETTE."

NEWRY,
February, 1887.

On the 15th inst. the County Down Staghounds met near Banbridge, some twelve miles from Newry, and thither repaired those of our sportsmen, keen enough to go that distance for a run. A fine strong deer was uncarted about 1.30 p.m., and ran hard and fast for some twenty minutes, then, doubling back, it passed almost through the field, running fairly straight for nearly threequarters of an hour. Big fields, wide jumps, and high banks, to say nothing of a multitude of stone walls—and once a lock—gave us plenty to do. There were several spills—some rather nasty ones—but we enjoyed a thorough good day's sport, and didn't grumble at having to ride home seventeen miles on tired animals.

A squad of N.C.O.'s and men have been undergoing a course of instruction in stretcher bearing, and a very dismal show they make on the barrack square. We have also a reconnaisance and a heavy gun drill class going on.

Headquarter recruit No. 1740 H. C. W. Berthon has been taken on the strength from 10th inst. (Promoted to a commission in the Royal Highlanders six years later, and was killed at the Battle of Magersfontein, 1899.—EDITOR.)

Lieut.-Col. Vincent has lately presented the Officers' Mess with four volumes of Napier's History of the Peninsular War, a highly interesting and valuable work.

The "Ensign" was the best shot in his squad.

We hope soon to have a good boat down from Belfast, and with it to go in for hard rowing.

There is to be a new appointment in the Regiment, viz., Acting-Assistant-Adjutant for Musketry. Here's a title for some enterprising subaltern! But why he should not be called Musketry Instructor as formerly we have been unable to discover.

Mrs. May and Capt. and Mrs. Money sang at a concert at Newry on the 21st inst., got up by the Church of Ireland Y.M.C.A.

An old soldier, McCartney (better known as "Judy"), visited us a few days ago.

THE ARRIVAL OF BETSY.

YOU have all read the despatches about Gallipoli, so I shant worry you with any of the fine, sappy descriptions one usually finds in stories. This incident is true, and, therefore, scorns padding. But I would like to remind you of the three main factors of life in the never-never land.

First, there were flies, whole seas of them, with a fine cultured taste for plum and apple jam. Second, there was a sun, a big, bloated sun, dropsical from the effects of too much Turkish delight. Third, among the toilers on that parched piece of land almost entirely surrounded with water, there was no female.

Jones, I think, was the man who brought the first news that one was coming. The battalion was resting then. That is, we dodged shells for twenty-three hours in the day, and dug round holes in the ground during the remaining one. We had been six days at it, and were all hankering for the flesh pots of Egypt. Then Jones came back from the base one day with news that a girl was going to cheer our lives.

I was battling with scorpions in my dug-out at the time. Jones is one of those fussy men, always bubbling over with something or nothing to say. His jaw is long and slack, and would be all the better for a tuck in it. He tripped over a jam-tin and fell among the slaughtered scorpions.

"Bill! Bill!" he gurgled, heedless of the fact that his attitude was unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

"What is it?" I asked calmly, pouring some precious water down his neck.

"Oh, Bill! Oh, my prophetic soul ——" was all he could say.

"What is it?" I asked again. "Has Enver Pasha been seen in Berlin, or is it only that peace has been declared?"

"Bill! Oh, listen! There's a girl ——" he stuttered.

"I'd never have thought of it," said I.

"Coming to Gallipoli!" he ended, shouting.

The rum-jar fortunately was near at hand. We drank. Jones calmed a bit.

"The Ordnance man told me just now," he said.

"Her name, rank and regiment?" I asked severely.

"Dunno," said Jones. "Oh! of course—Betsy—that's her name. She'll arrive this afternoon."

"'Twill suffice," said I. "Now to inform the O.C. of events toward."

We found the Colonel performing some tailoring work in the Q.M.'s store. His attire, to put it mildly, was somewhat neglige. The Adjutant smoked pessimistically in the corner. The Q.M. was counting trouser buttons.

"Well—what is it?" said the O.C. sharply. That, by the way, is a habit of colonels when disturbed in a state of nature.

"News to hand, sir," said I, with gravity.

"Out with it!" jerked the O.C.

"A lady, Betsy by name, will arrive at Gallipoli this afternoon."

The Adjutant fainted. The Colonel ran the needle through his thumb. I noticed that the Q.M. was playing tidley winks, in a dazed fashion, with the buttons. Then I withdrew to let the truth sink in.

Jones went back to the base, I to my scorpions. The bag was small that afternoon, owing to interruptions from the excited subalterns. Betsy—Betsy—and nothing but Betsy, was the topic of the day. Seymour was certain she would be an old spook of a hospital matron; Marks thought she would turn out to be an Anti-Rum Campaigner with blue spectacles; I speculated in my soul on something with blue eyes and a startled-fawn appearance

Jones came back at six. He was fuller of beams than ever.

"Betsy's going to live behind us—over there!" and he pointed to some withered bushes that were doing their level best to look like a vineyard.

That night was a wild orgy, dimly resembling the mixture of a Parliamentary Debating Society, a bombing attack, and an Orange Demonstration. But we got to sleep at last, dreaming of Betsy.

Jones awakened me next morning. He was boiling over.

"Come up and pay your respects to Betsy," he gurgled. "She's just arrived, I believe."

"Bong!" responded I, demonstrating that knowledge of French that nearly got me an interpreter's job once.

I dressed hurriedly but circumspectly. First impressions are, for women, final impressions. We strolled over to the vineyard.

And there was Betsy! Fresh from England and looking in top form. She did not seem to mind the shells that were dropping about.

"Morning, Betsy," I said. She didn't seem to resent the familiarity one bit.

Then she did an unladylike thing. She spat! Yes—spat! And her nose lifted into the air. She was a beautiful gun.

"Guess Betsy's first shell will waken up John Turk a bit!" said someone behind me. Jones was weeping silently in his disappointment. But not this chicken. I walked straight up to Betsy, and disregarding the conventions, patted her sleek nose.

"Good girl!" I said. "Good girl! Only wish there were more like you."

But the Colonel and the others didn't take it quite so calmly.

THE PRESIDENT'S OYSTERS.

(A true episode for which the occurrence is vouched by the author, who claims to have been an eye-witness thereof).

IT was to Scootum-on-Sea that I had to go as prosecutor. I entered the small, chilly Court-Martial room and sat down by the fireplace.

It was some time before I noticed the fire.

In the opposite chair the junior member whiffed an Egyptian through a well-coloured meerschaum holder.

Near the door a despondent Superintendent of Police (evidence in the case of J. Pte. Snoggins, deserter) sucked at a positively atrocious cherut.

I lit my old and fragrant Dunhill in protest.

We were thus occupied when my President entered.

He was a fine figure of a man with a breezy, genial and vigorous manner.

Almost before he was in the room his cap and coat were on a peg, his cigarette case had returned to his pocket, and he had a Gold Flake in full blast.

He was certainly an austere man.

His method in dealing with the family of a conscientious objector was worthy of King Solomon at his best.

A member was late—very late indeed—and you should have just heard how the wires between Scootum and Brigade Headquarters buzzed with the fury of my President's discourse.

That night was a stormy one, and next morning four telephone wires were down—the papers said it was the wind—but I am sure that at least one of them must have been the President.

By all this you will have seen that my President was no ordinary mortal. But you have not yet heard about the oysters.

So listen now (this is quite, absolutely and entirely true).

As he entered the room he had said something in an off-hand way about oysters.

Needless to say I at once marked him as a great man, but even so I was underating him.

I supposed, in short, that the oysters were to form part of his luncheon as pleasing entrée, no doubt—that he would consume them then and there in open court never occurred to me somehow.

And yet no less an intention was formulating in that master mind at the very moment when we three men of lesser intellect were still groping in darkness.

The Court Orderly came in, a twinkle in his eye, and a straw bag in his left hand

With a cry of rapture my President, scarcely remembering to acknowledge the N.C.O.'s salute, seized the bag and drew from it three parcels. The first was obviously a bottle.

The second was square and hard.

The third was shapeless.

Could he have thought—?

He could and had.

Oysters, stout, brown bread and butter.

The complete trumvirate.

So great a man could not fail to offer his companions an oyster apiece, but we were modest fellows.

It was not for us to eat, and to eat oysters moreover with this giant of intellect.

We might wait humbly on him, perhaps, but he must eat alone.

The oysters were produced in court, signed by the President, marked "X" and attached to the proceedings.

Question I.—Do you object to be eaten by me as President or by any of the Officers whose names you have heard read over?

There could be only one answer—

One by one those incomparable shell-fish disappeared down that magnificent throttle. Assisted with a Jack knife.

He never stopped save to sip the stout, upending the bottle in true British style, to stow away the brown bread and butter, and once to smack his lips.

When all was over he had even procured a second pocket handkerchief on which to wipe his mouth.

* * * *

The member who was late never turned up at all in the end and so we did no business—but as the junior member and myself bowled homewards in the Police Superintendent's car we felt that the day had been very far from uneventful.

THE TRAGEDY OF KEMMIL HILL.

'WAS on the grassy slopes of Kemmil Hill,
This tragedy was acted quite by chance;
The moon was screened by clouds and all was still;
The line lay quiet as if 'twas in a trance!
A thousand yards behind the firing line
There stood a little cottage by the road;
This was Headquarters with a Staff of nine
And to and fro in front a sentry strode
And as this sentry is the man who chiefly Concerns us in this tragic little story,

Digitized by Google

I will describe him to you very briefly,
That you may see him robed in all his glory!
He was arrayed as soldiers usually are,
And carried rifle, bayonet, but no pack,
For though he really was quite muscular,
He did not want the weight upon his back.
Also you see a satchel round his shoulder
Which holds his trusty helmet (anti-gas)
And who would wish to see a sentry bolder
For I would swear he'd stop the Huns en-masse,
And when this man on sentry go was posted
The N.C.O. in charge his orders read
And various other hints his knowledge boasted
Of, to give him help the narrow path to tread,
And in his orders he was told that if
The Hunnine gas the gentle breeze did waft,
His was to do—not die, to act, not sniff,
To strike the gong like one possessed or daft.
Again I say that everything is still,
The nightingales are singing in the wood,
The transport rumbles softly near the hill.
The S.M.'s finished doling out the food
But hark! what's that? is something torn?
Is it my breeks? No. 'tis the horn,
"The Gas, The Gas" the sentry cried,
His hand into his satchel hied,
He thought "if gassed I may be dead
And if I'm dead I'll be no use,"
So then he played a clever ruse
And put his helmet on his head,
But he was really much too quick
And put the thing on hind before
So tried to turn it round, a trick which Choked him more and more and more—
Then suddenly he saw his duty plain,
Remembering he had to strike the gong
And striking blindly broke the window pane,
Which, if you read the orders through, was wrong.
But meanwhile what is happening in the house?
Does H.Q. sleep? the gas with contempt treating
No, No, they wake as wakes the startled louse,
Upon that dreaded cry of "Keating, Keating."
They heard the call, they leaped from palliasse,
Donning their armour ready for the fray
And through their visors damned the bally gas;
Looking like knights of ages far away.
The Second-in-Command in trying to go
Straight for the door, fondly embraces the stove,
And looked indeed just like some Romeo
Wooing his Juliet—his love to prove,
But then I think he found her far too hot,
And threw her from him in profound dismay;
The breath she fanned had burnt him quite a lot.
And so with knightly curse he strode away
The H.Q. Staff was waiting on the road
Waiting for clouds of gas their view to screen.
When after half an hour one said: "I'm blowed
If I don't hear the nightingale serene,
And if the nightingale has not been gassed
I well suppose the air must still be clear,"
They moved their masks and now each face was placid
And from each chest there burst a silent cheer.

Now, gentle reader, probably you think
There's nothing tragic in this yarn I've spun,
And as at present I've run out of ink,
I'll tell you this—there really wasn't one.

BAR TO MILITARY MEDAL.

The undermentioned have been awarded a Bar to their Military Medal:—

No. 5310 Pte. J. G. Andrews, No. 24346 Cpl. J. D. Jefferson, No. 415 Pte. L. Wearmouth, No. 37281 Cpl. J. Gray.

MILITARY MEDAL AWARD—CORRECTION.

Gazette of 19th Feby., 1917, for No. 26/929 Lce.-Cpl. F. J. Graham, read No. 26/928 Lce.-Cpl. F. J. Graham.

His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the Military Medal for bravery in the Field to the undermentioned N.C.O.'s and men, since deceased, who have been killed in action or died of wounds or disease subsequent to the date of the award of the Military Medal to them by the Commander-in-Chief in the Field:—

No. 27/110 Lce.-Cpl. J. S. Clark, No. 26/929 Lce.-Cpl. F. J. Graham, No. 12884 Sgt. T. S. Silverton.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

LCE.-SGT. GEORGE GIBBISON.

Alnwick. He enlisted into the 5th Fusiliers and when war broke out was serving in India. He came to France with the Regiment and served with them through the strenuous times which his Battalion experienced on the Western Front, being twice wounded. After recovering from his second wound he was drafted to his old Battalion in the Mediterranean, where he received his third and fatal wound. He was regarded as a keen young soldier and was popular with his comrades. All ranks regret his loss and extend their sympathy to his family in their sorrow.

LCE.-SGT. GEO. GIBBISON.

Regimental Notes.

SOME ECHOES FROM E.B.

The old "Third Legion" is still at it. Dirt and Drafts, Drill and Defaulters, Bomb, Bayonet and Bitter Weather, Physical Training and Physical Fatigue. And for what? Name and Fame? Witness as follows:—

LADY WAR-WORKER, to Draft-Finding-Coy.-Commander: "Really! So you're in the —th Battalion at Exxx Bxxxxx! That's the Special Constable Battalion, isn't it?"

Football flourishes. The Company "Knock-out" Competition is in progress and the Regimental XI. sustained a narrow defeat on Saturday, the 17th March, at the hands of the "Faithful" Pitshire Light Infantry.

1ST SUBALTERN: "I'm fed up with this parade and trench work. I've applied for the Flying Corps."

2ND SUBALTERN: "So am I. I've put in for the Tanks."

3RD SUBALTERN: "I've done my bit in France. I'm down for an Agricultural Company and a Staff billet."

4TH SUBALTERN: "Well, I dunno. Rightly or wrongly, I joined the Old Regiment and, by Gad, I'm going to stick to it, at home or abroad."

The others, in pitying derision: "Silly Ass!"

The above conversation (we hope) is entirely exceptional.

FROM A SERVICE BATTALION.

The following awards have lately come our way:—

MILITARY CROSS.

Maj. J. S. Allen, attd. R.N.S., and Lieut. Armitage.

MILITARY MEDAL.

Sgt. T. S. Silverton (killed in action) and Lce.-Sgt. W. Taylor.

MENTIONED IN DESPATCHES.

Lieut. W. F. Robertson, C.S.M. A. Richardson and Sgt. T. Stafford.

Our hearty congratulations to each of the recipients, and the only regret that one did not live to enjoy his honour.

The inclusion of "Bill" is a tribute to his energy and hard work. The devotion to duty that closes one's eyes to the alluring auction table and guides one to the stronghold to deal there with the whims of Staff-Captains and others to whom the shortage of paper may mean a serious lack of munitions.

Several Officers have figured lately in the sick list of whom Lieut.-Col. S. P. Westmacott, D.S.O., and Capt. A. J. B. Tanfield are in Blighty. Lieut.-Col. A. W. Blockley is at present commanding the Battalion.

It was with the deepest regret we learned of the death from wounds of 2nd-Lieut. G. A. T. Burdon-Sanderson. Although only with us a few months he had quickly gained popularity with all.

Football activity has been above normal recently. Our Battalion team has covered itself with mud and glory, having only suffered one reverse this season, and that against a branch of the Service who have better opportunities for keeping a team together.

The Inter-Platoon matches also have caused a great deal of interest. At the time of writing the final is yet unplayed, Nos. 6 and 15 Platoons being still survivors.

The running of a team by Battalion Headquarters was a source of some discussion. Are those confined in the guard room eligible to play as being temporarily attached to Headquarters?

A few Rugger games have taken place also, but this game does not find much favour with the average Tynesider.

They talk of hunting being stopped at home. What of it? Faith, but they should see the finest sight that ever graced a lawn meet at Larne, at all. Pill box, pedigree very unknown. Paddy up. Shades of the Cathartics! 'Tis great health till the Pillbox moves, then 'tis great punishment.

From the foregoing it may be presumed we are where we are. Where we shall go eventually is of no consequence. The three burning questions of the moment being:—(1) Is leave ever going to open again? (2) The wet canteen? (3) Were ye ever at Marne Cross?

In conclusion, I must tell of a certain incident which happened in this Battalion not long ago. The Regiment on our right had been counter-attacked. Lewis guns and well placed shrapnel had rendered the enemy's effect a wash-out and the remnants doubling back to their own line offered a nice target to our riflemen. Voice from a piece of trench occupied by our Right-Company: "Sergeant, this ——'s shot ma —— what'll a dae?" "He's he, by — aal reet, he forfeits his staake ony weay."

FROM PIONEERS.

11th March, 1917.

Our short stay in a sequestered vale was enlivened by an inter-Platoon Soccer Tournament. Many exciting matches were played, and the final resolved itself into a great struggle between No. 3 and No. 10 Platoons. A draw, 1—1, was the result, even after extra time, and a worthy occasion was crowned by the Commanding Officer awarding prizes to all 22 players. They had earned their reward, for all games were splendidly contested.

We were very comfortable there, too comfortable, in fact, to be allowed to stay. So off again on trek. Finally we arrived here, somewhere on the map, and back to work again. It is almost superfluous to talk of mud. There are stories of men arriving in the front line minus puttees, boots and in some cases trousers, S.D. Such a state of affairs gave rise to a sage remark. The Draining Expert of the Battalion was on leave, and being detained on return at the English Port, he contracted German measles (and he hates anything German, too!). The situation was summed up by one of his Company: "Mind, if Capt. —— knew there was so much water about here, he would be back to-morrow, measles or no measles."

A lively concert took place recently, the feature being the revelation of talent amongst the "H.Q." Officers. Those who did not perform, helped to constitute, in the words of the M.O., "Part of the intelligent audience." Lieut. Watson as a "Geordy" sang "Blaydon Races" and delighted the audience. It is regretted that the Battalion Artist was unable to be present, for the chance of an immortal sketch was lost. Lieut. Watson's best friends wouldn't have recognised him.

Lieut. Anthony, Sgt. Aynsley and Lce.-Cpl. Tomlinson (R.E.)—"a dainty bit of fluff"—gave a highly diverting turn, the former's rendering of "Oh, lady of a thousand charms" being weirdly impressive. While Cpl. Armstrong and others enlivened still further a delighted audience with a restaurant scene. The offer of two Green Envelopes for two "Dips" seemed to suggest a new form of corruption of cooks. Altogether our thanks are due to all performers for an excellent entertainment. Now there are rumours of a Revue!

There is little of a humorous nature at present; or else everyone with a funny story relates it elsewhere, fearing the publicity of print. One Company-Commander was bearded in his den, and asked to relate some cynical remark made by his men.

"Surely with so much MUD there will be some apt remarks?"

"No. All they say is——!!! ——!!! ——!!!." So we must be content with such an accurate translation.

At one billet, a chateau, the lady companion, who spoke excellent English, complained thus: "I can talk to the Officers and I can talk to the men. I can understand the Officers, but I cannot understand the men at all." But to understand NORTHUMBRIAN dialect is a gift, not an acquisition, my lady.

Perhaps one of the "H.Q." Batmen had said: "Aa wadn't mind staying heor for the Duration."

The following new Officers have joined us during the month:—2nd-Lieuts. Airley and Witham; while 2nd-Lieut. J. R. Davies has rejoined after being away nearly a year.

Lieut. and Qrmr. G. H. Hill has gone to England—sick, and Lieut. Cheffins and 2nd-Lieut. Hicks are in hospital.

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
Near WALLINGFORD,
31st March, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

Does any Commanding Officer wish to acquire, free of charge, either on loan or for keep, as a Battalion Mascot, a fine blue Great Dane, 1½ years old, very quiet? Present owner has not time to exercise it properly, hence his desire to find it a new home. Applications should be made through the Editor, St. George's Gazette, as soon as possible. If more than one application is received lots will be drawn to decide to which applicant the gift shall go.

By some error the name of Q.M.S. E. Gale was omitted from the list of N.C.O.'s mentioned for valuable services rendered in connection with the war which we published in the February number. We hasten to rectify the omission. Probably no N.C.O. in the Regiment has had to bear greater burdens of responsibility than have been laid upon the shoulders of Q.M.S. Gale. Those who share the dangers and discomforts of the firing line reap their reward of glory, but what of those to whose lot falls the labour of keeping the machine oiled and smooth running? Their reward must needs be mainly in the knowledge, borne out by the hourly evidence of visible facts, of duty well and truly performed. The gratitude of their country has been manifested to them by the publication of these lists and we venture to assert that no name published in that long list of names was more worthy of inclusion than that of Q.M.S. E. Gale.

The names of some of the places mentioned in the published reports of the recent Hun retirement in the West will recall to some of our readers (though we fear that their numbers must be relatively small by this time) vivid recollections of the stirring events of 1914. Shall any of those who still live and who took part in it ever forget that last stretch from Ham to Noyon? or rather to the little hamlet of Crissolles, just east of Noyon, where we finally crawled into billets on Friday, the 28th August, after breaking off the battle of Le Cateau on Wednesday evening, the 26th? We doubt it! We ourselves still have very lively memories both of Ham and Noyon. To us Ham is inseparably connected with two incidents; first the tragedy of fate which caused us to ride a horse we had made as a substitute to the Company nag, which had become a casualty right past not only the battery which originally owned it but the very trumpeter who had lost it at Le Cateau, and who, in consequence had been doomed to traverse many miles of route pavé on his flat feet. Needless to say at the very next halt we had to relinquish our mount. The second incident was also a tragedy. Having been told off to support the outpost line on the east bank of the Canal we proceeded, after some consultation, to cut up and cook a fat juicy goose, which we had procured at St. Quentin on the previous night, and some rabbits which we discovered at Ham itself. Alas, no sooner had we got the savoury mess nicely simmering at the back of the Cemetery than we were ordered to pack up and get back across the water. It was that crucial moment of the goose's culinary career when it was too raw to eat and too cooked to carry, so with deep sighs of regret we had perforce to commit the remains to a neighbouring midden lest the oncoming Huns should find a nicely cooked meal awaiting the arrival of their advanced patrols.

Noyon town itself we saw only in the dark but its name brings back to our mind one of the (to us then) most highly thrilling sights of the early part of the war, namely a fight in the air. It was the second one we had seen and we shall never forget the way in which a couple of little French monoplanes buzzed around a big Taube like sparrows round a hawk, finally driving it in sullen retreat away to its own lines. Such fights to-day are the constant spectacle afforded to those at the Front but in those days we thought we had been privileged to see something the like of which very few would have the opportunity to witness. We were wrong—very wrong—but still we have always since then connected the name of Noyon with that fight in the air.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TO-DAY.

EXTRACTS FROM "ST. GEORGE'S GAZETTE."

NEWRY,

31st March, 1887.

St. George's Day, our sixth in succession in Ireland, falls this year on a Saturday, and we hope to see some old familiar faces on that day round the festive board. The parade for trooping the colours cannot be a very large one, as we have three Companies on Detachment.

On the 22nd February Lieuts. Eagar and Carleton, "The King's Own," played an exciting racket match at Cheltenham College against the two boys who are to represent Cheltenham in the Public Schools Matches at Easter. After each side had won three games the superior strength and staying powers of the "old" boys came in and they won the seventh game, and the match.

No. 1991 Sgt. A. E. Lloyd and 10 men have proceeded to Dublin and are attached to the Commissariat and Transport Corps for instruction in Regimental Transport duties.

2ND BATTALION NOTES.

MEEAN MEER.

On Monday, the 21st February, our ball to Gen. and Mrs. Murray came off with great eclât. A guard of honour, under Lieut. Braithwaite, received the General. The outside of the mess house was illuminated as well as the approaches to it.

Dancing was kept up till a late hour, and our thanks are due to Capt. Sturges, who made all the arrangements.

DEPOT NOTES.

Lieut.-Col. Robinson paid us a visit the other day looking as fresh as ever. (I wonder if J.K.S., who I am pleased to know is still going strong, is aware that Gazette readers are hungering for an article now and then from his facile pen!—EDITOR.)

DOGGEREL FOR DRAFTS.

(With apologies to "The Bing Boys.")

A SUBALTERN there was who was drilling his Platoon,
And of drill he'd no more notion than the man that's in the moon,
So he bleated "Pick it up, there; change direction left—Right Form!
And another month of "Square" didn't do him any harm!
Chorus.—Another month of Square, another month of Square,
Another month of Square didn't do him any harm, etc., etc.

II.

The Bombing Officer was throwing "live" one day
When a "number five" exploded in a most alarming way,
But his cardigan was splinter-proof beneath his British warm,
So a faulty Detonator didn't do him any harm.
Chorus.—Didn't do him any harm, didn't do him any harm,
So a faulty Detonator didn't do him any harm, etc., etc.

III.

The M.O. was inoculating subalterns with glee,

Chorus.—Another little dose, another little dose, etc., etc.

IV.

The Sniper Scouts were sniper-scouting one fine summer's day,

For another little drink, wouldn't do us any harm"!
Chorus.—Another little drink, another little drink, etc., etc.

V.

So he crammed 'em into billets to keep 'em snug and warm
Saying: "Another dozen in a room won't do 'em any harm.
Chorus.—A dozen in a room, a dozen in a room, etc., etc.

VI.

Now Zeppelin and Tirpitz were a hatching out their plots

Chorus.—Vot you call vorm stuff, vot you call vorm stuff, etc., etc.

The Draft-Conducting Officers sat in a draught one day,

Said one "I feel Lee-Barkerous, too ill to even shave!"
The other—"Faith, I feel so bad I'll soon be in Se-grave!"
Chorus.—Soon be in Se-grave, soon be in Se-grave, etc., etc.

So another little push won't do us any harm!

A PRISONER OF WAR.

Lines written by X.

THERE'S a Vale for which I am sighing,
I can see its fences still,
And my thoughts go backwards flying
With the pack to Golden Hill.
I can hear that welcome holloa
"G-o-n-e Away! He's broke at last"!
Hear the thundering hoofs that follow
As I ride into the Past.

Memories, bitter, sweet, come thronging
As I pace the prison ground
And my heart is sick with longing
For a sight of horse and hound.
But however drear the days be Fair or foul, or rain or shine,
Not the Fates themselves can rob me
Of those Hunts that once were mine.

Pause a moment, oh! my brothers
Who at home so glibly prate
How you hope to see fox hunting
Soon abolished by the State.
We have fought for you and gladly,
Will you now requite us thus?
Kill the sport we love so madly?
Think what hunting means to us!

For the sake of those who're absent
For the sake of those who're gone
All those gallant, cheery comrades
Who once rallied to the horn;
For the youngsters, true to breeding
Longing now the game to learn—
Let us soldier exiles' pleading
Keep it going till we return.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Thomas Baird, Northumberland Fusiliers.—He took a party of men forward to bridge a gap, and succeeded in establishing touch with the battalion on his right. On another occasion he led a bombing attack and drove off the enemy. Later, he assisted in rescuing many wounded men.

2nd-Lieut. Mitchell Miller Brodie, Northumberland Fusiliers.—He led his platoon with great gallantry, and repelled a hostile raiding party at a critical time. He set a splendid example to his men.

2nd-Lieut. William Richmond Clephan, Northumberland Fusiliers.—He carried out several dangerous reconnaissances and obtained most valuable information. Later he led an offensive patrol and made a gallant attempt to rush an enemy sap. He was wounded.

Tempy. Capt. David Lindsay, Northumberland Fusiliers.—He went forward through a heavy hostile barrage to the new front line and returned with most valuable information. Later he took command of a company and was largely responsible for saving a critical situation.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

An intimate friend writes of him:—"Harrison was a whole-hearted enthusiast in whatever he undertook, fearless and courageous, beloved by his many friends. By his death a life of great promise has been cut off in the midst of achievement and success." He was the only son of the late W. Harrison and of Mrs. Harrison, of Bedford. While at College, both before and after joining the Cadet Battalion, he gave every sign of a promising career. Among other things he had done excellent service with the Cambridge Fruit Pickers' Mission at Wisbech. Though he was only a short time with his Battalion, his commanding officer writes that he was one of the real right sort, and that the Regiment will feel his loss, while a brother officer writes that "he was a splendid officer and kind and considerate to his men, who loved him in life and mourned him in death."

Regimental Notes.

Our faithful Pioneer writes:—

April, 1917.

And it came about that the Battalion moved, such being in the order of things, and new billets were found, for a while.

The vital force drew us onward again; for in the ridiculous phrase of the science manuals "Nature abhors a vacuum." So granted that the gentle enemy retired, the Army was drawn on in pursuit.

That is old news, but it has a peculiar bearing on the fortunes of several of the unfortunates whose actions and speeches are hereby recorded monthly, with the perseverance, if not with the literary flavour, of a Boswell.

The billet was roofless; and the ceilings leaked. The back rooms—well, there weren't any. Draughts were the chief product and "P.U.O." cases the chief export. Four were to occupy one room, a cheerless, windowless, airy place. The fitting of the kits and general impedimenta of four Officers formed a jig-saw puzzle, neatly solved by the M.O. It was satisfactory, so long as the weather was fine. Of course it rained, with that beautiful persistency which keeps up the price of trench coats.

Loud cries from two, whose blankets mopped up a record supply of water in record time. The M.O. slept, heedless of the epithets that whizzed around him. After much dodging and shuffling the two water rats avoided the greater number of the trickling streams and settled down, reviling the Doc. for taking the best place under all that remained of a huge bed—a heavy cloth canopy just under the ceiling! For the fourth lodger in the room—well, he lay and chuckled as the angry phrases reached him. "Wily old fox, the Doc. ..... He's done us all." .....

Again peace. A vigorous outburst of language from the M.O. roused the other three, and shrieks of delight echoed through the building. The Doc., fly old bird, was inundated. The benevolent canopy had held the rain and now sagged and dripped on to the M.O.'s bed. One only was dry—for explanation, reconnoitre the other side of the ceiling.

* * * * * *

This indirect, anecdotal method of newsgiving is becoming a vice. The next tale is of two batmen. All ranks had been duly warned as the official still reiterates, of the wiles of the benevolent Hun, and all waxed exceeding wary.

Two went out a-hunting as any good batmen will do. They coveted a small lamp in an unoccupied ruin, and were, according to ancient ritual, about to find it. They saw more things and generally tinkered about. Suddenly a sharp sound rang out. "Whir-r-r-r——whir-r-r-r——" ran some infernal mechanism. The batmen fled. Just as they reached the door, another mechanical sound succeeded the whirring noise. "Cuckoo! Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" The old clock had struck three!

* * * * * *

Summer has come. The cuckoo in the clock was not the harbinger. He was easily beaten by the Higher Authorities. The advent of summer would have caused no comment in these pages but for the method of its coming. It intrigued one, it gave one furiously to think, and many other things all couched in similar futuristic language. But it was effective. As a piece of psychological study it is worthy of a permanent record, Thirty years from now, a harassed Editor of the Gazette will reprint it; header writers will quote it; writers on psychology will gloat over it.

You see, summer had come in. But how to convince the Army that summer had begun? A simple matter! "Summer time will come into force at 11.0 p.m. to-night" said the order. A few stale jokes were made and our watches were advanced an hour. That was easy, and into our receptive, willing minds the idea fell, and germinated. It was summer. Summer had come; yes, it was summer even if the country were snow-clad. That was merely an oversight on the part of nature. The auto-suggestion was complete, and the first stage was completed.

The subsequent order was just:—"All second blankets will be returned to D.A.D.O.S. forthwith." Well, it was summer, and we of course don't need them. The billets would soon thaw! Anyway it was summer time. But what is worrying us is how the Higher Authorities are going to get our sole remaining blanket from us. They can't pitch the tale on the 31st May that summer will begin again on the 1st June.

Auto-suggestion has its limits; and simply to withdraw the blankets will be an anti-climax.

The question now is: "How to wear roses in tin helmets on St. George's Day?"

* * * * * *

Capt. Wilson, R.A.M.C., has gone to hospital and is off to the Mediterranean, thanks to the trick played on him by the canopy and airy billet. Lieut. Draper, R.A.M.C., has taken his place.

Maj. Sharp has returned to duty after attending the course in England.

The "—— Legion" celebrated St. George's Day in the less formal manner necessitated by the present "bickering" with the All-Highest and his minions. After the two ordinary morning Parades a Drum-head service was held on the Parade-ground at Exxx Bxxxxx. The Headquarters Companies were on Parade and the two Companies on Detachment at "The Highland Home." After the troop music had been played a short Service took place ending with a capital (and brief) address by the Padre. The Officers and the Sergeants were photographed and in the afternoon a Football match between the Officers and Sergeants was played at Headquarters and the final of the Detachment Inter-Platoon Challenge Cup took place at the "Highland Home." In this No. 23. Platoon beat No. 22. Platoon by 6 goals to nil, though the play was better than the score would seem to indicate. Owing to an epidemic of measles in the neighbourhood the Sergeants' Ball at Headquarters and at "The Highland Home" was in both cases postponed, but two excellent sing-songs filled the gap. The state of the ground necessitated the postponement also of the Sports. The Dinner in the Officers' Mess was attended by the Brigadier and the Brigade-Major and by those of our Officers attached to the Brigade Staff. We were all delighted also to welcome Major Ovans and Major G. P. Westmacott, D.S.O., the latter on sick leave from France, but looking almost like the old "Bairn," the 2nd and the old 3rd used to know and appreciate.

All ranks of the Battalion saw, with regret, the Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
Near WALLINGFORD,
30th April, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

In stating that for the third year in succession St. George's Day finds the "Old and Bold" Regiment celebrating the anniversary of the death of its Patron Saint upon the Field of Glory, we may be accused of imitating the Arch Hun in his natal day proclamations. But the fact remains, and where else could it be better recorded than in the pages of St. George's Gazette? How soon St. George's Day will be again celebrated by the 5th Fusiliers by the time-honoured ceremony of trooping the colour is still a matter of wide conjecture, as is also the probability of its ever again being marked with the pomp and circumstance of scarlet coat and plumed head-dress. Of this fact, however, we are sure—that, if humanly possible, the first St. George's Day after the declaration of the peace with victory which we all desire and demand will see the colour trooped with as grand a display of soldierly manhood, bearing and movement (though the glitter be absent), as has been seen in days gone past, and—we shall use every endeavour to be there. In the meantime we extend to all our very best wishes.

Our St. George's Day supplement is the work of Lieut. — Lawrence, of the — Service Battalion (Pioneers). Its appropriateness to St. George's Day, 1917, needs no explanation and we are muchly indebted to the artist for the original, which he drew especially for us.

Fifth Fusiliers and others who know him will be sorry to hear that Col. Hargreaves has now entirely lost his eyesight. On their behalf and on behalf of those, too, who have not been privileged to number him among their personal acquaintances we extend to him our deepest sympathy in the tribulation which has overtaken him.

We have been asked to give the publicity of the St. George's Gazette to the following in the hopes of solving the mystery. Sgt. C. B. Barrow, formerly in the Leicestershire Regiment and now in the —th T.R. Battalion (Regimental No. 13223), was knocked out by a sniper after getting to the 3rd German lines in the Bayantine-le-Pettit Woods battle on the 14th July, 1916. He was wounded in several places and when lying on the ground a shell knocked down a tree which pinned him under it. He was extricated by (he thinks) an Officer in the Regiment, who fed him and dressed his wounds and carried him into a German dug-out. The Germans counter-attacked but were defeated, though a shell exploding in the dug-out did a bit more damage to Sgt. Barrow. His father, B. Langdale Barrow, Esq., of Sydnope Hall, near Matlock, is very anxious to find out who the Officer was but so far has failed to do so. Can any reader of the Gazette assist? and if so will he write to Mr. Barrow at the above address.

We received messages of good-will on St. George's Day from Lieut.-Col. Roundell and the Officers, — Battalion, and Mrs. Salier who sent telegrams, and Lieut.-Col. Herbert and the Officers, — Battalion, 5th Fusiliers, who sent a charming card. To all we return our thanks and reciprocate their good wishes.

The following is an extract from the Times Correspondent's account of the recent fighting in the Arras district, published on the 30th April:—"Other English troops to whom a tribute is due are the Northumberland Fusiliers, who took the chief part in a very important advance and won a large area of ground, including a position of much strategic value."

The following casualties, taken from The Times, have regretfully to be recorded:—

PRISONERS OF WAR.

The following is taken from the Newcastle Evening Chronicle, 17th April, 1917:—

AN appeal has been issued by the Northumberland Prisoners of War Organisation for financial aid in carrying on the work of the fund. It is stated that six parcels per month are sent to each prisoner, and in addition bread is forwarded weekly. The appeal states:—

"The average cost per prisoner for parcels of food, exclusive of bread and tobacco, is, approximately, 10/- per week, and with bread and tobacco, the total estimated annual expenditure represents £14,000.

"The number of prisoners on our list to-day is 459, but it is feared that this number may be added to during the course of the current year.

"During the first years of the war, parcels sent to prisoners were merely extras to add to their comfort and welfare, but since last autumn, the food supplied through this and other kindred organisations has practically been their sole sustenance. 'If it were not for the parcels of food, we would have starved,' is the statement of prisoners who have recently been liberated, and it will be seen, therefore, how absolutely necessary it is that a regular and sufficient supply of food should be provided.

"The total number of parcels despatched from the date when the organisation took up its duties to the 28th February last is no less than 7,344, exclusive of bread and cigarettes, and these, at an average weight of 10 lbs., represent a total despatch from our Depôt of practically 33 tons—acknowledgments of the receipt of parcels are now being received regularly from prisoners, who express satisfaction with their contents.

"Cheques and Postal Orders should be sent to our Treasurer, Mr. C. F. Lloyd, National Provincial Bank of England, Ltd., Mosley Street, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

"The Committee of the Organisation consists of the following:—The Viscountess Allendale (President), His Grace the Duke of Northumberland, K.G., Col. Dashwood, Capt. A. L. Napier, Capt. Blackett-Ord, Mrs. Napier, Mrs. Dashwood, Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. T. From the "Evening Chronicle," 7th April, 1917:—

CEREMONY AT NEWCASTLE BARRACKS.

LIEUT.-GEN. Sir John G. Maxwell, G.C.B., General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Northern Command, presented a number of military medals to soldiers or their relatives at Newcastle Barracks this morning. He was attended by Gen. Montgomery, Brig.-Gen. English, Brig.-Gen. Kelly, Brig.-Gen. Westmacott, Brig.-Gen. Hickman, Col. Coveye, Col. Burrows, Col. Somerset, Col. Dashwood (Commanding North. Fusrs., Depôt), Lieut.-Col. Frend, Lieut.-Col. James, Maj. Ovans (Military Secretary, York) Maj. Lipscombe, the Lord Mayor of Newcastle (Councillor George Lunn), and the Sheriff (Councillor Arthur Munro Sutherland).

The presentation took place in the Barrack Square, where troops were lined up on parade. The following were among the recipients:—

DISCHARGED SOLDIERS.

D.C.M., C.S.M. A. E. Bone, Northumberland Fusiliers.
M.M., Sgt. H. McLean, Northumberland Fusiliers.
T.F. Eff., C.S.M. J. Ord, Northumberland Fusiliers.
T.F. Eff., C.S.M. J. P. Parker, Northumberland Fusiliers.
T.F. Eff., Cpl. J. T. Pickering, Northumberland Fusiliers.

DECEASED SOLDIERS.

M.M., Sgt. B. Cuffe, Northumberland Fusiliers (Mrs. Cuffe).
" Pte. W. Jackson, Northumberland Fusiliers (Mrs. Jackson)
" Cpl. D. Kelly, North. Fusrs. (Mrs. Kelly—Mother).
" " J. Wood, North. Fusrs. (Mr. Wood—Father).
" Pte. Butters, North. Fusrs. (Mrs. Butters).

To each of the recipients Sir John Maxwell addressed a few words, and afterwards shook hands. To the relatives of deceased men, who received the honours, he also spoke.

Addressing the men on parade Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Maxwell said it gave him great pleasure to be able to attend and distribute the medals to the brave men or to the relatives of the brave men who had lost their lives in serving their country. The decision to give the awards to relatives of deceased soldiers was a wise and welcome one, for it enabled a lasting souvenir to be retained, and was something for such people to be proud of, and to know that the nation was proud also. He had given medals to the relatives of men who had sacrificed their lives for their King and country. That was the proud heritage of the British Army. If they were called upon to make any sacrifice, he was sure Officers and men would willingly bear their share, not only whilst in training but when they reached the Front. The British Army was stronger than ever before and he was convinced that the enemy was not stronger. He would ask them to bare their heads and to give three good cheers for the King.

The proceedings concluded with the National Anthem and the march past of the troops, where Lieut.-Gen. Maxwell took the salute.

On the 13th March Col. Dashwood presented the D.C.M. to No. 9555 Lce.-Cpl. D. McIntosh, and the M.M. to No. 1759 Cpl. W. Stafford. There was a parade of the Depôt on which the presentation was made.

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

EXTRACTS FROM "ST. GEORGE'S GAZETTE."

NEWRY,

30th April, 1887.

It is with feelings of the very deepest regret that we have to record this month the death of our Colonel, Gen. the Earl of Longford, G.C.B., which occurred after a few days' illness at his London residence on the 19th inst. The funeral of the late Earl took place at Kensal Green on St. George's Day, the Regiment being represented by Colonel FitzRoy who went to London expressly for the purpose and Capt. Hon. C. Lambton. A wreath of roses—red and white—was sent with the following attached to it:

"From Col. FitzRoy, the Officers, Warrant Officers, N.C. Officers and Privates of the 1st Batt. Northumberland Fusiliers."

Following telegram was received on St. George's Day.
"Fusiliers, India, to Fusiliers, Ireland.

"SALVE."

Lieut. Sapte has relieved Lieut. Eagar in command of the detachment at ——.

On the 14th and 15th insts. some of us took part in a great variety entertainment in the Assembly Rooms. Lieut. Crofton personated the Greek Philosopher, Diogenes, in his tub.

Lieut. Whitaker and Sgt. Weeks did the parts of the Prince and the Ethiopian Slave respectively in the Sleeping Beauty, the former in a very handsome cavalier costume, while the latter was arrayed in black tights and the big drummer's leopard skin.

2nd-Lieut. Hon. M. O'Brien took the character of a Chinese giant, and was well got up for the occasion. Lieut. Leather contributed a very good nigger song, in costume, to banjo accompaniment.

We are glad to see from — Battalion Notes that Bandmaster Wallace has been keeping up his rifle shooting in India. We remember when he was with us, he was the best shot in the Regiment the first year he fired, and the next year he won the C. in C.'s gold match in India when the 1st Battalion won the cup.

ON BUYING "PROPS."

No concert is complete without a certain amount of fancy dress. Sometimes, where there are still civilians living in the war area, it is quite easy to arrange for the loan of various garments, over and under. Hence the dressing of desirable flappers presents no serious difficulty. But when there are no civilians, it takes a Genius to dress the artistes.

We have one, and this is the tale of his adventures:— He got to a town safely armed with the necessary passes and cash. A Genius knows no restrictions; his methods must not be criticised. Suffice it, that, by the aid of his wonderful French, he was able to find a place where second-hand clothes were on view. That is not to say they were sold. The "old Cloe" business has declined during the war. A generous Government has caused that.

The first of his requirements was a frock coat. Madame had one in stock. She beamed right across her aged face. The prospect of a good customer came as a shock, but she survived and continued to beam. "A magnificent coat, sir, quite new, as you see. It is perfect."

"How much?"

"Oh, it is very cheap, 40 francs."

The Genius snorted.

"Thirty francs, sir."

Another snort. It was a majestic, contemptuous snort, an impressive exhalation that defied analysis.

The old dame still beamed, but very weakly.

"Fifteen francs, sir."

The Genius drew in his breath rapidly. The place was obviously in danger, so the old lady capitulated, dreading a catastrophe.

"Ten, sir."

"I'll take it, and another one at the same price" announced the astute buyer.

Meekly she laid another one beside the first, and waited. A faint flicker of a beam was her best effort by now.

His first point gained, the Genius tried and obtained

A CERTAIN AMOUNT OF FANCY DRESS.
(Note the Certain Amount!!)

many other remarkable pieces of dress, necessary to the production of a high-class revue.

You see, his, being original, is a dress affair. Trousers with large checks, hats ridiculously small, unmentionable garments for "female" wear—we must have a chorus—and a host of other impedimenta made a huge pile.

Then he espied a forlorn-looking bag hanging beside an old "gamp," with a peak cap of the porter type alongside. Ideal for the funny man.

"I will take those old things there," said the Genius, indicating the motley collection on the wall.

It was the one failure of the day. Snorts, exclamations and persuasions were all in vain. The decrepit old things were the personal property of Madame and her husband. But the subtle influence was not yet baulked; the dame was beaming again.

"How will you get them to the station, sir? My daughter will take them in a barrow."

Ere the Genius could reply, an evil Genius appeared. His other name is M.P. Apparently he had been watching through the doorway and, fearing spies and a multiplicity of original disguises, he entered.

"Your pass, sir, please."

After much hunting the pass in two languages was produced, and the M.P. solemnly read the first of the two effusions. He appeared to scan the lower hieroglyphics. Then the whole plot had to be explained to him, and Madame beamed brighter than ever, not understanding a single word. Here indeed was a Genius, for even the stern M.P. broke into a smile, saluted and marched off, muttering "Provisions for the Officers' Mess. Some Mess!" The bill was paid in a lordly style and Madame insisted on sending her daughter to the station with the barrow. Suffice it to say that the clothes arrived safely in great array.

The Revue will not take place owing to unavoidable reasons. Someone commiserated with the Genius, "Buck up, old man. The Revue will be produced in England."

"Yes," he gloomily assented, "but as evidence against me."

"PIONEER."

AT THE CANTEEN.

A SKETCH, in many "scenes," a certain E.F.C. Outside, the usual array of mess carts, L.G.S. wagons; horses, riding; mules; and padres. Inside a number of queues, stretching into the yard beyond. A reek of gum boots, provisions, and the curling intermingled smoke of Abdullas, Gold Flake, Woodbines and "rations."

The staff is four, of the usual type, except that one has both hands bandaged, probably due to chilblains. Behind, sounds of packing, and, in many dialects, Scotch predominating, several altercations.

Business as usual.

CASTE.—Assistants: A1, A2, A3, A4.

Customers: C1, C2, etc.
Padres: P1, P2, etc., etc.

TIME.—9.0 a.m. any day.

C1 (sleepily): "100 Gold Flake in tins."
A1 (ditto): "Haven't any in tins."
C1 (bored): "In packets then." (A1 writes.)
C1: "One dozen bottles sauce."
A1: "Only got Jimson's."
C1: "That'll do." (A1 writes.)
C1: "Got any chocolates?" (Queue murmurs.)
A1: "Yes, Rownbury's, Stews and Packalls."
C1: "Which are best?" (A1 sucks his pencil.)
A1: "Depends."
C1: "Oh, six boxes Packall's." (A1 meditates.)
A1: "Half pound, pound, or two pounds?"
C1: "Two pounds." (A1 writes.)
C1: "Case of whisky." (A1 absent-mindedly wipes his lips with his sleeve.)
A1: "Kind?" (Queue shuffles.)
C1: "Johnny Walker."
A1: "Haven't any." (Queue growls.)
C1: "White Horse."
A1: "Arrive to-morrow." (Several fall out of the queue.)
C1: "Black and White."
A1: "Haven't any." (Several faint.)
C1: "Then what the ——er, what have you got?"
A1: "Scantlebury's." (Half the remainder of the queue sidle out growling.)
C1: "God help the Officers. A case, then!"
A1: "Got the Mess President's certificate?" (C1 hands it up. A1 writes.)

(And so on, ad lib. A1 sucks his pencil, tots up the bill three times, gets three different answers and hands the book to C1 for signature. C1 signs.)

A1: "Take this book to No. 2 queue, over there, and the assistant there will total it and tell you what to do with it." (C1 moves off and takes the book to the end of a small queue of 4 and waits. P1 moves up.)
P1 (briskly): "Ah, good morning." (A1 leans on the counter meditating. Business as usual.)
P1 (not so briskly): "Good morning." (A1 starts.)
A1: "Good morning, sir."
P1: "Lovely weather. Quite a crowd here to-day. Some will have a long wait I fear. It is a good cause, however."

(A1 relapses into somnolence.)

P1 (still at it): "Er ..... have you any ..... (A1 bridles. This intrusion upon his leisure is unwarrantable.)
A1: "Sorry, sir, but you must wait until the Sergeant brings back the book."
(A1 returns to his meditations; P1 turns to C2, and begins again to talk. Several fall out of the queue, muttering about "Lunch." A1 still meditates.)
C1 (in queue 2 soliloquising): "Gor blimey, I've seen some places, but this newfangled business method here beats me. It might be a good system, but I cannot get to the bottom of it. Its —— A2: "Book please. (C1 hands it in. A2 checks it, finds it incorrect, sends it back to A1 who obtains an entirely new answer. Sucks his pencil as the phenomenon unfolds itself. C1 returns to A2 and hands in the book.) Queue 1 has again lengthened.
A2: "Yes, that's correct now. Take this slip to the queue over there and hand it in."
(C1 continues his peregrinations to queue 3 and queue 1 shows signs of activity. P1 in great form and proceeds as C1 did.)
C1: "Wonder what this step means?" (Stands easy and waits, watching the Padre at queue 1.)
A3: "Slip, please. (C1 hands it in.)
A3: "Right ho! Trot along to the next queue and you'll get the goods." (C1 ambles off and waits at No. 4 for a long while. Business as usual inside.) Queue 4 leads to a hole in a barn.
A4 (wearily): "Here you are, Sergeant. That's all I've got left. Other blokes have got all the stuff. Take the bill to the first queue and ask the bloke there to tot it up." (C1 picks up his small parcel of groceries and goes to the tail of queue 1 to begin the vicious circle as before. Perhaps he is still there.)

"ONLOOKER."

M'Tavish and Macpherson were adrift at sea in an open boat. M'Tavish got down on his knees and prayed: "O Lord, I ken I've broken maist o' Thy Commandments. And I've been a hard drinker a' ma days. But, O Lord, if we're spared this time, I promise never——" Macpherson interrupted him with—"I widna commit mysel' ower far, Donald. I think I see land."

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

Lieut.-Col. Edward William Hermon.

Lieut.-Col. Edward William Hermon, King Edward's Horse, commanding a Battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, killed on the 9th April, was the elder son of Mr. Sidney Hermon, of the White House, Balcombe, and was 38 years of age. He was educated at Eton and Christ Church, and joined the 7th Hussars in 1900. He served in the South African War, taking part in the operations in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony in the early part of 1902, and received the Queen's medal with five clasps. He became Adjutant of his Regiment in 1904, and early in 1911 went on retired pay as a Captain. Almost immediately he joined King Edward's Horse as a Major and was given command of the Oxford and Cambridge Squadron. He still commanded this squadron on mobilization and took it to the Front in April, 1915. In July, 1916, he was given command of a Battalion of Northumberland Fusiliers, being gazetted tempy. Lieut.-Colonel in August, 1916. He had been three times mentioned in dispatches during the present war. He was a fine leader of men, and his death will be deeply felt by all who served under him.

Lieut. Wilfred Joseph Bunbury.

Lieut. Wilfred Joseph Bunbury was the second son of Col. Charles Thomas Bunbury (formerly of the Rifle Brigade) and Lady Harriot Bunbury, of Cotswold House, Winchester. He was born on the 21st February, 1882. He was educated at Beaumont and St. George's College, Weybridge, where he matriculated at the London University Examination; he was afterwards at Ushaw College, Durham. Before the war he was in the firm of Wise Speke & Co., Stockbrokers, Newcastle-on-Tyne. On the 4th August, 1914, he joined the —th Battalion Northumberland Fusiliers, volunteering for foreign service and was promoted Lieutenant on the 27th December of the same year. He proceeded overseas to France with his Battalion on the 20th April, 1915, and was wounded at the second battle of Ypres, 24th May, 1915. After some months of hospital treatment he was able to rejoin and attended a course of physical training and bayonet exercise at Aldershot and was appointed Physical Training Officer first to his Battalion, then to his Brigade, and subsequently to a Command Depôt in Ireland. During the time he was Physical Training Officer he arranged most successful sports at Redcar in the summer of 1916, when he was complimented by the General, and when at Ballyvonare Camp, Buttevant, Co. Cork, to which post he was appointed in September, 1916, he started games for the men, cross-country runs, and boxing matches, all of which were greatly appreciated by the convalescent soldiers in his charge. He held this appointment until he got orders to return to France. He left England on the 8th March and was attached to the —th Batt. Northumberland Fusiliers. He was killed in action on the 15th April, 1917, leading his men to attack an enemy post. His Colonel writes: "He was leading an attack in a conspicuously gallant manner and was the first man into the enemy trench when he was hit in the face and died painlessly. We recovered his body and buried it at night. His death was a great grief to me as we were great friends when he was in my Company, where he always earned our admiration for the thorough way in which he carried out any work entrusted to him."

Lieut. W. J. Bunbury married on the 24th September, 1908, Dorothy Beresford, second daughter of Maj. A. J. Preston, B.A., J.P. (late of the 33rd Duke of Wellington Regiment), of Swainston, Kilmessan, Co. Meath, who with two little daughters survive him.

Lieut. Bunbury was a well-known member of the St. George's Hockey Club, for whom he played frequently; he also played several times for Northumberland County, his place being centre half-back. He was likewise a very keen cricketer, was a member of the Northumberland County Club, the Yorkshire Gentlemen and the Borderers, for all of which he used to play. He belonged to the Portland Park Tennis Club, at Newcastle, where he played most days during the season when he was residing there.

Regimental Notes.

A SERVICE BATTALION—ST. GEORGE'S DAY, 1917.

"ST. GEORGE'S DAY,"
SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE.

It is a day of days for the Northumberland Fusiliers and this year the —th Battalion celebrated it with Regimental Sports, although at present on active service. A magnificent spot had been secured for the event (kindly lent by Allen Stoneham, Esq.) and dotted all round there were thousands of Britain's manhood enthusiastically cheering the efforts of their comrades. Glorious weather prevailed and that was an inducement to a large number of nurses from various hospitals to attend, and in addition a good sprinkling of our Allies, the French. Looking down upon the scene of the festival, it presented an animated picture such as one often sees in the Old Country. Gay colours were conspicuous by their absence, but the mixture of khaki, hospital uniform and the bluish uniform of the Portuguese Troops who were present made it a very presentable spectacle. One could easily take a week's march and find it almost impossible to see a ground better suited for an occasion like this. Encircled by beautiful trees and on one side forming a splendid amphi-theatre it created a most favourable environment. At one time the ground was used by a well-known English aristocrat for polo events. The troops were marched down from the Base (each man wearing a red and white rose in his cap) headed by the Band and some Scottish Pipers. All arrived in good time and after everyone had settled down in their appointed places the sports commenced as per schedule. One very touching scene took place just before the first event started. About a couple of dozen wounded French soldiers arrived on the ground. It did not take long before they were spotted by the vigilant British Tommies and a thunderous handclap greeted them. During the whole period of athletic events, enthusiasm was at a high pitch and friendly rivalry was very keen. Forgotten were all the desperate struggles which were taking place not a hundred miles away, these sportsmen of England who were enjoying themselves to the full. Musical strains wafted from one corner of the ground, provided by the E.A.D. Military Band, and in addition about half-a-dozen clowns caused endless amusement.

The events themselves were hotly contested. No quarter was asked or given as the prizes offered were very liberal. The tit-bit of the afternoon was the Open Mile. A handsome silver cup (presented by the Recreation Committee of the Base) was offered and in addition a purse of 50 francs. Forty-one starters toed the line and after a most interesting race a member of the New Zealand Force carried off the honours. Another interesting event was a race for the Portuguese troops, and about a score of our Allies set out to contest the issue. This again was hotly contested and finally a coloured trooper won the day by a few yards. An opportunity for the ladies to shine was also part of the arrangements and a sprint of 80 yards was eventually won by Miss Carroll after a dead heat with Miss Young. No programme would be complete without the Band Race. Roars of laughter greeted the efforts of the musicians and after an exhausting run the cymbals came in first with the cornet and euphonium in hot chase.

The Duchess of Westminster witnessed the greater part of the afternoon's sport but unfortunately she was not able to stay to the end, and consequently the distribution of prizes was kindly undertaken by Mrs. Dixon.

Great praise must be extended to all the Committee who for the past three weeks have worked hard to make the meeting such a success as it was. Through the generosity of A. Hanbury, Esq. (Recreation Committee), each man was provided with a red and white rose for the occasion.

In the evening a concert was held at the Depôt and some very interesting items were provided for all present.

Thus ended St. George's Day, 1917, and all who had the pleasure of witnessing the festival will be able to look back upon it as a really successful and most enjoyable day.

Under the able presidency of Maj. T. C. F. Goff, assisted by Lieut. J. H. Wilkinson (Secretary), Lce.-Sgt. L. H. Robinson (Assistant Secretary), R.S.M. J. W. Bell (M.C.), Lieut. A. J. Brooman (Chief Steward) and Pte. E. T. Rimmer (who undertook the task of preparing the various courses and the general mapping out of the ground) and other members of the Committee, Stewards, Judges, etc., all the arrangements were admirable and everything went off without a hitch.

The Committee, Officers, Warrant Officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the Northumberland Fusiliers extend their sincere thanks to all those who kindly and generously subscribed towards this occasion and insured its absolute success.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

It was in fear and trembling that the invitations to St. George's Day were sent out at a Northern Camp, for within fourteen days of same there was quite deep snow on the ground. There was also doubt as to how far we should go in view of the war, but as the majority of the Battalion had been out at the Front for long periods and as some were shortly returning there it was decided to have a cheerful time, and we did. Luckily, although the day did not start very well it improved hourly. After muster parade at 9 a.m. a very long programme of sports was begun. The preliminary heats were well through by 12.15. Men's dinners were at 12.30, and very nice too! Both Officers and Sergeants had photographs taken. A large number of guests of Officers, N.C.O.'s and men arrived before one o'clock. After lunch the sports were continued in brilliant weather. Parties were organised to inspect the camp, which was in the very pink. The Camp Cinema gave a free show of the latest films. The Musketry Officer covered himself with glory over a "stunt" on the miniature range, and the gas attack was successful! A diversion was caused by some planes from the R.F.C. coming over the camp and dropping red and white roses. After tea there was a great trench raid over the assault course with realistic effects, invented, designed and produced by the Musketry and B— Officers. Loud applause! Finally the prizes were gracefully distributed by Mrs. W. G. Clifford, wife of the G.O.C. After cheers for the King and all concerned everybody dispersed and agreed that ——was not bad after all.

NOTES FROM DETACHMENT, SCOTT'S HOUSE CAMP.

Boxing competitions and contests were held at the Camp, by kind permission of the Commanding Officer (Maj. Hawkes), on the 8th, 9th and 10th May. It proved a great success, as besides bringing forward a few good novices, it showed that that fighting spirit had not left the Fusiliers for which it has always been noted. On Tuesday, the 8th, we fought off the first series of the novices catch, light and bantam weights; it brought forth some very good bouts, which showed how eager the competitors were.

* * * * * *

On Wednesday, the 9th, we continued with the second series of the various weights which also proved a great success. A contest was also fought between Pte. Robinson and Pte. Langley. Pte. Robinson won easily on points but it was a splendid fight, Pte. Langley taking plenty of punishment and also his defeat with a good heart.

* * * * * *

On Thursday, the 10th:—

Light-Weights (Semi-Finals).—Pte. Nesbit beat Pte. Fellows, who retired in the 2nd round; Pte. McTighe beat Cpl. Stewart after an extra round; a fine fight.

Light-Weights (Final).—Pte. Nesbit beat Pte. McTighe on points (a splendid final).

Bantams (Semi-Finals).—Pte. Canham beat Pte. Patterson; Pte. Wheatley beat Pte. Turpin.

Bantams (Final).—Pte. Wheatley beat Pte. Canham after an extra round (a very good fight).

Catch-Weights (Final).—Pte. Cox beat Pte. Freal, 1st round.

6-Round Contest.—Sgt. J. McGeever v. Pte. McGivern. Pte. McGivern, although 3 stone heavier than his opponent was no match, and retired at the end of the 3rd round.

Exhibition Bout.—Staff-Sgt. Edwards, A.G.S., Champion of India and Africa, 1910, v. Sgt. McGeever, —rd N.F., winner of over 50 contests. Turned out a fine exhibition of the noble art, and also brought forward a little of the Lancashire boxing with the feet.

1st Best Losers' Prize.—Cpl. Stewart.

2nd Best Losers' Prize.—Pte. Patterson.

Referee.—2nd-Lieut. Thornycroft, M.C., Assistant Adjutant.

Judges.—Maj. Hawkes (Commanding Officer) and 2nd-Lieut. Grice.

Timekeeper.—Capt. Buckley and R.S.M. Ouzman.

Seconds.—Staff-Sgt. Edwards, A.G.S., and Assistant Physical Training Instructors.

At the conclusion the prizes, which consisted of handsome cups and medals, were presented by Maj. Hawkes. Maj. Hawkes also made a present of two handsome money prizes to the two best losers.

We were all very sorry that owing to other duties Col. Rondell was unable to attend.

NOTES FROM A SERVICE BATTALION.

I am afraid I have not much material to enlarge on this month. We have been "out in the blue" most of the time and are on the eve of returning, our spring holiday having been rudely nipped in the bud.

St. George's Day found us in the line, roses complete. They came up with the rations the previous evening and duly adorned the helmets (shrapnel) of the Battalion. And it was the last flower several Huns gazed on in this world. Hot-house plants are more in their line now.

Paddy's voice is still the loudest in the Mess even when the gramophone is playing. He is fortunate in the fact that our present mess windows are some way off the ground.

The proposal to paint our mess-cart gosling green with a claret stripe for each time it has been smashed is under consideration.

The expected heavy attack of German measles was easily repulsed, our casualties being one—returned to duty.

Congratulations to Capt. W. F. Robertson, our Adjutant, on his promotion. I hasten to add a certain incident on the A——C road has no connection whatever.

Some Huns captured at T—— are said to have been affected by a species of trance. At the same time our signal section made the evening beautiful by their vocal efforts while marching to the line. The wind was blowing towards the enemy. D.E.D.

In conclusion I must make reference to those who went down fighting. There are gaps in the ranks, there are empty seats in Mess ——. But those who are left remember, and are glad that they were their comrades.

News, like potatoes, is I am afraid, scarce this month. We have been either in the line or close to it for a lengthy period. Once we went back for, it was whispered a month, but three days saw us treking again in the wrong direction. This presents a pretty problem. If you go out for a month which lasts three days, how long do you remain in if the tour is for a fortnight?

* * * * * *

It is welcome news that seven members of this Battalion have been awarded the Military Medal for bravery in recent action. Initials and regimental numbers I cannot quote (these notes are being written in a reserve trench) but the following is a list of names:—Cpl. Wilkinson, Lce.-Cpl. Cassidy, Lce.-Cpl. Gillespie, Ptes. Dyson, Lampard, Moss and Stevenson. To every one of them hearty congratulations and good luck, and long life to wear their very well earned decoration.

* * * * * *

Spring, we presume, is now with us. Warm days are the general order, green grass has appeared in patches and the shell-hole water level is considerably lower. Long may it remain so.

* * * * * *

Next month I hope wider space than a dug-out will produce a wider scope for my literary efforts.

Col. Herbert's deputy writes:—

We are very pleased to acknowledge the receipt this year of St. George's Day greetings from the following:—

St. George's Day has come and gone and still we are out here. Last year we drank to the trooping of the colours "Somewhere in Blighty," surely we shall not have to drink this toast yet again.

Our Day was a disturbed one, and we had to break camp just as the pork (real pork with real apple sauce) and beans had begun to thoroughly satisfy our excellent appetites and the king of wines to impose a nice comfortable glow.

Congratulations to those who "went over" on the Day. What a record to look back on with pride. We guess the old Hun had a bit of a shock when he saw all those roses growing up round him and found out what jolly fine thorns they had.

PLATOON COMMANDER: "Great Scott, have the Huns got down there?"
PTE. GEORDIE T——: "Hoons? Noa, A've no seen ony hoons heorabouts."
P.C.: "Then what the devil are you firing at?"
PTE. G. T.: "Ooa A'm just hevin' a craack at a rabbit."

When will the People of England learn that they have a Saint's Day, and that they also have a regiment whose Patron Saint is St. George, and when will they learn to take a little interest in these things? We should not then see such ridiculous rot and exposure of ignorance in our papers.

Summer has arrived at last, but where O where are the beautiful green leaves? Surely the Hun has strafed enough of the lovely woods of France. Is it believable that spring has sided with the Arch Fiend and is trying to do in what is left?

Congratulations are bestowed on the following on receiving the awards stated in recognition of their gallantry in the field:—

Several changes have taken place in the ranks recently. No. 5375 R.S.M. Myers has been promoted 2nd-Lieutenant and posted to his own Battalion, where he has served for the last 18 years. No. 6162 R.Q.M.S. Pullan has been appointed actg. R.S.M., and No. 5417 C.Q.M.S. Hadden has been appointed actg. R.Q.M.S.

Our entertainments of late have been very scarce, but during a brief spell out of the line we managed to get a game of soccer with our old friends the Royal Fusiliers. The result of which was a draw.

One feels proud nowadays to belong to the old Regiment, wherever you go up trench, down trench, in cellar, out of cellar, same old titles of the Regiment to be seen and all carrying the good old cheery smile of a 5th Fusilier and a feeling of QUO FATA VOCANT.

Our correspondent from the —th (Service) Battalion Northumberland Fusiliers (Pioneers) writes:—

"17th May, 1917.

"The great event has been the celebration of St. George's Day. A holiday was granted, and the programme arranged. The Military Committee of the Newcastle and Gateshead Chamber of Commerce generously sent out the roses, and in addition provided cigarettes and tobacco. As the men formed up for the Service, the weather was fine, and the Battalion presented a smart appearance. The Major-General Commanding the Division was present for the Service, which was conducted by the Senior Chaplain of the Division. An inspiring address was given, and was highly appreciated.

* * * * * *

"The Battalion formed up in Mass, and was inspected by the Divisional Commander. The march past was carried out with a swing, and the General complimented the Battalion on the turn out, and on the smartness of movement.

* * * * * *

"The parade over, sports were begun and some fine bouts were witnessed in the tug-of-war, wrestling, and bar and bolster, while the sack race and three-legged race produced some fine finishes. The mule 'DERBY,' with 25 runners, was a great success, and the Subalterns' trotting race on mules provided much merriment.

* * * * * *

"The race of the day was the Lloyd Lindsay race, for which Divisional 'H.Q.' sent a team of 4. They gave a fine exhibition of riding and beat the Battalion 'H.Q." team by one point. Special praise is due to the Company teams as some of the riders had not been on a horse until three days previous to the race, but they took the hurdles gamely, and not one fell.

"At night an alfresco concert rounded off a glorious day. Brother Finlay was chairman. One specially welcome item was the distribution of prizes by the Commanding Officer.

"The following morning the Battalion moved at 6 a.m. on to new work, some miles distant, breakfasted on the site and put in a full day. Billets were found amongst the ruins, but next day we moved into various fields around the village, and now we live in tents, shelters and bivouacs. We welcome the change from gloomy cellars. Already floral decorations adorn the spaces round the tents and bivouacs, and the spell of fine weather has added to the enjoyment of camp life.

"We have had some social changes this month. The Rev. Staveley, our padre, left us to go to another Division, and in his place came the most expert souvenir hunter yet known. He was with us for only a few days before he proceeded to Mesopotamia. The artist has depicted him in a bland happy mood, salving a Mill's Grenade and swinging it joyfully by the ring of the safety pin. Souvenir hunting was barred from that moment. When he left us he had several Hun helmets and caps, and a miscellaneous collection of oddities; he left behind him a goodly assortment of hymn books, which he could not possibly carry. His place was taken by the Rev. Appleton, a Tynesider, who is still with us.

"Lieut. Draper, R.A.M.C., went to hospital, but returned later; so also did our old M.O., Capt. Wilson, fresh from a pleasant sojourn at Somewhere-in-France.

"During the month Lieut. A. D. Carrick rejoined us from England."

After a lamentably long silence our scribe at Salonika has sent us the following very welcome account of the doings of the Old and Bold in those parts on St. George's Day and on other occasions. (Will he please continue to keep us regularly posted in the Battalion's doings?—EDITOR, St. George's Gazette.)

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

The Brigadier was good enough to order that the Battalion should observe the 22nd of April as a holiday and nothing in the nature of surprises sprung by the burly Bulgar on this occasion marred our joy. The day broke over these wonderful Macedonian hills in a gorgeous colouring dispensed by a gracious eastern sun, which sent a note of gladness through the hearts of those whose caps were surmounted by the red and white roses, assisting each of us to enter into the pleasure and enjoyment which the occasion brought to each member of the —nd Battalion in this war-stricken valley.

* * * * * *

An old friend of the Battalion, Capt. Forsyth, and the Rev. J. H. Royse were instrumental in obtaining the supply of roses from the —— Convent in Salonica. The former was also a great help in obtaining two barrels of refreshment, which was served with the men's dinner, as well as a case of "bubbly" for the Officers, and we are indebted to both of them for their efforts towards a successful day. Capt. Forsyth, owing to illness which overtook him that morning, was, much to our disappointment, prevented from lunching with us.

* * * * * *

During the course of the morning there were various sports and at 1 o'clock the men sat down to an excellent dinner, notwithstanding the difficulties of supplies.

* * * * * *

The Brigadier and Maj. B. Blackwood (Brigade Major), Maj. W. B. Brown, R.E., O.C., Cheshire Regt., and the Rev. J. Storrs lunched with the Officers of the Battalion Headquarters.

The dinner was arranged by our Quartermaster, who had transformed a capacious barn into a miniature Alladin's cave. The following old Officers of the Battalion serving in the area were our guests at dinner, i.e., Lieut.-Col. the Hon. N. C. Gathorne Hardy, Bt.-Maj. G. R. F. Leverson and Capt. H. M. Heyder. Thirty-nine sat down to dinner and it was a happy event which enabled all the Officers to sit down together and enjoy the one day of the year, the anniversary of which has been kept up by the Regular Battalions since the early days of its history.

* * * * * *

During the day and the following days cables and messages were received conveying good luck to all ranks from:—Special Reserve Battalion, Col. E. Dashwood, Col. G. Hart-Dyke, Col. W. S. Darley, Col. B. Buckley, Col. C. M. A. Wood, Capt. A. M. Gibbes, Maj. and Mrs. B. T. St. John, Maj. and Mrs. C. Stephen, Capt. W. H. C. Brownlow, Greville Williams, and the Officers of H.M.S. St. George.

BRIGADE SPORTS.

The General and his Staff were at home on the afternoon of the 5th May, 1917, in a capacious nullah on foothills south of the Struma and hidden from the view of the enemy. Fifteen events were arranged for competition in the Brigade, i.e., 1, Bomb Throwing; 2, Rifle Grenade Firing; 3, Tree Climbing; 4, Hill Climbing; 5, Communication Competition; 6, Gas Alarm Race; 7, L.G. Competition; 8, V.C. Competition; 9, Transport Turnout; 10, S.B.'s Race; 11, T.M. Competition; 12, Obstacle Race; 13, Rapid Wiring Competition; 14, R.E.'s Competition; 15, Officers Chargers.

The afternoon was perfect and the proceedings were enlivened by an excellent programme provided by the Band of the — W. Regt. (41).

All the events were taken up with great enthusiasm and the departure from the usual run of sports drew a large body of Officers and men to this particular nullah. As only a couple of days' notice were given as to the fixture there was unusual activity in various hidden nullahs preparatory to competing, and it is most gratifying to record the result so far as the Battalion is concerned and reflects the greatest credit on both Officers and men concerned in again adding another leaf to the laurels of the old Regiment. The Battalion carried off the following prizes:—

1. Bombing.—1, B Coy.; 2, A Coy.; 4, D Coy. (D Coy. tied for 3rd).
2. Transport.—The turn-out for this was five pack animals per Unit, loaded with ammunition and bombs, and was a remarkably good turn-out for the Brigade. The judging took some time, and weeding out in matters of detail was lengthy. Nevertheless three of our Transport Officers' (Lieut. W. H. Griffith's) selection carried off the 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes.
3. Lewis Guns.—One of our teams, trained by 2nd-Lieut. H. E. Gardner, carried off 2nd prize.
4. Rapid Wiring.—This consisted in erecting 50yds. of wire entanglement with aprons, in ten minutes. The Battalion took 2nd; the R.E. taking 1st.
5. Obstacle Race.—Which consisted in a team with fixed bayonets charging the wire entanglement and across a deep, wide trench. Again our team came in 2nd.
6. Gas Alarm.—Consisted in a team marching to a given point, lie down, adjust smoke helmets and race back to their equipment, dress and fall in fully armed. A team of D Coy., under 2nd-Lieut. W. Pattison, carried off 2nd prize.

7. Hill Race.—The course was over a very difficult bit of ground, up and down hills and across awkward nullahs. A very good race was watched. C Coy. was placed 4th, while D Coy. was 6th. We also took the 5th, 6th and 7th individual prizes.

FOOTBALL.

During our recess, which by the way has been full of strenuous training, we have managed to enjoy a little play. The following is the result of the Half Coy. Football League up to 6/5/17:—

	Games Played.	Won.	Drawn.	Lost.	Goals for.	Goals Agst.	Pts.
Left Half, A Coy. ..	6	4	2	0	19	2	10

Capt. (the Rev.) P. Harcourt Stidston, C.F., proceeded home on leave and we hear has decided to remain at home to take up the living rendered vacant by his father's death.

* * * * * *

Among those Officers who have been fortunate to proceed home the following have returned safely, looking well and fit:—Lieut.-Col. A. C. L. Hardman Jones, Lieut. W. H. Griffiths.

* * * * * *

Capt. O. Carr Ellison and Lieut. H. B. Jones are at present on leave.

* * * * * *

We congratulate Q.M.S. J. Vernon on being awarded the silver medal for Meritorious Service in the Field.

* * * * * *

We have had a couple of visits from Capt. Forsyth recently, only due to a little "shuffling of the cards" which brought us within easy distance of him. We (those of us who soldiered with him at Dover) were glad to see him looking so well.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY MARATHON RACE.

A cross-country race of 3½ miles between teams of 20 from each Company had been arranged for the morning. Tremendous excitement prevailed owing to the circulation during the previous evening of a rumour that the Adjutant had been matched against the Quartermaster for this event, the Adjutant to wear his mosquito net, and the Quartermaster to carry an open umbrella. The keenest regret was expressed by all ranks when it was known that this arrangement had fallen through—for the occasion. Perhaps some day ..... The race, however, was not uninteresting. Probably the writer, himself a competitor, is not the best person to describe it, but from an advantageous position in rear, he saw most of it. The form displayed was moderate, but the number who stuck to it when beaten was admirable. Lieut. Price got well away at the start and held his lead almost to the end (on horseback). The time was 22¼mins., and the winner is understood to have expressed the opinion that it might have been less but for the recent prohibition of bathing in the river Styx. Sgt. Nelson, of C Coy., was 2nd and Lce.-Cpl. McClean, of D Coy. (and Scouts), 3rd. D Coy. had four of the first six in (the whole team finished), and won. C Coy. were 2nd, B 3rd and A 4th.

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
Near WALLINGFORD,
31st May, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

Maj. Kershaw writes to us as follows:—

"EASTER DAY.

"We have had a lot of fun out here and I have seen several old FIFTH Officers—Gibson and Garnier. S. J. Benson is in great form and I see a lot of him, but at present my Red puggaree is the only one showing with the force. We had a bit of a scrap the other day and got a couple of guns. Now that we are clear of the desert it is rather a charming country. I had rather an amusing show yesterday, chasing a Turkish cavalry patrol with a machine gun in a Ford car. The latter are wonderful and go everywhere. We get the real old-fashioned South African dongar here, absolutely blind and very dangerous for cavalry moving fast. As usual, we are fairly busy, and it is a treat to have open warfare once more. It's a great cavalry country, with green and good going, but very little water."

Since we last put pen to paper for the purpose of compiling this column we have received two copies of a new contemporary. Under the title of "The White Band" it justly proclaims itself to be the magazine of the 20th and 21st Cadet Training Battalions. It certainly appears to us to attain its objective most thoroughly, and in addition it contains much information of a technical interest not only to the cadet himself whether prospective, actual, or passed and commissioned, but also to the lay mind as represented by the cadets civilian belongings of both sexes. We strongly advise all our readers who have been or hope to become cadets to procure copies of this magazine by writing to the Editor, at The Staff Mess, Crookham, Fleet, Hants. To Mr. Editor himself we offer our heartiest congratulations on his effort and our best wishes for the success of "The White Band."

In the April number appeared the notification of the death of Capt. Arthur Gerald Tozer, an old 5th Fusilier Officer. We have now received some account of the last few years of his life which will, we think, be of interest to those who knew him and loved him for his cheerful spirit and his generous mind and heart. After the South African War, in which, having given up his commission in the West India Regt. in order to command a Troop of Queenstown Mounted Rifles, he was employed by the War Office as Horse Collecting Officer in every quarter of the globe. He went first to Egypt in the hope of getting into the Egyptian Army. Failing this he went to Australia, where for a time he got some work. When this came to an end he went to Singapore and Malacca where for a couple of years he worked on a rubber estate. This failed and he became stranded with nothing to do. It is the curse of the Soldier Officer who for any reason does not prosper that his career unfits him for any business in civil life and this was poor Tozer's experience to the bitter end. He fought against Fate in foreign lands for 14 years, during the last 18 or 20 months of which he was stricken with severe and constant illness, until on the 18th March the Fates called him to blessed peace and rest at last.

The following letter from Capt. Milne Home will, we think, interest many of our readers. We also received on St. George's Day a telegram sent to c/o Coxia, which reached us too late for acknowledgment last month. We look forward with interest to the account he promises of the doings of 5th Fusiliers in one of the "outposts" of this struggle.

GERMAN EAST AFRICA,
(Or a portion of it formerly German),
21st March, 1917.

DEAR MR. EDITOR,

This is to wish you and the Regiment best of luck for St. George's Day, 1917. Their representatives of the FIFTH in this "side show" are the writer and Sgt. Pearce, who many will remember at WH—T—B—RN instructing the youth how to shoot. What with marches and counter-marches, ubiquitous Huns, much rain and mud, and continuous digging of trenches or erection of block houses, life is pretty strenuous, but I hope to write you some account of the doings of the contingent with which we are serving when things settle down a bit. In the meantime best wishes from us both.

Yours sincerely,
ARCHIBALD MILNE HOME.

The following casualties, taken from The Times, have regretfully to be recorded:—

NORTHUMBERLAND FUSILIERS.

N.C.O.'s & MEN.

Where rank is not given all are Privats.

TO "SAMMY."

MASCOT OF THE XM BATTALION.

OUR little comrade gay,
Has paid the price to-day
Of England's victories.

Another life is laid
Low, that no glory fade
From England's victories.

The first in every fray,
He always led the way
To England's victories.

And, if a day was lost,
Did he then count the cost
Of England's victories?

He'd search the waste to see
I had not paid the fee
Of England's victories!

Then, be they friend or foe,
With tiny flask he'd go
By England's "victories."

To snuggle at the side
Of lads, who fain would hide
That England's victories

Could wring one tortured groan
From hearts, whose pride alone
Wins England's victories.

Oh, little comrade, dear,
Who'll rouse the trench to cheer
For England's victories.

At dawn, when o'er the top
We face machine gun shot
For England's victories?

Now, mute the drum and fife,
Still for an hour the strife
For England's victories.

While we lay down to rest
A hero, 'mongst the best
Of England's "victories."

Till, from the Hell of War,
Peace claims for evermore
Her dear-won victories.

E.C.F.

BY-PRODUCTS, ETC.

THE C. in C. sits midst his glittering staff
Talking Products, by-products, by-products.
The R.G.A. Majors he's going to strafe
About Products, by-products, by-products.
"The savings," he says, "are a great deal too small"
And the waste that goes on is enough to appal
Anyone but these Majors who don't care at all
About Products, by-products, by-products.

In his office the Major sits day after day
Thinking Products, by-products, by-products,
Working out what each ration will yield in the way
Of Products, by-products, by-products,
"How I wasted my youth," he groans in remorse,
At the Shop and Staff College and Gunnery Course,
More profit to me had I studied the source
Of Products, by-products, by-products.

Yes, even when taking a walk in the town
He thinks Products, by-products, by-products.
And unconsciously, all that he sees he boils down
Into Products, by-products, by-products!
While if he should hap on a dog with a bone
He stalks him until he has got him alone
Then, with luck, the next day, an increase will be shown
In Products, by-products, by-products.

Some men have been known for six months to compete
With by-products, by-products, by-products,
And have struggled on gamely, ignoring defeat
By products, by-products, by-products.
But the bravest, alas, sees his efforts in vain
A victim to dripping and bones on the brain
They will bear him away to a Home for Insane
Shrieking "Products, by-products, BY-PRODUCTS."

* * * * * *

Sing a song of dripping
And basins full of fat
4 and 20 marrow bones
Simmering in a vat.
When the vat is emptied,
Oh! what a stock they bring.
Isn't that a dainty dish
To set before the King?

* * * * * *

The Chief is in his office
Counting out the money.
The Adjutant is also there,
Feeling rather funny.
Suddenly the C.O. smiles
Like a breath of Heav'n
And says, "We've realised two quid!
Per 1,000 rations given."

* * * * * *

A little bone was in a tub,
It was a pretty sight.
The I.Q.M.G.S. arrived
And spotted it one night!
He fingered it and poked it
Then pulled it out with care
And said "This is the refuse tub
And bones should not be there!"

FOR VALUABLE SERVICES RENDERED IN CONNECTION WITH THE WAR.

To be Brevet Colonel:—

Lieut.-Col. G. Frend

To be Brevet Lieut.-Colonel:—

Maj. (tempy. Col.) W. C. Wright

3rd June, 1917.
WAR OFFICE,
2nd June.

The following are among the Decorations and Medals awarded by the Allied Powers at various dates to the British Forces for distinguished services rendered during the course of the campaign. The King has given unrestricted permission in all cases to wear the Decorations and Medals in question:—

PRESENTED BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE FRENCH REPUBLIC.

LEGION D'HONNEUR.

CROIX DE CHEVALIER.

Maj. R. M. R. Lamb, D.S.O.

CONFERRED BY HIS MAJESTY THE KING OF RUMANIA.

ORDER OF THE STAR OF RUMANIA (WITH SWORDS.)

COMMANDER.

Bt. Col. B. T. Buckley, General Staff, War Office.

THE VICTORIA CROSS.

WAR OFFICE,
8th June.

The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the Victoria Cross to the following:—

No. 22040 Lce.-Cpl. Thomas Bryan, Northumberland Fusiliers.

For most conspicuous bravery during an attack.

Although wounded, this non-commissioned officer went forward alone, with a view to silencing a machine-gun which was inflicting much damage. He worked up most skillfully along a communication trench, approached the gun from behind, disabled it, and killed two of the team as they were abandoning the gun.

As this machine-gun had been a serious obstacle in the advance to the second objective, the results obtained by Lce.-Cpl. Bryan's gallant action were very far reaching.

No. 40989 Pte. Ernest Sykes, Northumberland Fusiliers.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty when his Battalion in attack was held up about 350 yards in advance of our lines by intense fire from front and flank, and suffered heavy casualties.

Pte. Sykes, despite this heavy fire went forward and brought back four wounded—he made a fifth journey and remained out under conditions which appeared to be certain death, until he had bandaged all those who were too badly wounded to be moved. These gallant actions, performed under incessant machine-gun and rifle fire, showed an utter contempt of danger.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

Capt. A. P. Brewis.

Capt. A. P. Brewis, Northumberland Fusiliers, who was killed by shell fire on the 1st June, 1917, was the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brewis, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne. He was educated at Appingham School, and matriculated at Brasenose College, Oxford. On the outbreak of war he obtained a commission in the Regiment, and, after training at East Boldon and Darlington, was attached to the

CAPT. A. P. BREWIS.

East Lancashire Regiment, and was on Gallipoli from May, 1915, to the final evacuation. He served with this regiment in Egypt and Sinai, and afterwards moved to another front. Was gazetted Lieutenant, 29th December, 1914, and Captain, 27th September, 1915: died, aged 22 years. A brother officer writes: "Was loved both by officers and men, always cheerful, whatever the difficulties might be, an excellent company commander, who inspired his men with great and absolute confidence in him." When he met his death he was going round his company trenches during a shelling by the enemy to see that all that was possible was being done. It was this devotion to duty that on a former occasion saved his life, for when he returned to his dug out (on Gallipoli) he found the three officers he had left there, dead, having been killed by a Turkish shell.

Capt. Percival Elliot Cox.

Capt. Percival Elliot Cox, was the son of CAPT. P. E. COX.

Mr. W. M. Cox, of 14, Malvern Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. He was educated at Rutherford College, Newcastle-on-Tyne and at Durham University. During the years 1910-12 he was a member of the University of Durham Officers Training Corps. He was given a commission in the Northumberland Fusiliers on the 22nd August, 1914. He went overseas on the 1st May, 1915, and remained till the 3rd July, 1915. He joined his Reserve Unit and was made temporary Captain on the 6th June, 1916. He again went overseas on the 20th July, and remained out till the 1st November, this time he was in an Entrenching Battalion. He rejoined his Reserve Unit again early this year and left again for the Front on St. George's Day. He was killed in action on the 24th May, 1917. Capt. Cox was Gas Officer to his reserve Unit, and was a good singer and actor. He helped with some others to cheer up the Garrison on many occasions during the early spring of this year. He was 25 years of age, and his loss is mourned by his brother Officers.

Capt. Leslie Quin, M.C.

Capt. Leslie Quin, M.C., Northumberland Fusiliers, killed on 24th April, was the only surviving son of the late R. J. Quin, barrister-at-law, and was 23 years of age. He was educated at Temple Grove and Felsted. After spending a short time in Child's Bank, he went to America, where he had already acquired a good business position, but he returned at the end of 1915 to take up a commission. He went to France in the summer of 1916, and within a few months was promoted captain, and was awarded the Military Cross. His major, writing of his death at the hands of a sniper, says:—"Everyone here loved him, officers and men alike. He was quite one of the bravest fellows I have ever seen, and always set a splendid example to his men. His memory will never be forgotten by us. He died, as he always lived, a magnificent pattern to all of us, and simply gave his life for the regiment." Capt. Quin's elder brother, Henry, was killed in the Boer War at the age of 20.

Capt. Guy Campbell, M.C.

Capt. Guy Campbell, M.C., who was accidentally killed in this country on 26th May, while supervising the throwing of grenades, was educated at Bedford Grammar School. He was a fine athlete, winning the gold medal at Aldershot for gymnastics, and excelling equally at boxing and swimming. On leaving school he went to Messrs Allen, Son, and Co.'s engineering works at Bedford. He was a member of the Artists' Rifles before the war, and soon after the outbreak of hostilities he was gazetted to a commission in the Northumberland Fusiliers, being transferred later to the Machine Gun Corps. He quickly gained promotion to captain, and won the M.C., for his gallantry in action, having been twice mentioned in despatches. He was the second son of Mrs. Colin Campbell, of Duclair, Lawrence-road, Hove.

Lieut. (Tempy. Capt.) Walter Harry Corfield Bucknall.

Lieut. (Tempy. Capt.) Harry Corfield Bucknall Northumberland Fusiliers, was killed on 3rd May, aged 20. He was educated at Repton (J.S.S., 1910), whence he went to Sandhurst, and was gazetted 2nd-Lieutenant in December, 1914. He fought with his battalion through the second Battle of Ypres, being severely wounded on Empire Day, 1915. After later actions, he was again wounded on 29th April, 1916, and once more, after being passed fit, by a bomb explosion in December last. He rejoined on 26th March, and, after continued fighting in command of his old company during the last few weeks, was killed by a sniper in a forward shell-hole.

Lieut. (Tempy. Capt.) Clive Montagu Joicey.

Lieut. (tempy. Capt.) Clive Montagu Joicey, was the younger son of Colonel Edward Joicey, Blenkinsopp Hall, Haltwhistle, Northumberland. He was educated at Harrow and Trinity Hall, Cambridge. He was gazetted to the Northumberland Fusiliers in 1913, and was promoted Lieutenant on the 22nd August, 1914. He went to the front in April, 1915, with his Battalion and was wounded immediately. He went out again in February, 1916, and was wounded on the 28th April. He was promoted tempy. Capt. on the 1st September, 1916. He went out for the third time on the 23rd April last, and was killed in action on the 5th June, gallantly leading his men. A letter from a brother officer says: "I was with Clive an hour before he was killed. He was on my left, about 120 yards further down the trench. I found him as cheery as ever, his old self, and a good man to do with when going over the bags. I heard after he led his company to the first objective, cheering his men on to the last, when he was killed instantly by a shell. His company did gloriously and took all objectives, and I know this was due largely to Clive's great dash and fearlessness." Capt. Joicey was a great favourite with all ranks, and his early death is lamented by his many friends in the Northumberland Fusiliers, both at home and abroad. He was 25 years of age.

CAPT. CLIVE M. JOICEY.

2nd-Lieut. Thomas Sydney H. Schafer.

2nd-Lieut. Thomas Sydney H. Schäfer, the younger son of Sir David Schäfer, Professor of Physiology in the University of Edinburgh, was born on May 20th, 1891, at Little Gilhons, Croxley Green, Hertfordshire. He was at School at Stanmore Park and the Edinburgh Academy; spent a year at Edinburgh University and thence proceeded to Cambridge, where he obtained a scholarship at Caius College. After passing the Natural Science Tripos he entered University College Hospital as a medical student in October, 1913, and was there on the outbreak of war. He at first offered his services to the Australian Voluntary Hospital, with which he proceeded to France, but finding the work not sufficiently active he obtained his discharge and applied for a commission, having already been a member of the O.T.C. both at school and at the University. On December 24th, 1914, he was appointed to a Service Battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, and after a preliminary training at Cambridge, joined the Battalion at Tring in February, 1915, and accompanied it in the late summer to Witley and in September, to France, where he took part in the battle of Loos. In the advance beyond Loos towards Hill 70 Lieut. Schäfer was twice wounded in the legs but having received first aid from a member of his platoon he pushed on in spite of his wounds and managed to reach a trench which had been occupied by our troops. Here he was seen and spoken to by a Sergeant of his company. Unfortunately the trench was soon after temporarily evacuated and Lieut. Schäfer was then missed. No further tidings having been obtained of him it is assumed that he was then killed.

The letters written both by his brother officers and by men under his command display high appreciation of his cheeriness of disposition and of the consideration which he showed to all with whom he came in contact; the correspondence which his family have had regarding his disappearance being characterized by a quite remarkable note of regret both at the personal loss sustained and at the fact that so promising a career has been thus all too early terminated.

[A previous notice appeared in the February number.]

Lieut. Arthur Victor Knox.

Lieut. Arthur Victor Knox, Northumberland Fusiliers, was the younger son of Mr. J. Knox, of 1, King Edward's Road, Heaton, Newcastle-on-Tyne. He joined the Durham University O.T.C. and was gazetted on the 24th June, 1915. For a long period he was Assistant Adjutant and Adjutant of Reserve Battalions at Home and his services in that capacity were much appreciated by his Commanding Officers. He qualified in musketry at Strensall and attended a course at Chelsea. He went out to France on the 23rd April, 1917, and was posted to one of the Service Battalions, Northumberland Fusiliers. He was killed in action on the 6th June, in the 30th year of his age. His early demise is a great sorrow to his many friends at home and abroad.

Regimental Notes.

NORTHUMBERLAND FUSILIERS.

June, 1917.

The spice of variety has been added to the usual full ration of marching and working. Bivouacs have sprung up, and melted away at dawn; we've marched in the late afternoon; we've marched at dawn; we've marched in the heat of the day. There is now one opinion only: March at dawn and breakfast by the roadside, unless the "exigencies of the service," etc., etc.

* * * * * *

Summer has really come, this time unheralded by any official announcement. The fields have felt its touch; and waving crops of lucerne beckon to the road-weary and offer a comfortable resting place. For two days we were in bivouacs on a shell-pitted slope where the vegetation strove to hide the holes and make traps for the unwary. In the valley beneath was an alluring stream that tempted many bathers to escape from the heat. And, wonder of wonders, just beyond, was a railway with the old familiar British engines. Not much to talk about—but their whistles were as music to the British ears. Behind us was a town, or partial town; and in the town was a Canteen. We rejoiced. Verb. sap.

* * * * * *

We moved. We did NOT rejoice. We trudged and we sweated; we slogged and we halted. Then, in the cool of the evening, we marched. Our new bivouac site was in a valley; and we "bivvied" by moonlight, sheeted and blanketed by the dew and the grass, quilted by the genial atmosphere.

* * * * * *

During one of our stays somewhere, a couple of German prisoners were brought through the village. A few inquisitive soldiers were watching them pass.

"Hi," said one, "d'ye see what that one is?"

"Which one?" asked a phlegmatic pal.

"The big one. He's a Sergeant-Major."

"A what?"

"A Sergeant-Major."

"Oh, is he?" A heavy pregnant silence followed this astounding piece of information.

"Well," finally said the phlegmatic one, "If he is anything like wor Sergeant-Major, the Infantry must have broken a h—— of a long way through the Hun lines!"

Cricket is now the chief relaxation. With the aid of an antediluvian reaper found and repaired, and a roller and a lawn-mower duly found also, a decent cricket-pitch has been made, and men of reputation are doing their best to justify their premartial honours. So far X Company has proved the best; but other Companies are making great progress, and the struggle for supremacy will be keen. As work is done in the "stillness" of the night, the hours of the afternoons are left free for practice. The M.O. has played for the first time in his life, and the diligent observer of Battalion doings is treated to a mixture of cricket and baseball terms that is somewhat confusing. Even the volatile, over-exuberant reports of cricket matches in the ha'penny illustrated never rose to such giddy heights as to describe Hobbs, knocking "flies into the bleachers" or described Bosanquet as "good on the incurves." True to his training, the M.O. refuses to hit anything that is not "straight for the plate." He "fans" the air a good deal; but it behoves us to be none too critical. The inoculation season has begun!

* * * * * *

We are becoming too particular. One man was fitting on a pair of boots.

"Have you any half-sizes?" he enquired.

This was too much for his pal, also trying on boots.

"Take what you can get. You're not in a blinking hat shop."

Social changes during the month have been few. The joy-rides to courses and back again are the only incidents of note.

* * * * * *

We regret, however, to announce that Lieut. C. W. Scott has been wounded—"gunshot wound, left thigh." All wish him luck and a speedy recovery.

STOP PRESS NEWS. H.Q. team has defeated W, Z, Y and X Companies in turn.

NOTES FROM "THE FIFTH" IN THE EAST.

That "somewhere" in Macedonia where the Battalion is now situated is one lovely blaze of colour. The poppies, in a variety of colours, are a lovely sight and there are some very fine specimens to be seen in red, scarlet, white and mauve, while the country round is a gorgeous sight in its immense colouring of wild flowers. What a change to the mud of two months ago. One is amazed at the transformation.

One hears occasionally a good story but this is certainly worth recording in the pages of the Gazette:—

Scene.—Front line.—A Sentry of the New Army on duty. An Officer of another unit advancing up to sentry and asks him in rather a loud tone.

"Where is the O.C.?"

SENTRY.—"Don't know sir."

OFFICER.—"Don't you know where the O.C. is?"

SENTRY.—No sir, this be'ant the O.C.'s this is the N.F.'s.

Collapse of the superior!!!

A somewhat gallant field officer, whose uniform has seen better days, rode up one day to a post in our front line, which was commanded by a young and energetic officer, who assumed the mounted personage to be a patrol promptly informed him that all the troops at his post came under his orders and that he desired the "patrol" to reconnoitre the village of ——— on his front. When the mounted patrol made himself known the chagrin of the enthusiastic young officer can be better imagined than described.

During the winter months we were all able to see and enjoy one of the finest pantomimes that has ever been staged within the range of the enemy's guns. A real stage and a real stringed orchestra, such as would not disgrace the finest theatre in London. It is certain, however, that no London theatre ever held such crowded houses, or held within its walls more appreciative audiences. It was simply splendid. The play, which by the way was entitled "Aladdin's Lamp," resurrected in local colouring, will ever remain in the memory of those thousands of men who were able to spend four happy hours almost nightly, within the "time being" theatre, as a happy recollection in the midst of an otherwise monotonous life. The dresses were of the first order. "Kitty" (Cpl. Dillon, R.A.M.C.) the heroine and "Pte. Bertie Bayswater" (Pte. Horrocks, R.A.M.C.) were simply delightful. Many officers rode miles in most wretched weather and along abominably muddy tracks just to see and admire "Kitty." Even one officer did a somersault from his horse over barbed wire in the dark. Such was the testimony to the excellence of the pantomime.

Major ——— writes:—

"The outstanding event of the past month with the Battalion has been the destruction by fire of the ante-room of the Officers' Mess. The fire broke out in the early hours of the morning, and the room was completely gutted. Even the 'solid ivory' billiard-balls ascended to heaven in smoke, like the prayers of the faithful. Happily the damage is covered by insurance, though there are some implaceable items mourned by all, such as the old nest of lockers used by many generations of officers and the letter-rack which weathered so many storms on guest-nights at the Havens and Moorlaws. The original painting of the —nd Batt. at Loos was also lost. The new ante-room is, however, more commodious and presents freer scope for the energies of the many 'tempy. 2nd-Lieuts. (attd.),' who descend upon us in clouds every week, each to vanish successively in the 'bloody welter' overseas.

* * * * * *

"The Battalion prides itself on having secured the first V.C. for the Regiment for many years. Lce.-Cpl. T. Bryan, to whom His Majesty the King presented the coveted decoration at Newcastle, on Saturday, 16th June, was trained as a recruit at the 'Maison Eccossaise' in 'E' Coy. and sent out from 'C' Coy. at Headquarters.

* * * * * *

"Unhappily, owing to official mischance, the Regiment were uninvited and unrepresented at the investiture in Newcastle by His Majesty the King, though it was held in the chief town of the county with which both have been associated, the Regiment since 1836 and the 'Reserve' Batt. since the Earl of Northumberland raised the County Force in 1662, in the reign of King Charles II. The fact that the Regimental Depôt is situated in the City and that the unit representing the permanent battalions of the Regiment is quartered within a few miles of it and that the only recipient of a V.C. at the Investiture was trained and sent out by this unit, apparently escaped the notice of those who were responsible for the arrangements.

* * * * * *

"The Battalion cricket team has begun the season well. One match has been lost, one drawn, and the rest won. Several of the team have proved themselves towers of strength.

* * * * * *

"During the course of the visit of His Majesty the King to Sunderland on Friday, 15th June, Sgt. Townsend, of the Commissionaires, and late of the 5th, was presented to His Majesty, who inquired what regiment the old soldier had been in. On being told that it was the 5th, the King said: 'Your old regiment is doing extraordinarily well.' All ranks of the Regiment should feel gratified and inspired by His Majesty's appreciation.

* * * * * *

"The news of the death in action of Walter Bucknall caused the greatest grief to all ranks of the '3rd Legion,' who knew and loved him well. A good soldier and a keen sportsman, his memory will be always held dear by all those who were privileged to work and play with him at Exxx Bxxxxx. His cheery songs after Mess and his keenness and sportsmanlike game on the cricket and football fields will be difficult to replace. Withal, he was always a boy, with a boy's high spirits and quick appreciations. Officers and men will hold him always in affectionate remembrance."

NOTES FROM A SERVICE BATTALION.

Our anticipated and afore-mentioned rest materialised, and for about three weeks we have experienced rural France in her sunniest mood. What a change after the bare broken country which we have wrested from the Huns to return to the fresh green of woods and fields, with only the gun flashes at night to remind us that there is war a few miles away.

* * * * * *

I have used the word "rest," perhaps a debatable term. Parades at 8.30 a.m. with a route march to ranges and training area have been unpopular, and the great heat has not tended to make things easier. However one must be thankful it has been rest and not intensive training.

* * * * * *

Off parades we have had plenty of amusement—sports and horse shows, cricket and even football, for the Tyneside national game never lacks enthusiasts, whatever the temperature. The increased allotment of leave, too, has been more than welcome. A good percentage of all ranks, including the Commanding Officer, have been the possessors of those yellow and green slips which no money will buy.

* * * * * *

One incident has however clouded our horizon recently. Our M.O., Capt. A. L. McCreedy, better known to all, and the subject of many a paragraph in these columns, as "Paddy" the "Recruit Fusilier," met with a serious accident, while sleep-walking he stepped out of his bedroom window falling heavily a considerable distance and badly breaking his leg. Latest reports fortunately say he is doing well, and that a speedy and complete recovery may ensue is the sincere wish of everybody. His loss has caused a gap in the Battalion which will not be easily filled.

An absence of blue shoulder straps has been noticed lately, the whole of the signal section having been away on detachment, living after the manner of their kind, in an atmosphere of buzzing and "idy-umpties." A strange and mysterious race of men!

also to Capt. and Adjt. W. F. Robertson, Lieut. W. J. Hewson and Sergt. J. Stafford on their "Mentions."

Our Battalion Sports were a great success and were carried on until dark. Quite a representative gathering from other units were present. Honours rested fairly evenly among the Companies, but I regret lack of space forbids me to give detailed results. Blindfold drill produced some new movements not laid down in the book. Stretcher-bearers looked anxious during the progress of the tugs-of-war, thinking no doubt their well earned rest was in danger of interruption. Those who saw the high jump consider the winner's performance easily beaten by the joyful leap into the air of a certain Lieutenant on his Company's guard mounting success.

* * * * * *

I must not conclude without reference to the Battalion Runners' Dinner. This was subscribed to by the Officers as some slight tribute and appreciation of the sterling service the runners have always rendered under the most trying and dangerous conditions. The united efforts of the Canteen Staff and Master-Cook produced a menu to which full justice was done, and if those present spent an enjoyable evening our object was achieved. There was no lack of volunteers to guide the reinforcements up in petrol cans.

We have come across quite a number of Fifth Fusiliers during the past week or two. Majs. O. B. Foster and Platt and Capt. Garnier were on leave in Babylon, Col. Heard was passing through that City in the course of duty. We regret that we missed Col. Herbert who turned up at the Palace where we disport ourself in the interests of our Country just after we had departed thence to our riverside chateau for the week-end. Those we saw were looking extremely fit and well. War is horrible but it is deucedly healthy barring the accidents!

Lieut.-Col. W. Clifford, D.S.O. A fuller tribute to his memory will be published next month. In the mean time we extend to Mrs. Clifford the deep sympathy of all those who with her mourn his death and they are many.

* * * * * *

This month we have to congratulate both the old Regiment and the recipients of the great honour on the addition of two new names to the list of those who have won the V.C. The last was gained by McHale more than 50 years ago. The men who have just gained this most coveted award are Pte. Ernest Sykes and Lce.-Cpl. T. Bryan.

Pte. Sykes is a married man with two children, both boys, the elder being eleven years of age and the younger one seven years of age. His home is at 3, Bank Street, Mossley, a village just outside Ashton-under-Lyne, and previous to the outbreak of war he worked as a platelayer on the London and North-Western Railway.

Enlisting in the early days of the war, he went out to Gallipoli with the West Riding Regiment, and was seriously wounded in the foot. When in one of the Egyptian hospitals

he was told that his foot would have to be amputated, but he would not give the necessary permission for the operation, and he was returned to England and sent to a London hospital, where several minor operations were performed. The result of these was that he was able to limp about with a stick.

He was then ordered to attend a Medical Board formed to decide whether he should be discharged or put on home service. The Board came to the decision that he was too big a man—Pte. Sykes stands well over six feet high—and he was accordingly passed for home service.

How it was that he came to be sent to France with the Northumberland Fusiliers Mrs. Sykes cannot understand, for when he returned to duty after being in hospital he could hardly walk. Yet there he is and has been for the past twelve months, and moreover, this gallant soldier, who at one time was considered to be a hopeless cripple, has won a soldier's highest honour, the Victoria Cross.

The Gazette says that "when his battalion in attack was held up about 35 yards in advance of our lines by intense fire from front and flank, and had suffered heavy casualties, Pte. Sykes, despite this heavy fire, went forward and brought back four wounded—he made a fifth journey and remained out under conditions which appeared to be certain death, until he had bandaged all those who were too badly wounded to be moved. These gallant actions, performed under incessant machine-gun and rifle fire, showed an utter contempt of danger.

* * * * * *

Lce.-Cpl. T. Bryan, as in the case of Sykes, is not a native of the county, his home being at Castleford, about ten miles out of Leeds.

At present he is in hospital at Alnwick where, although badly wounded in the right arm, he is making good progress.

A married man, 35 years of age, with four children, he joined the Reserve Battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers in April, 1915, was drafted to a Service Battalion in France in December, 1915. Fractured his ankle and was sent home in April, 1916—was drafted to France to another Service Battalion in December, 1916.

Previous to the war he was a well-known local Rugby player, having put in some valuable work for the Castleford Northern Union team.

When seen in hospital at Alnwick, Lce.-Cpl. T. Bryan told a thrilling story of his glorious deed.

"On this great day," he said "our lads were held up by a machine-gun, which was so well hidden that we couldn't check its deadly work. I therefore made up my mind to put a stop to its activities, so creeping over the top, I went from shell hole to shell hole in 'No Man's Land.' I crept into a communication trench, which was held by the enemy, where I came across three Germans. This was at six o'clock in the morning. These men were so surprised that they surrendered without showing any fight, and two of them presented me with their watches. I thereupon sent them down to the base with some of my men. I then went forward again, along with Sgt.-

surprised another Hun, who gave up his arms as meekly as a lamb. An hour later I was still prowling round, trying to fix the German machine-gun team, but was unable to spot it. Whilst working my way along, I was spotted by one of the enemy, who, letting drive, caught me in the right arm.

"Following this bit of hard luck, I decided to try rapid fire on the place where I thought the machine gun was placed, and on this being carried out, we found to our glee that the gun which had been spitting forth its fire of death barked no more. Two of the gun team tried to get away under our rapid fire, but I shot both of them.

"I stayed with my comrades until half-past one mid-day, after which I left to have my wound dressed. With the machine gun and its gunners destroyed, it was now an easy matter for our boys to advance."

Lce.-Cpl. Bryan said he joined the Northumberland Fusiliers because he knew it was a grand fighting regiment.

We publish a photograph of Lce.-Cpl. Bryan—also (by kind permission of the Graphic) one of him receiving his decoration at the hands of H.M. the King.

14TH JUNE.

LCE.-CPL. BRYAN, V.C.

MR. MACVEAGH asked whether the War Office has any and, if so, what objection to its being announced that Lce.-Cpl. Bryan, who was recently awarded the Victoria Cross, was and is serving with the Tyneside Irish Regiment?

MR. MACPHERSON: For Military reasons the particular battalion to which an officer or man belongs is never given, the regiment alone being stated.

27TH JUNE.

NORTHUMBERLAND FUSILIERS (PROMOTION).

COMMANDER H. CRAIG asked the Under-Secretary of State for War whether his attention has been drawn to the delay in promotion which has occurred in the 3rd (Spec. Res.) Batt. of the Northumberland Fusiliers; whether he can state the last date upon which a promotion from the rank of lieutenant to captain was gazetted in that battalion; and whether he can take any steps to remove the prejudice which is inflicted upon officers in the Special Reserve by reason of their promotion being delayed and junior officers of Service Battalions being promoted over them?

MR. FORSTER: The last date on which a promotion to captain in this battalion was gazetted was 4th July, 1916. Since that date no opportunity has occurred for promoting a lieutenant owing to a reduction in the establishment of captains in Special Reserve Battalions. I would remind my hon. and gallant friend that this matter has recently been under the consideration of the committee presided over by my right hon. friend the Member for Dundee.

The above reports are extracts from the Official Reports of Parliamentary Debates. We might comment on Mr. MacVeagh's question, but fear of disturbing the "correct" (?) atmosphere for the Irish Convention counsels restraint!!

The following casualties, taken from The Times, have regretfully to be recorded:—

ESTAMINETT TAAKS.

[BY E.G.B.]

AYE, thoo knaas, buts its varry queor, whaat a lot of funny things ones sees about the line. Reel funny things, too. Them's whaat keeps a chap gannin' sich as Aa hev for twenty-fower months—aye, twenty-fower an' just one leave. Aa've sometimes thowt to masel, "Geordie, laad, thoo's been a fule, tha should hev 'listed on the Staff." A smart yin Aa'd hev made wi' a reed hat. But no, the owd Fusiliers is best after aal's said and dune. We'or the laads for seein' Fritzy off the dump. Aa mind thinkin' just before we went across at thon triangle, "Poor owd beggors, whaat a hope they hev." Aa got a champion shoot theor. My! it waas a bonny 'yin—Lily white. Still Aa's getting off me subject. Whaat's yon new draaft laad sayin'? Oh, aye, humor Aa was taaking about. Noo, Aa'll just give the coompany a few incidents tae back up ma staatments. (Thanks, a beor for me). Well, hev ye ivor sat on the fiorstep and waited for the rum comin' up, varry likely hevin' a quiet bet on hoo money jars get up unbroken. Rainin', tae, and nae baccy. Whaat a chance Sinclair's missin' not setting up a bit shop in the trenches! Aye, as Aa was sayin', sitting waitin' for the rum. Aal at once ye see some daft lad tryin' to shove a green flaor intiv a one inch vaory pistol or even maybe a Stokes' Mortor cartridge. Aa seen one dae that recently. By, hoo Aa laafed! Mind, it neorly tuek his haand off. Then, even at Fritzy's shellin' one gets a good laaf sometimes. Not long since, Aa saw a motor wagon stannin' on a road, weel back, of course. The drivor was doon a dug-out discussin' the genoral tactical situation wi' the R.A.M.C. Weel, the Garmans seed the motor from one of his owd polony's. The first shell hit thon bloomin' wagon faor on the bonnet. Aye, she went up champion. By! Hoo Aa laafed. Aa heord telt aftor theor was a canny few men in't at the time. Whaat a hope they hed. Aafter a while, thon driver came oot tae seek for his car, creepin' along like one daftie. Just then one of wor guns went off ahint him. Taak aboot the Victoria Groonds! Why, mon, a whippit wasn't onywhere aside him.

Thoo knaas a busy neet in the front line. Ration parties, Rations and aal of them trying to paass yin another. Just like Grainger Street on a Saturday neet. They waak on one's feet, and a fellow's equipment gaes west pretty quick if he doesn't keep his eyes chaaked. One neet a party of Pioneers or some sich came alang tripping an' couping theor weels aal ower. Aa got faor mad. One of them ses tae me, "Hev thoo seen wor Officer?" "Why, aye," Aa ses, "He's gan doon theor." Away they went aefter him—as they thowt. Laast Aa seed of them, they was just gannin' inter the Georman front line. By! Hoo Aa laafed. I believe they're missin' yet.

One of wor Officers did a smart thing one neet. Pitch dark it was tae and simply comin' doon like Haamlet. A cortain Staff Officer came up and ses, "Wheor's the Kornel?" "Straight on" ses wor officer, "But mind the shell hoel on the left." A minute later theor was an aaful splaash and a holler. Thon Staff Officer was in up tae the neck in clawts. The shell hoel was on the right. By! Hoo Aa laafed. Aa never cared for thon Staff feller either.

But still its sometimes the funny side agin' yerself. Aa mind once shoutin' down a sap heid for five minutes, "Who's theor?" nae answer though, mind, it was as crooded as the Bigg market. Aa yelled agin and a great daft laad shouted "Kelly from the Isle of Man." Aa'd nevor been sae mad since Aa backed the "Polisman" for the plaate, and he wadn't start, sae doon Aa wint. "Are they shellin'" asks thon daft laad (he didn't belong to wor Battalion, we don't keep the like of him). "No," ses Aa "It's varry quiet." Up he comes and he hadn't gone a yard before a crump burst and away he wint. By! Hoo Aa laafed. Aa'd gone doon mesel for shelter.

Weel, it's just on closin' time and Aa'm away home. Parade fower-thorty for ranges. And this is rest! Whaat a hope we hev.

THE HELMET.

IT lay on the dusty road, a heavy German shrapnel helmet. The finder had visions, and sat him down on the bank to revel in thought and to weave a story round the souvenir. Themes had recently been few, and no sooner had an idea entered his head and he had begun to work out a plot, than he would find some other writing Johnny had forestalled him. He couldn't pick up a paper but he found his pet ideas worked into a story—by someone else. But, here to his hand, was something new. Local colour was easy. A ruined, desolate village; gardens full of alstroemeria, aquilegia, rhubarb, and gooseberry bushes; shell-holes; the foundations of a demolished church; beyond, fields of lucerne, self-sown oats and dandelions; and—a grey steel shrapnel helmet. He lolled back and dreamt. What style should he adopt? The easy narrative of his adolescent days, the slap-dash style of B——— B———, or the semi-tragical method of S———? No, he would soar beyond the moderns of the Standerby, the Skit, and Answers. He would go to the classics for his models, the classics of the sevenpenny reprints, which had been for months now, excepting battalion orders and pamphlets on gas, his sole mental food. And this narrative is a story of his attempts in his own words.

"Brigadier Gerard" type, I am not in the least a conceited man, but—well, history shall know me. Did I tell you the story of the shrapnel helmet? No one has heard it before, and only two know about it; our great chief and myself. I was sworn to secrecy in the billet of the chief. He looked at me from those steely green eyes of his and said:

"Mr. Pip-Squeak, I know you as one of my most trusted officers. Nay, do not deny it" (for I was about to speak) "nay, I know you. You are marked out for promotion to R.T.O., with a second star to maintain your dignity in that position of trust."

How I thought of my mother at that moment of impending glory; and of Trixie Golightly, of the Empire, Newgate Street. My eyes dimmed with tears, and my chest swelled until my "Sam Browne" burst into twenty pieces. It was my favourite belt, too, the one Trixie had toyed with.

"You will ride to-night to Amiens. It is but thirty miles away, and you must be there by midnight." That was easy, for my noble mule, "Agatha," was equal to any emergency. She would finish fresh; and many admiring glances would come my way as we galloped past control posts and quaint estaminets. I wept for joy; I, the chosen messenger of the chief.

"My noble mule 'Agatha'."

(It would seem that here the inspiration had worked out at this. The next notes are in a different style, probably that of Bart Kennedy, the inventor of full stops.)

A helmet. A German helmet. Despised, rejected. Souvenir hunters. Where were they? The Bantams? Extraordinary. Despised, by the roadside, rejected of all men. Its owner gone. Was he beneath the ruins? The ruins of a church. Oh, Fate. Too good. The ruins of a hell were too good.

A helmet. A steel helmet. Chinstrap complete. No one to salve it. In Germany a widow weeps. Children mutter. Starved children, gaunt and pale. The corpse factory has lost a victim. The helmet lies unheeded beneath the ruins. . . .

(This effort subsided. The author-to-be had calculated the rate at a penny a line, and found he would be enriched by 1/4½. He tried something expansive in the sociological line, basing it on H. G. Wells. The three dots at intervals are suggestive, and serve to increase the payment of a penny a line.)

Mr. Whittling was in France. His arduous duties as writer of the third leader on the Newsy Mail had been completed, and he was refreshing his mind ere he accomplished the final chapter of his book, "Looking it over." . . . His mind at the time was a complex. There was his dwindling salary consequent in the limitation of paper supplies; his wife strong, healthy, fleshy, but devoid of the finer cerebral convolutions that would make her a fitting soul mate. . . . He couldn't understand why he had married her. In his early days at South Kensington they had met in the biological laboratory, with its smell of stale crayfish and over-ripe guinea pigs. It was not an attraction, but in some unfathomed way, which he had never been able to plumb, he had been driven to propose. They were married. . . . There was the affair with Mrs. Pooner. She was an artist, wholly understanding the complexities of his brain storms, and acting always as a safe refuge. He had tried again and again, and yet once more to analyse the reaction of her super-consciousness upon the frequent unstability of his own mental processes, and had not found the explanation. But there she was always waiting. . .

Mr. Whitling. . . .

(The author must have found, like his great model, some difficulty in coming to the point, and had evidently left the vital matter of the helmet over to the next or next-but-one volume. Only a few notes of the last attempt remain. They are reminiscent of Mrs. Florence Barclay, unconsciously, of course. So do great minds achieve similar ends independently.)

The gate stood open. (The gate, let me add, was removed some thirty yards by a shell.) Captain Ivor Dare strode through. He was nearly six feet six in his khaki socks; his face was tanned; and from under his steel helmet peeped delightful thick brown curls. His eyes were of a compelling blue, and flashed fire as a flint bears fire. He was dreaming of the lady of his choice; the tall, fair Ermyntrude, daughter of the Earl of Byker. She was far above him, he knew. But his whole life was devoted to her service. He took from his pocket his patent notecase, bound in heliotrope calf velvet, and gazed lovingly at the noble face therein pictured. He had cut it from a month-old Sketch; and it was his talisman. The clear hazel eyes looked into his own; and he thought they smiled encouragement to him. But how could she, from her lofty eminence as a munition worker look upon him, a mere captain of infantry? He felt he was not worthy of her; but he determined to win her. Love conquers all.

(The notes end here abruptly. When I came across him, his helmet lay alongside the Hun helmet, and he himself was some yards away. On the wings of inspiration he had flown to the Slopes of Parnassus, whence there is no return. He is struck off the establishment, with effect, from to-day's date.)

SUPPLEMENT TO THE LONDON GAZETTE, JULY 18TH.

WAR OFFICE, July 18th.

The King has been pleased to award a second Bar to the Distinguished Service Order to:—

Capt. (tempy. Lieut.-Col.) Cecil Porch Porch, D.S.O., R. of O., E. Surr. Regt., attchd. North. Fusrs.—He led his Battalion with the greatest gallantry and determination. He personally superintended the cutting of the enemy wire under continuous machine-gun and rifle fire. He set a very fine example of coolness and courage throughout. (D.S.O. gazetted March 26th, 1917.)

The King has been pleased to approve of the appointment of the following officer to be Companion of the Distinguished Service Order in recognition of his gallantry and devotion to duty in the field:—

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. (actg. Capt.) Horace Hunter Neeves, M.C., North. Fusrs.—For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in handling his Company during an attack of the enemy position. His skillful leading and determined courage enabled him, in spite of enemy flanking and reverse fire, to get his men to within a few yards of the enemy's rear position. Owing to many casualties, however, he was compelled to withdraw. On his return he gave his Battalion Commander a full and lucid report on the situation—the only accurate one received. It was subsequently found that he had been wounded in the lungs early in the attack and had remained with his men under fire 23 hours after being wounded.

The King has been pleased to award a Bar to the Military Cross to the following Officers:—

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Wesley Milum Gibson, M.C., North. Fusrs.—During the advance he showed great courage and coolness in rallying and encouraging his men under heavy fire. His personal example and disregard for danger largely contributed to the reaching of the final objective. (M.C. gazetted June 4th, 1917.)

Tempy. Capt. Thomas Emmanuel Heron, M.C., North. Fusrs.—He led his Company with great skill and courage. Later, although wounded, he continued to lead his men and consolidate the captured position. He set a splendid example throughout. (M.C. gazetted March 26th, 1917.)

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. (actg. Capt.) Horace Hunter Neeves, D.S.O., M.C., North. Fusrs.—He was in command of one of the leading Companies in the advance. Not only did he maintain his own Company during a long and difficult advance, but also took command of another Company involved in the front-line attack. He set a splendid example throughout (M.C. gazetted Jan. 1st, 1917.)

MILITARY CROSS.

The King has been pleased to confer the Military Cross on the following Officers and Warrant Officer in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the field:—

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Arnold Morley Allen, North. Fusrs.—He led the Company with great skill and determination. On reaching the final objective his example and energy under heavy fire greatly assisted in the task of consolidation.

2nd-Lieut. Thomas Bennett, North. Fusrs.—He led his Platoon to within 50 yards of the enemy trench, having only two men with him when he arrived. He remained there for six hours, firing at the enemy in full view. He finally retired in order to escape our own barrage.

Tempy. Lieut. Robert Donald, North. Fusrs.—He displayed the greatest energy and initiative when commanding bombing parties. He organized and took charge of small parties of different units, and by means of grenades he and his party succeeded in inflicting severe casualties.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Harold Whiteley Firth, North. Fusrs.—Led his Company with the utmost ability and determination for nine hours after he was wounded. His energy and gallantry were most marked in reducing an obstinate strong point.

2nd-Lieut. Joseph Galley Garrard, North. Fusrs.—He took command of the Company and superintended the consolidation of the captured position, beating off two counter-attacks. Later, a number of men being buried owing to intense enemy shelling, he, in full view of the enemy, dug them out.

2nd-Lieut. Sidney Richard Greenfield, North. Fusrs.—As intelligence officer, when all communications had been cut owing to hostile shelling, he went forward a distance of some 1,500 yards under intense hostile barrage and obtained important information which was urgently required. Throughout the whole period he rendered the greatest assistance to his Commanding Officer.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Alfred George Jennings, North. Fusrs.—He led his Platoon with great skill against an enemy machine-gun strong point. He succeeded in capturing the position, which was holding up the whole line, and would have caused heavy casualties.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. John George Kirkup, North. Fusrs.—He led his Company with great dash and initiative, re-formed the men under the barrage, and reached his final objective. Throughout he set a splendid example of courage and coolness.

2nd-Lieut. George Van Wyck Laughton, North. Fusrs.—During 24 hours he was on a picquet in front of our own line and conducted a daylight patrol to within 300 yards of the enemy trenches. Throughout he displayed the greatest courage and determination.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. (actg. Capt.) Robert Victor Lees North. Fusrs.—He displayed untiring energy and ability in organizing the advance to the second objective. He did splendid work in capturing and consolidating the position. He was mainly responsible for the capturing of the machine-guns which were giving so much trouble.

2nd-Lieut. Alexander Brodie McKeand, North. Fusrs.—He performed most valuable work when in charge of Battalion carrying parties. He frequently took long journeys in his efforts to secure water for the troops. His pluck and determination under heavy fire greatly assisted with the final consolidation.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Arthur Augustus Morris, North. Fusrs.—He patrolled for several hundred yards beyond the final objective and sent back most valuable information. This patrol was carried out under heavy artillery barrage.

Tempy. Lieut. (actg. Capt.) Michael John Murray, North. Fusrs.—During the advance he led his Company with great courage and determination. He displayed a total disregard for personal safety, and throughout set a magnificent example to all.

2nd-Lieut. (tempy. Capt.) Frederick Oswald Outhwaite, North. Fusrs.—During an enemy counter-attack they succeeded in entering a portion of our line. He crawled within 10 yards of the captured position and gained valuable information. He returned and organized and led a successful counter-attack.

Tempy. Capt. Murray Gladstone Patten, North. Fusrs.—He took over a scattered series of shell holes, but quickly mapped out and constructed a continual trench forming a strong line of defence. This work was done under continuous shell and machine-gun fire.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Stanley Dixon Proffit, North. Fusrs.—He displayed great ability and courage in re-forming his Platoon at each successive point in the advance. During the hostile counter-attack later on his energy was invaluable, especially in patrol work, when the counter-attack had been driven off.

Tempy. Lieut. William Henry Robson, North. Fusrs.—He advanced with a small party under intense machine-gun fire, and captured and consolidated a position in front of the main attack, which had been held up. He held this post, repelling counter-attacks, for 24 hours, when he was ordered to withdraw.

Tempy. Capt. John Guy Simons, North. Fusrs.—He led his Company with great energy and resource, displaying a total disregard of danger. Throughout he set a magnificent example of courage and coolness.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Joseph Snee, North. Fusrs.—He led his Company with great skill and courage. He re-organized under the barrage and got into his final objective, doing great execution with bombs. He displayed great gallantry throughout.

No. 265297 C.S.M. Colin Finch, North. Fusrs.—He took command of the Company and commenced the consolidation of the position won. On the following day, when, owing to heavy hostile shelling, some men were buried, he went forward to their assistance and dug them out, in full view of the enemy.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

Lieut.-Col. C. W. Clifford, D.S.O.

It is with the greatest sorrow and regret that we have to record the death of Lieut.-Col. C. W. Clifford, D.S.O., who was killed in action.

LIEUT.-COL. C. W. CLIFFORD, D.S.O.

Col. Clifford was the only surviving son of the late Major-General R. M. Clifford, Indian Army, and of Mrs. Clifford, of Soxia, Worthing. Born in 1876, he joined the North Lancashire Regiment in March, 1896, and transferred to the 5th Fusiliers in 1901, getting his Company in the same year. He served in the South African War (1899-1901), and took part in the Defence of Kimberley. In this war he was wounded, and also mentioned in despatches, and awarded the D.S.O. He also saw service in the N.W. Frontier (Mohmand Country) in 1908, for which he got the Frontier Medal. In 1912 he was appointed Adjutant of the Indian Volunteers, which appointment he was holding when War broke out in August, 1914. At that date, however, he was at home in England on leave. He did all he could to get to the Front with the old Regiment, but it is in the recollection of the writer that at the time Indian officers at home on leave were at first ordered back to India, although recalled at the last minute. Disappointed in his desire, he made the best of things as they were, and served his country right well under the somewhat dismal conditions to which so many officers were doomed in this War, of being shifted from unit to unit, from one appointment to another appointment, always learning one set of brother officers only to be transferred to another unit to begin all over again. It was a miserable existence for so keen a soldier as was Col. Clifford, but he stuck it cheerfully, like the plucky man he was, and did his utmost wherever the Fates called him.

By the men with whom he came in contact during this War, as by every one of his brother officers and the men of his regiment, he was loved, as what man would not be who possessed the gifts that were his. His cheery disposition, his love of sport, his keenness, and his kindly nature made him everyone's friend, and his death will be mourned by multitudes, not only of men of all castes and creeds, but also by many a dumb animal, for he was always surrounded by a host of horses and dogs, who loved him as he loved them.

He was killed by a shell while standing behind the lines with three other officers, two of whom were killed at the same time. He leaves a widow and three sons, to whom we offer our deepest sympathy in their sorrow.

Capt. A. E. A. Evans.

Captain A. E. A. Evans, killed in action, was a junior member of the firm of Marlatt, Warner & Evans, Barristers, of Winnipeg. He was educated in Winnipeg, at St. John's College and School, and graduated from there in 1911. He came to this country with the first Canadian contingent as a private, and obtained his commission in the Northumberland Fusiliers, when in England. He was a keen athlete, and a well-known oarsman in Winnipeg, and was most popular with his brother officers and with his men, who, as was said by a brother officer of his, "simply worshipped him." Of him Col. Dix writes, "He was a great soldier and a most awful loss to me and the whole Battalion."

Capt. and Adjt. George Laidman Band.

Capt. and Adjt. George Laidman Band, Northumberland Fusiliers, whose name is included in the official list, was killed in action at the age of 21, and was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Band, of Oxton, Cheshire. He was educated at Birkenhead School, and was a member of the Liverpool Scottish before the outbreak of war and went to France with the regiment early in November, 1914.

He was invalided home the following Christmas and on recovery obtained his commission in April, 1915, proceeding again to France with his regiment in September, 1915. In March, 1916, he was appointed adjutant, also receiving his second star, and in September, 1916, he obtained his captaincy. He was mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's dispatch of 13th November, 1916. A brother officer writes:—"It was a very sad and unfortunate day for the battalion, as it lost through one shell three of its best and most honoured members, your son, the commanding officer, and the assistant adjutant."

Lieut. Montague Frank Peyton.

Lieut. Montagu Frank Peyton, Northumberland Fusiliers, who was killed, was the younger son of Capt. Frank Peyton, R.N., and Mrs. Peyton, of East Horndon, Broadstairs. He was educated at Oakfield, Rugby, and Lancing College, and proceeding to Sandhurst, passed out in October, 1916, and was gazetted to the Northumberland Fusiliers. He went immediately to the Front.

Lieut. Cuthbert Farrar Savage.

Lieut. Cuthbert Farrar Savage, Northumberland Fusiliers, who died of wounds on the 20th June, was the son of Canon E. S. and Mrs. Savage, of Hexham Abbey, Northumberland. He was educated at Aysgarth School and Rugby, and took Honour Law at New College, Oxford. After his first term at Rugby he spent his Christmas holidays in Switzerland, where, at the age of 14, he was first of present boys in the Alpine Public Schools Skiing competition. At the same time he also passed the international skiing test. At the declaration of war he was in Vancouver studying for the Bar. He enlisted on the 11th August, 1914, in the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, and came to England in the first Canadian Contingent. He obtained a commission in the Northumberland Fusiliers in January, 1915, and proceeded to France with his Battalion the same year. He was wounded at Bully Grenay in April, 1916, and was in England until September, when he rejoined his regiment at the Front. One who knew him well writes:—"And what a gallant lad—handsome as a young Greek god, courteous, charming, and gifted. I have many memories of him, skiing down steep snow slopes with such grace, skill, and daring, dancing and laughing and jesting with his friends, or discussing serious matters with earnestness and intelligence."

2nd-Lieutenant Marcus Leonard Wilkinson.

2nd-Lieutenant Marcus Leonard Wilkinson, Northumberland Fusiliers, has died of wounds, aged 23. He was the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wilkinson, Brookside, Teesdale Road, Harrogate. He passed the Oxford Senior and London Matriculation examinations, and in October 1913, entered Queen's College, Cambridge. He took honours in the History Tripos, and was about to take his degree when he joined the Inns of Court O.T.C He received his commission in December, 1916, and went to the front on the 6th February.

Sgt. Ernest Storey.

We regret to announce the death of Sgt. Ernest Storey, who was killed in action on 13th April, while serving with the Machine Gun Corps. Sgt. Storey served with the Northumberland Fusiliers before the war. He was twice wounded but on neither occasion severely enough to necessitate his coming home, so that he served continuously for over two and a half years in the fighting line overseas. He was killed instantly by a bullet through the head. To his people who now mourn his loss we extend the heartfelt sympathy of his friends in the Regiment.

SGT. STOREY.

Regimental Notes.

Pioneer writes:—

July, 1917.

"A month of brilliant weather, barring a few thunderstorms, seemed to have given a hint of permanency to our little Camp in the valley. Flower borders appeared magically, and added a bright touch of colour in front of the camouflaged tents. Rustic verandahs seemed to grow over the tent entrances: and the Mess Cook had planted his beds of salads. We settled, and enjoyed life, planning great things.

* * * * * *

"The Inter-Company Cricket League progressed, and many exciting matches took place. X Company beat W Company by 41—40; and Z Company beat W Company by 30—28. In the match between X and Z, the former had hard luck. They made 60 for eight, and declared. Z made 60 all out, and so drew. The excellent form of Z Company has been the surprise packet of the tournament. The League table stands as follows, and, as matters are at present, it is likely to stand for some time:—

		Played.	Won.	Drawn.	Lost.	Points
Z	Company.....	4 ...	3 ...	1 ...	0 ...	7
X	,, ...	3 ...	2 ...	1 ...	0 ...	5
H.Q.	,, ...	2 ...	1 ...	0 ...	1 ...	2
W	,, ...	2 ...	0 ...	0 ...	2 ...	0
Y	,, ...	3 ...	0 ...	0 ...	3 ...	0

"During the match between X and W Companies there was a tense finish. W required four to win, and had three wickets to fall. At the moment a Hun aeroplane came over, flying very high, and followed by a stream of shrapnel puffs. Which to watch? The game went on excitingly.

"'Click!' Another wicket down. Four to win, and two wickets to fall. And the shrapnel puffs were massing into a cloud round the enemy 'plane.

"'Well hit!' Two to win, and two wickets to fall. Attention was equally divided between the air scene and the cricket.

"'Click!' Another wicket down. Two to win, and one wicket to fall. And the 'plane seemed doomed.

"'He's down!'

"'Click!'

"Almost simultaneously the two announcements were made, and one set of cheers did for both victors — X Company and the Archies.

"Life did not run in monotonous lines. The enemy conceived a nasty spite against a neighbouring balloon; and one Sunday night a 'plane dived from behind a cloud, firing as he came. He missed the balloon, turned, and flew swiftly away, followed by the usual hail. It was an enterprising move, and likely to be repeated. Again he came, missed again, flew low, and was hit, probably by machine-gun bullets. As he fell it seemed as though he would make a mess of our carefully-trimmed herbaceous border; but one wing collapsed, and the machine swerved, finally crashing not five yards from the Orderly Room, a tarpaulin structure. It was easy to give the exact location of the smashed machine! Every Archie within a radius of three miles claimed the victim; every machine-gun crew had a voice; but we ourselves, and Y Company in particular, claim that the ingeniously-mounted Lewis gun did the deed. And the men who had voluntarily manned the gun during 'off duty' periods had their reward.

"We moved by a novel method, on a narrow-gauge railway. It was just a case of moving camp, and we took the many quaint bivouacs in the train. They were all there: Sikovit Villa, Dryasell Cottage, and those stately mansions of the Rue de Cookhouse, in which there were no desirable apartments to let. And still we work. Probably, at the present rate, the Cricket League will be some time in finishing

"There have been some changes during the month. 2nd-Lieut. D. S. Broadhurst has gone to the R.F.C.; 2nd-Lieut. P. O. M. Ffoulkes has joined from Hospital, and 2nd-Lieut. W. E. Hicks has returned from England. 2nd-Lieut. W. Miller has been wounded."

NOTES FROM A SERVICE BATTALION.

Not a vast amount to chronicle this month, I fear; but, of course, we must put in an appearance as per usual. I think, since leaving England, on only one occasion we have been absent from these columns. Some of our sister Battalions can hardly say that. However, perhaps they are too busy breaking in the Boche, though I am managing to scribble this in a Support Trench with umpteen flies astir and an extraordinary number of small frogs advancing in close formation on the floor of the trench. Leap-frog method, we presume.

* * * * * *

Since the last notes the Battalion has "been up" and in and out. We haven't had such a bad time on the whole, with leave, "carrying on," and plenty of nil casualty returns.

* * * * * *

Our C.O. has got an extension to his month's leave owing to illness. That he will soon recover is the wish of everybody.

* * * * * *

We were all very glad to welcome Capt. G. J. B. Tanfield back to us, after an absence of some months in Blighty, sick.

* * * * * *

Capt. R. V. L. Dallas, M.C., has gone to another regiment in the Brigade as second in command, and has secured his majority, for which we offer him our heartiest congratulations; also to 2nd-Lieut. E. G. Bates, on his being awarded the Military Cross.

* * * * * *

The second anniversary of our arrival in this country was very quietly celebrated while we were out for a few days behind the line. Two years have shown us a lot; we have learned what modern warfare is; we have known many experiences, happy and otherwise. We came out with a reputation to keep up, the traditions of the FIFTH to be upheld, and I think, in all humility, we may say we have done so. All ranks have seen changes, drastic changes, from varying causes, and gaps in the ranks and empty seats at Mess tell us what the greatest cause has been. Our contribution to the Roll of Honour has been a lengthy one, and only a small percentage of those splendid lads who stormed the recruiting offices in the early days remain with us yet. Spirit and determination were always the birthright of the Battalion, firmly planted in our midst, and with the legacy of the memory of those who died beside us to strengthen it still more, so shall we play on till the other side cry, "Enough."

COMFORTS FUND.

Contributions are again needed. It is hoped to get a good supply of comforts ready before the cold weather starts. Cap-comforters, mittens and socks will be most useful. Parcels and donations should be sent to Mrs. M. C. Thornton, c/o Editor, and cheques made payable to her.

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
NEAR WALLINGFORD,
31st July, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of his country, would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

We call the attention of all Officers of the FIFTH who have sons to educate to the announcement which appears on this page concerning the Scholarship at Wellington College which Mrs. Riddell has endowed as a memorial to her husband, the late General J. F. Riddell, who was killed on 25th April, 1915, when in command of the ill-fated brigade of Territorial Battalions of Northumberland Fusiliers which, only five days after landing in France, had to be pushed up into the firing line to frustrate the Germans when, for the first time, they sprung their poison gas upon our troops in the Ypres Salient. This action was the foundation of that pedestal of glory which this brigade has since built up, but their glory on that occasion cost them dear, and the greatest blow which they had to endure was the loss of the gallant officer who commanded them and who died as he had lived, a shining example of a lion-hearted gallant soldier and gentleman. His memory will never die among those whose privilege it has been to soldier with him, and this scholarship which his widow has so generously placed at the disposal of sons of Fifth Fusiliers, or, failing them, the sons of Officers with a more remote connection with the old Regiment, will serve to keep bright for ever, before the eyes of future generations, the vision of so shining an example of how a good Fifth Fusilier should live and, if needs be, should die in defence of his country.

Wellington College, Berkshire.

An Election will take place in the near future to a St. George's Scholarship, value £60 per annum, founded in Memory of the late Brig.-General J. F. Riddell. The Scholarship is open in the first place to the direct descendant of any Regular Officer of the Fifth (Northumberland) Fusiliers, and in the second place to the direct descendant of any Officer of the Northumberland Fusiliers, other than an Officer who has served in one of the Regular Line Battalions.

Full particulars may be obtained from The Master, Wellington College, Berkshire.

In order that the conditions which govern the Scholarship may be understood the following clauses from the actual deed of gift of the necessary Capital made by Mrs. Riddell to Wellington College are reprinted, viz:—

1. The said War Stock shall remain so invested until it is redeemed and then the proceeds shall forthwith be re-invested by the College in the purchase of such investment as the Governors of the College shall think fit which investment may from time to time be varied at the discretion of the Governors.

2. One Open Scholarship of the annual value of not more than £60 is hereby founded at the College which shall be called the St. George's Scholarship.

3. The holder of a St. George's Scholarship shall be called the James Forster Riddell Scholar.

5. In case on the occasion of any vacancy in a St. George's Scholarship there shall be no candidate qualified as hereinbefore provided to be elected to the vacant Scholarship or in case there shall be one or more candidates so qualified but none of them shall in the opinion of the Master of the College for the time being be of sufficient merit then the Master may elect to the vacant Scholarship a son grandson or nephew of any other Officer of the Northumberland Fusiliers not being a Regular Officer and in case there being no candidate descendant of a Regular Officer or of an Officer other than a Regular the Scholarship shall not be awarded.

6. The method of election of the James Forster Riddell Scholar shall subject to the qualifications aforesaid be determined absolutely by the Master of the College for the time being.

8. The St. George's Scholarship shall be tenable by the scholar elected thereto during good behaviour so long as he shall remain a student of the College and any Riddell Scholar who shall cease to be a student of the College shall at the same time cease to be a Riddell Scholar.

We hear that Capt. Auld made a fine bid for liberty at Whitsuntide, which alas! proved fruitless in the end, although he got past the guards and spent four days and nights in the journey to England sleeping in woods by day and moving by night. Luck, however, was against him, and he was caught and taken back to Augustabad, where a court martial sent him first to solitary confinement and then to a fortress, where our Bobby had to wash his own linen and take his turn as orderly cook for his mess. We are glad to learn that his period of duress is now past and that, though no longer at the beautiful Augustabad in a nice hotel, he is once more on terms of equality with his brother officers in captivity at the Prisoners' of War Camp at Ströhen Suligen in Westphalia, where he looks forward to receiving letters from his friends.

We publish with regret a notice in our Information Column requesting news of Pte. Parfitt. This fine young soldier was the son of an old FIFTH Fusilier Col.-Sgt. (Orderly-Room-Sgt.) Jas. H. Parfitt, and the grandson of another old FIFTH man, Col.-Sgt. James Parfitt, who was a well-known figure at the Tate Gallery. His uncle, too, Sgt.-Maj. Geo. Alex. Parfitt, fought with the Regiment in the Soudan and South Africa, and re-enlisted in August, 1914, to help raise one of our Service Battalions, with which he served for eighteen months in France, and he is now at home wounded. Pte. Parfitt proved himself to be a worthy member of this fine family of old pensioners of the FIFTH. He enlisted at the outbreak of war and was only 18 years of age at the time.

We get news fitfully of and from past and present FIFTH Officers and Men. Elsewhere will be found a very interesting account of the doings of Capt. Milne Home in East Africa. We have seen during the month Capt. Forsyth and Maj. Stephen, both of whom seemed very well, the former however has been home sick. He has doffed his kilt for the whipcord breeches of a cavalry regiment. Col. Bonham Carter has had to undergo another operation but we are glad to hear he is going on well and expects to be back at work again before long. We wish him a speedy and a final recovery. He has had more than any one man's share of wounds and their results.

ESTAMINETT TAAKS.

[BY E.G.B.]

WEEL, as Julius Cæsor saayd, heor A'm agen, present and correct.

By! This beor is poor stuff. Aa whiles thinks on the beor Aa used tae git at H——, when Aa waas wi' the Tarriors. Aye, I waas wi' them yence afore the waar, just for a bit sport. Fower drunks in three daays, and they paaid me tae desort.

Hooiver, this concoction is wet, onywaay, and that aalways something. Aa think Aa've desorved this yen tae. We've had a sad time laately. Up the line, in, oot, and roond aboot. Hanging on, warking, caarying, and the rest. Aa'm faiorly fed up wi'it aal. So's every yen. Officors tae. Yen of ma Coompany officers was laid asleep, happed up in his bit cubey hoel. Noo, he's a tarrible thin chep. Noo, the Genoraal came roond the trench. It waas a varry quiort mornin', but aal the syem he was lost. He seen the officer in the hoel. "Why isn't yon corpse barried?" he asks. Then he went tae the bombing shop and lucks thro' a parryiscope. Aa waas on sentry, aand Aa saays, "Watch oot, sor. This plaace is mined." By, hoo he raan! aftor saayin' tae the Staff Ceptain it waas neorly lunch time.

Wor Coompany Commandor telt him a few canny ones. Hoo many men got theor haior cut in the C.T., aand hoo many got theor naails mannycured in the snipin' post. A queeor chep, thon. Whaat a roar he lett oot, whiles. They saay his mooth was tueken for a tent-door yen neet. Noo, if the Garmans had tueken it for a sap-heid aand hoyed a bomb in't!

Still, thoo kna's wor officors is aal reet. They keep things going. We was gannin' tae hev a bombardment yen neet aand expected retallyaation. The support platoons was ordored doon the sap. "Aand," saays wor officer, "ye'll hev tae buck yor seats." Of course, Aa laafed, bein' dew on paas next daay. (Some daay Aa'l tell ye aboot ma ten daays on paas.)

Yon syem officor put the wind faaiorly up a new draaft. "When this Battalion gaus ower the top," he saays, "we faal in oot theor on a markor." Whaat a chap he is for taakin' new fellers oot on patrol. Whiles he sends oot another yen before aand tells the new laads theor Fritzies. By! Aa've seen some canny scraaps, tae.

We hev another officor who went oot yen neet aaftor paasing the order for aal rifles tae be unloaded and aal Lewis drums tuck off. He tuck a Lewis gun wi' him aand aal with twa squaads of bombors forbye. Aa put the wind up them bonny. Twa varry leets reet intue them. By! hoo they raan.

Another officor we hed was tarrible for claartin' on wi' Garman bombs aand sich as them. Noo Aa dident like them at aal. He waas aalwaays hevin' explosions in an empty baay. Aa could nevor git any sleep at aal. It waasn't see bed when he waas in the front line, but when he put Trench Mortors intiv us from the resarve line it waas nae laaffin' mattor at aal. He put a champion faaior ontiv Battalion Heedquaartors. A lot o' Signallors went sick.

Weel, Aa'll hev tae gau noo aand git baack tae camp. Fatigue at eleven. Caaryin' gramophone records or haaiorwaash for the R.E.'s. Ower much of this job. Send the laads ower the top disguised as shel-hoels aand caarry a wiore entanglement in front, aand the waar wod suen be duen. Weel, sae lang. Aa'll be back yen neet.

A FIFTH FUSILIER IN EAST AFRICA.

(BY ACME).

During the early summer of 1916 it was decided to send a Brigade from Nigeria to reinforce General Smuts in G.E.A. Several old W.A.F.F. officers who had rejoined their units or were otherwise employed at home or abroad were "roped in" for the purpose, the writer being one. September and October saw boat-loads of "roped in" and New Army officers and B. N.C.O.'s packed off to Nigeria to have a month or so in which to get to know and train their units before proceeding to E.A. Towards the end of November the Brigade embarked in transports, mostly passenger and cargo boats "converted." The writer had the luck to travel with the best. We called at Durban en route, and took the men ashore. One or two had been to London for the Coronation or other function, the remainder had never seen a "White man town." Their astonishment was most amusing to watch, and a visit to the cinematograph—including the Somme picture—and the Zoo amazed them still further. They were particularly interested on seeing white "pikkins" (children), as all the whites with whom they had ever dealt were grown up!! For purposes of complying with the ukase of the Censor, I will refer to the units of the Brigade as V. W. X. Y. and Z. X. landed first at Dares Salaam, and was pushed straight up country by train to Mikesse and by march route to Tulo. W. Z. V. and Y. followed in that order. D.E.S. is not an attractive place. Fritz still exists and sells his wares at exorbitant rates. A big Tudian quarter, where the writer spread himself in halting and half-forgotten Urdu, provided smells which brought every Sudder Bazaar back to one's nostrils. Government House had been completely destroyed by the bombardment, and there were several other signs of straight shooting. There is a very fine Hospital and some spacious European houses, two big churches, and one street of good shops; otherwise it was not impressive, and the heat, dust, and hustle of disembarkation did not tend to improve it. Two or three statues of Colonial Bosches adorn the place; one is pourtrayed with a Hun askari (native soldier) with his foot on the neck of a lion, whether a lion of the country or the British one was not stated. We travelled up in, on, and round a train of trucks. The Europeans were encased in three iron brick kilns on wheels, the native R. and F. in other kilns by thirties, and a heterogeneus collection of porters and literal hangers-on on the roofs, footboards, buffers, or any projecting piece of the train. As we left D.E.S. at noon the heat was terrific. Signs of the retreating Hun were visible in the form of destroyed bridges and culverts, the most notable being at a river called Ngerengere, where a very fine bridge had been blown up and two locomotives run out on to it to make confusion worse confounded and deny their use to us. We arrived at our destination at 1.0 a.m. on the 24th December. It was inky dark, and the rest camp was invisible on arrival at it and remained so by day, mainly because it did not exist! An issue of plum pudding and rum was ordered for Europeans for Christmas Day, but, like many subsequent "issues," it failed to materialize. We marched at 3.0 p.m. on Christmas Day to another alleged rest camp. This also did not exist. There were a few shelters for the R. and F., but none for the Europeans, and as the distance was 16 miles, and it was pitch dark on arrival, we settled down on the side of the road to get what rest the terrestrial and aerial inhabitants of E.A. would allow us. Christmas dinner consisted of tea and brandy and sardines, and if one was lucky—biscuits. About one hour after we had arrived, the rain started, and continued incessantly till approx: 9.0 a.m. on Boxing Day. Some interesting spectacles were observed in the grim of dawn. Distinguished officers might be seen striking out for dry land, or floating aground on their own or someone else's valises, out of the loch in which they had been taking their night's rest. A couple of hours were spent in trying to swab up some breakfast and fish out our porters. Most of these were collected, and we started off again for Ruwu Top, 12 miles distant. There is no question that the sun rules by day, but the rain more often than the moon by night in this region and at this season. We reached our destination without further incident, and found at last a real fine bell-tent camp erected by X., the first arrivals of the Brigade. Many loads were left behind, and are, by their continued absence, still apparently trying to catch up, having been four months en route. We had a day's rest, and were very glad of it to get dry and sort out what kit remained. En passant, I must describe our porters. They were a very weedy crowd compared with the Hausa and Bushmen carriers of Nigeria. Their approved load is 50lbs., but as they usually move with a 60lb. kit of their own, and very easily get tired or fed up, one has to be jettisoned in the bush, and the E.A. porter is no altruist. They smell vilely, their knowledge of sanitation is nil, and so far as cleanliness and decency of personal habits go, I have never in the "Bushest" of Bush parts of Nigeria met such a low type. Added to this, it is almost impossible to prevent a continuous jabber, and at the sound of one shot they throw their loads and bolt. After the stout and well-disciplined carriers in the Cameroons, this was a rude awakening to most of us. Their "Neaparas," or head men, are nearly all useless as such, and the result is that every column has to use up a good proportion of fighting troops to compete with the situation. Some of us at this stage began to reckon our distances in mules, instead of miles. Thus one would describe such and such a point as five dead mules away from A., or 27 dead mules before reaching B. The roads were littered with them, and the air wafted the news of an impending mule for a long way. We continued our march to a camp known as Summit—14 miles. Parts of the road were very fine; parts were not. The column was continuously meeting or being passed by convoys of Ford cars, locally known as "Jiggers." They formed the means of supply, and it was certainly amazing how they succeeded in negotiating swamps, nullahs, and many other obstacles, and we cannot but take our hats off to the South Africans who drove them in all weathers and at all times, many of them professional men from S.A., giving up fat billets to do so. Before reaching the Jigger zone, the only Jigger we knew of was the unpleasant beast which burrows into one's feet. Accordingly, when we reached Ruwu Top and found it labelled Jigger camp, great precautions were taken to keep boots, slippers, etc., off the ground, and the men were told to keep their chupplies (sandals) on. However, when some notices at sharp corners were seen with the inscription "Jiggers Beware!" the common knowledge that the "Burrowing flea" cannot read, and probably would not care if he could, set us thinking! We arrived at Summit Camp in the rain, and the latter part of the march was mostly rain. The shelters were good, made with grass thatch. Tulo was our next objective, and a very fine view was obtained at the outset. The whole of the low-lying ground between us and the Rufiji lay exposed as we zig-zagged down the hill. The road itself was very reminiscent of that from Kohala to Bara Mulla without the Jhelum. We could see the hills which the Huns were holding, and began to feel that the daily route marches along slippery roads were soon to be finished. There were several enclosures en route with wooden crosses, showing where actions had taken place as the Bosches retreated from the Central Railway. Amongst others who lost their lives on this road was Captain Butler, V.C., of the Gold Coast Regiment. At Tulo we found X. and Z., V. and W. having gone on to Duthumi, where also was G.H.Q. and our own B.H.Q. (Brig.-Gen. Cunliffe, C.B., C.M.G.). Tulo was an odoriferous swamp. One unit after another passed through it and left its scavengings for the next one to add to or remove at will. There were several cases of dysentery, and we were glad when we got away from it. The great consolation was the abundance of game of all sorts, which was a very pleasant variation of diet. Here our native R. and F. first saw aeroplanes close at hand. They had seen a few flying at a distance at Dares Salaam, but here they were on guard over them. When they were taken to the sheds and shown the mechanism, bomb-dropping devices, etc., some ejaculated "Baturi!" (white man), and others "Devil!"—we will trust these were not intended as synonyms, but rather that it was the genius of the Baturi to overcome the devil. They called them "Jirigi Busa," or the Blow-ship. Z. proceeded to Duthumi the evening of the day we arrived at Tulo, and X. left in a different direction the next day with a mixed column, under Col. Lyall. From this point the further the Hun drive began. I will not give details of the action of New Year's Day and following, as the Times of the 11th January gives an account to which my humble pencil will not aspire. X. joined the left "push" under Col. Lyall, and, amongst other successes, captured a Bosche 4.1. Y. remained at Tulo in reserve for this column. Z. and V. helped to push home the central attack from Duthumi, with W. in reserve at Duthumi. The Huns withdrew to the Rufiji, closely pushed by General Sheppard and Col. Lyall's column. One Brigade (less X.) assembled at Duthumi, and V., W., and Y. pushed off on a circuitous route in the wake of General Beves to cross the Rufiji higher up and cut the Hun line of retreat. The four marches to this objective were very trying ones, and the road very uninteresting. The whole of it was what is known as "orchard bush." The first word raises visions of Devonshire and Kent, but the vision quickly evaporates when one marches through 60 miles of it, while the only fruit forthcoming is poisonous. Some of the berries were "chopped" by the soldiers unwittingly, but the subsequent pains and drastic treatment by the M.O. prevailed on most to desist. One camp which we reached at about 2.0

p.m., reputed to have waterholes for 1,300 men, proved to be completely dry! Two Jiggers had to be sent back to Kissaki, 10 miles away, on a series of journeys to fill châgls and water cans. In the meantime we thirsted. Water throughout this route was found only at long intervals and in small quantities, and like weak coffee in appearances, and we all suffered a good deal in consequence. The one and only interesting point of the march was the old German fort at Kissaki. A well-built, square stone fort, built presumably to compete with native risings; but big guns solved the situation for us. For about two miles beyond Kissaki was a plantation of kapok, or cotton trees, the product of which, we hope, before long will benefit some British colonists. Hereafter I will refer to places by their initial letters, again for fear of censoriousness. We crossed the Rufiji near K. by a raft "flying bridge," worked by Indians of the Faridhkoi Sappers and Miners. We halted and "dug in," staying two days. I had a bathe in the Rufiji, as I saw many South Africans braving the crocodiles, and thoroughly enjoyed it. On the subject of animals, lions had begun to advertise their presence as far back as Kissaki, and we could usually hear them prowling about at night, and a good stout zareba was an encouragement to sound slumber, as fires and lights were obviously out of place in the proximity to Fritz. On the afternoon of the 18th January, V. W. and Y. moved out to attack the enemy in position at M.U. A halt was called at some water holes half-way, where, unfortunately, a few Hun snipers removed the element of surprise intended by spotting a water party and bagging a B.N.C.O. of W., who got a nasty wound in the shoulder. The column moved on at dawn, captured the position after a brisk fight, and drove the enemy off it. Two officers and several R. and F. were hit, but the Germans withdrew rather hurriedly, after putting up a fight for a couple of hours. In the meantime X. had been assisting General Sheppard to batter his way across the Rufiji at K., where, after continuously shelling and sniping his force for four days, the Germans withdrew to guard their line of retreat. On the 20th, X. joined up, and on the 21st, W. and X., with a Cape Battalion, attacked the enemy in position at K.O., where, after a six-hours' fight, the Germans withdrew across the K.O. river. On the 22nd, Y. relieved W. at K.O., and Z. joined up, so that the Brigade was again re-united. On the 24th, Y. and half-V. were despatched to attack the German rearguard, said to be located at N.E. Unfortunately, information was false, and N.E. was found to be held in force. The attack was at first successful, two German machine guns being captured and a part of the position penetrated. But a superior German counter-attack drove back our main flank attack and left the frontal holding force "in the air." These Companies held on till 5.0 p.m., and then withdrew in perfect order, though attacked in rear and flank, until reinforced by two Companies of Z. The Germans drew off at 6.30 p.m., when darkness came on, having got more than they bargained for from Y.'s rearguard and Z.'s reinforcements. Our casualties were heavy, but from subsequent reports the Germans suffered as severely, though, unfortunately, several of our wounded fell into their hands. Captain Cook (Connaught Rangers), Captain Dudley (Dorsetshire Regiment), and Captain Berkeley (the King's Own) were amongst the roll of killed, and Major Gardiner (72nd Highlanders) was wounded and captured. The Brigade withdrew to the K.O.—M.U. position, with a detachment at K.O. (ii.), to prepare for another spring. However, the approach of the rains and difficulties of supply put a stop to any immediate forward move. Half-rations and even quarter-rations became the order of the day for a long period, and a good deal of sickness depleted our ranks. For six weeks we remained in the same position, the monotony being varied by almost daily "affairs" of outposts and patrols, resulting in a few casualties on both sides. During this period a few prisoners were taken, and reports from all sides pointed to a very serious shortage of supplies for the German native troops. Early in March, W. and X. took part in an attack on N.U., a place a few miles down stream from where General Sheppard originally crossed, but the birds flew before the net was spread, and only a few were caught. By the middle of March the rains were going strong, and all active operations were necessarily at an end. The various units of the Brigade were allotted their "Hiberna," or, rather, "Phiviana," and the moves began on the 13th March. V. and Y. to M.S., W. to R.L., with detachment at K.O. (ii.), X. and Z. at M.U. On the 14th March the writer's Company escorted V. to M.S., and on the way had quite a sharp action with a surprised and rather disappointed Bosche force. This party was lying up for a convoy of food on another road at the point where our road from M.U. joined it. We accordingly walked into their tails. They were in greater strength than our force, and attacked on both flanks, but we drove them off with considerable loss. Major Walter (R.A)., commanding V., was badly wounded, and several native R. and F. killed and wounded. Three German white men were known to have been killed, and several Askaris. From that date nothing of importance has occurred. Outposts, patrols, and escorts have had occasional encounters, in which the balance of success, in terms of Europeans and Askaris, killed and captured, has been all in our favour. The rains are now nearing an end, and there are signs of new moves, and so I will close this long, and, I am afraid, dull narrative, to be continued, if you so desire, Mr. Editor, after the next—and, I hope, final—push. I cannot end without a tribute to our Nigerian troops, Hausa and Yoruba. Almost continuously on half or less rations from the middle of January to this date, they have trekked wearisome marches, fought some hard fights, dug and undug continuous trenches, erected and demolished a series of block houses, been employed on piquets, escorts, and patrols night and day in all weathers, without a single grouse. Be it also remembered that they were not "ordered" on this campaign, but volunteered for it. A good sprinkling of military medals has been awarded to B.N.C.O.'s and native R. and F., and we hope that officers, too, will come in for some small recognition. Though the Fates do not call us all to serve with our own units, we all are doing our best to keep up the name and fame of our British Regiments in these distant "side-shows."

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. H. Rix, from a Ser. Batt., North. Fusrs., to be tempy. 2nd-Lieut. (dated 17th March, sen. 22nd Sept., 1915).

Tempy. 2nd-Lieuts. to be tempy. Lieuts. on appt. as probrs. to Ind. Army:—J. A. Jellicoe, from North. Fusrs.; F. de B. Brisley, from North. Fusrs. (dated 23rd June) (substituted for Gazette notification 17th July, page 7,198, incorrectly describing rank as tempy. 2nd-Lieut.).

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. to be tempy. 2nd-Lieut., retg. pres. sen.:—E. J. Bartlett, from North. Fusrs. (attchd.) (dated 11th June).

ARMY HONOURS.

The King has been pleased to confer the Military Cross on the following Officers in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the Field:—

26th July.

Tempy. Lieut. Robert Parker Musgrave Whitham, North. Fusrs. and R.F.C.—On four successive days he showed remarkable courage and ability in bombarding enemy positions, and, working in conjunction with our artillery, he rendered them most valuable information.

16th August.

2nd-Lieut. Edward Giles Bates, North. Fusrs., Spec. Res.—When in command of a raiding party he directed their movements when they come under our own barrage with great coolness and skill. The success of the raid was due to his careful reconnaissance and to his example and leading.

2nd-Lieut. Ernest Clennell Henderson, North. Fusrs.—For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in commanding his platoon. When wounded and unable to walk, and lying in an exposed position, he continued to direct his men for an hour showing a splendid example of courage and determination to all under his command.

2nd-Lieut. David Cranston Lindsay, North. Fusrs.—At a critical moment, after an enemy counter attack, when his men were badly shaken, he walked forward across the open to ascertain the enemy's dispositions. The information which he thus gained at great personal risk enabled him to plan and lead a completely successful counter attack upon the enemy.

18th August.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Jonathan Stephenson, attchd. North. Fusrs.—He led his company to its objective with great initiative and courage, bombing the enemy trench and securing it against counter-attacks by his skilful direction of rifle and Lewis-gun fire.

2nd-Lieut. Alfred Woodhead, North. Fusrs.—He held a shell hole for 24 hours against two enemy machine guns, keeping them from firing upon the troops on his flank, who would otherwise not have been able to maintain their position. He drove off a party who attempted to capture him, and eventually got back to our lines with only two men alive out of the seven with whom he had started.

16th August.

The King has been pleased to award a Bar to the Military Cross to the following Officer:—

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Arnold Morley Allen, M.C., North. Fusrs.—He led his platoon to its objective with great courage and determination, by his skill repulsing continual hostile counter attacks, and, at a critical moment, defeating a violent hostile bombing attack which was seriously threatening our flank. He set a splendid example to all ranks throughout. (M.C. Gazetted 18th July, 1917).

27th July.

The name of the following has been brought to the notice of the Secretary of State for War for Distinguished services rendered in connection with the War:—

Maj. (tempy. Lieut.-Col.) H. Luhrs, C.M.G., North. Fusrs.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

Lieut.-Col. Hedley, D.S.O.

Lieut.-Col. John Ralph Hedley, D.S.O., was the third son of the late John Hedley, of Woolley, Berkshire. He joined the Northumberland Fusiliers in 1899, and at the outbreak of the War was junior Major of and mobilized with his Battalion. After some months of training and coast defence he went out to the front in April, 1915. He took part in the second battle of Ypres, and with the exception of a short period on sick leave remained at the front for about twenty-seven months. In 1915 he was attached to the ——th Battalion of the Border Regiment as Commanding Officer, and he was holding this position at the time of his death, which took place very suddenly on the 15th July, from heart failure. Colonel Hedley's early demise came as a great shock to his friends in the Northumberland Fusiliers as he was so well known. He was of a particularly genial nature, possessed a good voice, and was extremely popular with all ranks. He was awarded the D.S.O. in 1915, and was mentioned three times in Despatches. An impressive memorial service was held at the Parish Church, Hornsea, on Friday, 27th July, conducted by the Rev. John Harrington, M.A., Vicar. It was attended by the Band and Drums of the Northumberland Fusiliers and by a large number of Officers, many of whom had served with the late Officer at the front. Colonel Hedley was married to Aida Marie second daughter of the late Thomas Hudson Bainbridge, of Eshott Hall, Northumberland, and leaves two children.

Lieut.-Col. Hedley, D.S.O.

Capt. Felix George Buckley, M.C.

Salisbury, and was educated at Wellington College and Brasenose College, Oxford. He obtained a temporary commission in the Northumberland Fusiliers in August, 1914, was promoted lieutenant a year later, and captain in August 1916. He served in Gallipoli from September, 1915, till the evacuation, then on the Suez Canal up to July of last year, when his battalion went to another front. He received the Military Cross in June, 1917.

LIEUT. GEOFFREY MAPLETON POWYS.

Lieut. Geoffrey Mapleton Powys, Northumberland Fusiliers, who was killed on 19th June, aged 20, was the younger son of the Rev. Annesley Powys and Mrs. Powys, of Meanwood Vicarage, Leeds. He was educated at the Leeds Grammar School, and on leaving school was gazetted to a commission in December, 1914. After a short period of training he was sent to Malta, and became lieutenant in September, 1916. In January, 1917, he was sent to the Front. He was killed by a shell as he was leaving the trenches. His colonel writes:—"I had great hopes for his career. He impressed me very much, and I found him a zealous and good officer." A brother officer writes:—"I have to mourn the loss of a friend and a gallant gentleman."

2ND-LIEUT. ARCHIBALD MACDONALD SCOTT.

2nd-Lieut. Archibald Macdonald Scott, Northumberland Fusiliers, who has been killed in action, aged 28, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Scott, of Springbank, Fartown, Huddersfield. An old student of Huddersfield Technical College, he was a member of the editorial staff of The Times in Paris for some years, and remained there to receive messages and send telegrams to London when Paris was threatened by German invasion. He enlisted in the Northumberland Fusiliers in December, 1915, gained rapid promotion, and received a commission in the same regiment. He was reported wounded last June.

A Paris Correspondent writes of Lieut. A. M. Scott, Northumberland Fusiliers, whose death in action was announced in The Times of August 28th:—"Lieut. Scott was one of the Paris Staff of The Times for nearly three years. The qualities of adaptability and energy he displayed in his work in Paris served him in good stead when he enlisted, and he was soon offered a commission. He went to the front two or three months ago and fell leading his platoon with the 'coolness and cheerfulness he has always shown.' His Major says of him:—"He was one of the finest fellows I have ever met, and one of the finest leaders. . . . He was always cheerful, always keen and ready to do whatever he was called upon to perform. He was beloved by his platoon, and he is mourned by his brother officers as one of the finest comrades we have ever known."

Regimental Notes.

Pioneer writes:—

August, 1917.

"The weather has been of a nature calculated to give undue exercise to choice phrases. Thunderstorms have been all too frequent, and the Camps scattered about this delightful countryside have been occasionally deluged. The trenches have been canal-ised; and, if wading at the seaside has been impossible for most of us, a substitute has been generously provided by our Lord of the Watertap. This is a further illustration that Emerson in his essay on 'Compensation' could not forsee (let me hasten to add that the essay in question has no bearing on the Labour Movement as such, but the Compensation has a decided bearing on our labour movement). The water at any rate gave rise to a subtlety on the part of the R.E. An officer, unaccustomed to thigh-wading, indented for a canoe, so that he could move along the trench. The genius who presides over the Department to provide materials 'in lieu' sent up two trench pumps. There doesn't seem any resemblance between them. Mais que voulez-vous?

"The Battalion still works. But within the last month, on one or two occasions, picks and shovels have been dropped, and rifles used. Z Company, and then W Company got a chance of which full advantage was taken, and the Major-General Commanding the Division has complimented the Officers and men on their good work. It is regretted that the Companies did not return scathless, but we con-

"A platoon has been camouflaging. This, be it understood, is an art, and its mysteries are evidently as great to some other people besides the young lady in Punch. However the work has progressed, even to the extent of a joke. It will be observed that no subject is worthy of remark unless it can be double-distilled and a smile extracted from it. The O.C. Company was at the dump, and marvellous to relate, found five wagons that had been promised, duly there in time and loaded. He felt gratified. A corporal approached him. It is not known whether the gratification of finding the wagons there caused the genial Officer to be elated, but he reports the following as the

CPL. LOQ: "WHERE CAN I FIND MORE MATERIAL FOR Camisoles, SIR?"

Corporal's request:—'Please, sir, can you tell me where I'll find more material for camisoles?'

* * * * * *

"A newcomer, unit unknown, had strayed up to the front area during the wet days. One day the clouds cleared, and the sky was dotted with Observation Balloons. The new hand was amazed.

"'Hi, what's them things?' he asked. 'Them? Oh, they're canteens for the Flying Corps.' So is knowledge disseminated, and duly communicated to all ranks, and the certificate rendered to that effect.

"The situation of the Camp does not allow a good cricket pitch being made. Net practice is possible, but the League stands as reported last month. Perhaps some time in the nebulous future there may be a chance of rest, and a possibility of the prize bats being won and presented. In the meantime, the Padre occupies his leisure in oiling the blades.

2nd-Lieutenant J. R. Davies has gone to England, sick; and 2nd-Lieutenant G. C. Brawn has returned to the Battalion from Hospital.

Congratulations to the following on their promotion, Captains Roberts, Anthony and Watson, Lieutenants Lawrence, Pretheroe, Willis and Dean.

Our Reservist writes:—

The promise of the early half of the summer has not been maintained in the weather, and training and cricket, our two principal occupations, have suffered accordingly. Drafts from other branches of the Service arrive to be trained as Infantry and turned into Fusiliers "while you wait," and "A" men and recruits share their labours under murky skies and in Mud and wind, but the Great Game goes on, and the Band, or what is left of it, plays the drafts to the station amid the same cheering and enthusiasm. At cricket we have had our ups and downs but the fresh blood in the team is of the same colour as the old, and our representatives on the Garrison eleven helped to pull the game out of the fire against the Garrison of the Sister River in the South of the County the other day before the General and a "representative assembly" of both Garrisons. Lce.-Cpl. Bryan, V.C., paid us a visit recently and fought his battles over again in the appreciative hearing of his old instructors in the Recruit Detachment. Captain Creswell-Hobbs has returned to us for duty and Captain Markham made a short sojourn here before leaving us to become an A.P.M. at York. Captain Buckley has left for a further course of treatment to his wounded hand and Captain Lord is back and doing duty as A/Adjutant with the detachment at S——ts House, where Major Kerr is also presiding over the destinies of the supernumaries Company. The Inspector of Infantry, inspected the Battalion at Headquarters and on detachment on Wednesday, August 14th. Major Segrave has left us and his place as D.C.O. has been taken by Captain Grey.

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
NEAR WALLINGFORD,
31st August, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

The following is taken from The Times, of 26/7/17:—

"Private Ernest Sykes, one of the new V.C.'s of the Northumberland Fusiliers, a regiment which has been without such an honour since Lucknow, has been presented with a silver tea service by the Officers of his Battalion."

We hope our readers will excuse the delay in publication. We do our best and so do Messrs. Grigg and Son, but as time goes on it becomes more and more difficult to keep things up to date and however we may strive, it is manifestly impossible to make a certainty of synchronising with an unknown quantity like the Censor.

The Librarian of the National War Museum has asked us to send him bound volumes or copies of the St. George's Gazette since its origin. We have explained the impossibility of acceding to his request for the 35 years of monthly or annual numbers, and he duly expressed his surprise at learning that we have been a successful publication for so long. However he is very anxious to acquire bound volumes for 1914, 1915, 1916, etc. We have been able to send him 1915 and 1916, but have not got a 1914 copy. Would any of our readers like to supply this National need? If so would they kindly inform us and we will give them the address to send it to.

A correspondent has sent us a portion of a catalogue of a book sale in which figure as a lot, vols. 20 and 22 of the St. George's Gazette (1902 and 1904). They are sold under the heading of "Military," and are classed among various authorities on the Art of War from Von Moltke to Mons Roquiet. We are not sure that as a contemporary guide to the usages and art of warfare as displayed in this present war they were not on an equality of efficacy!!

If any of our readers has any insurance business to put through, may we commend to his notice Mr. P. Maydon who was formerly a Sergeant in the Fifth Fusiliers but owing to the loss of his right leg has had to give up soldiering and take to underwriting as a profession. Sergeant Maydon, who was formerly known as Pte. Raymond, is now an agent of one of the syndicates which operate on Lloyds and he is ready to insure anyone against anything from Twins to Taubes. His address is 3, Dresden Road, Upper Holloway, London, N., 19.

IN MEMORIAM.

DRUMS of the FIFTH—why roll ye for the dead?
Do you not know that even now they walk
This mortal earth of ours immortally?

Oh, I remember how—full many a day
Before I dipped my pen to write of you
Your battle-breathing, war-inspiring note
Besieged my ears on Saint George's Day!
Caught by the glamour of the orient sun
Our colours, bright with gosling-green and gold,
Red, white and blue roses of Saint George,
Shone out among the serried ranks of white
Which stood so rigid in the stifling heat
Picked for their height and bearing, while the third
Of these a pair were born by officers
Weighed down the shoulder of the smallest boy
(In all the regiment. From far and wide—
For we were scattered over several stations)
Thronged in our brothers—come to share with us
The annual glory of our patron-saint
All was good-will that day and all was cheer—
Friends, re-united, laughed at favourite jokes.
And he at whose expense the joke was made
Held this a point of honour—that he laughed
Louder than all the rest. Yet, 'midst the laughter
A note, far distant, from across the seas
Chimed in and made a discord. Now so faintly
That no one heard it, save the drums alone—
You heard it, aye, and greeted it—well known
Was that far distant, rumbling sound to you—
It was that sound men call—"THE TRUMP OF WAR."

Scarce had that sound become so loud that we Could hear it from across three oceans
When first you sounded as you sound to-day—
Playing our glorious dead to heaven. Too well
Do I remember hearing this. So strange
It seemed, so unbelievable that we Exclaimed—"Our brothers are not surely dead
This rumour lies—to-morrow's news will bring
A contradictory tale—why, did we not Stand speaking with them but a year ago
In England? Was it more? Well, very little.
No, they're not dead. This is an idle story."
But the next day that story was the same.
And, as the days slipped by in twos and threes
Those names we loved were writ upon the sheet
Of bitter, remorseless information.
Until, at last, we owned that they were—dead.
Slowly and wearily those weeks dragged on
And each one asked the question—"When shall we
Also be called on to participate
In these great battles? This inglorious ease
Which we're enjoying here is ill-attuned
With principles of serving to the death
Our Country!—And, our brothers have been killed—
And we'd avenge them." Well—at last there came
The yearned-for message—saying we should fight.

Near the last town in all the realm of Flanders
Which had not fallen to the enemy
We struggled through the darkness of the night
On, ever on o'er dykes and fallen trees
Barbed-wire and shell-holes,—stumbling, plunging on Legs caked with mud until we felt as if
A ton's weight had been fastened on each foot—
And then at last the further edge of th' wood—
And then a sheet of flame advanced on us.
Not in one blaze, but in a million sparks,
Each spark a devil—and it licked us up
Just as the fire Elijah drew from Heaven
Licked up the water round the altar's trench.
Helpless before the flame we met our brothers.

Three months our remnant lived; then, with the friends
Who'd come to swell our threadbare ranks from England
We found ourselves surrounded. Back to back
Some probed the secret of the God of battles
While others, o'er a path of slaughtered foe
Returned to tell the tale. And HE was there
Who with a bandage wound about his head
Waved on his men with his un-wounded arm
And leapt upon the parapet—to fall
Gasping encouragement with dying breath.

A month—and then but forty strong advanced
The FIFTH to meet the enemy in force.
A victory impossible—they died.
And ONE, perhaps the greatest of them all,
Who in an earlier war had earned his rest
And never would have been sent out to fight
Had he not pleaded earnestly to go—
Commanded them—"Come on and finish it!"
Grasping a rifle then he led them forth—
Forty—of whom the half already bore
The morning's wounds. And these were to be envied
Having upheld the honour of the FIFTH.
The ocean of dim years has closed above
The memory of that grim afternoon—

And one or two now here or there remain
Of that battalion which went forth to try
Conclusions with the infinite. The rest?
Their graves are scattered up and down the plains
Where once their tenants grappled with the foe.

Drums of the FIFTH—why roll ye for the dead?
There are no dead! For where-so-e're the FIFTH
Marches to glory, there they march before.

GUD evenin' tae aal on ye. What fettle maddymozsele? Thenks a beor por usuaal. Bon for the Troops. Aye and aa'm needin' it, which thinks me on. Yen of wor sargents hes hed a saad accident, torned teetotaal, poor chep. Aave bin hevin' a vaarry fashin' time on't laately. Aye in the Bombing Stop. Mind ye the Bombing Stop. Marciful Heavens! an' sweating on leave tae. Why, suorly ye've hord tell on't? Ye hev'nt? Oh well aal just repeat ma experiences for tae amoose th' coompaany. Whaat the starting on of it waas I canna reetly saay but in ma opin 't waas an R.E. mistaake. Yen of theor attempts tae taape oot a C.T. an' weel, them leets of Fritzy's are a bit tarrifying to them whaat's not used tae them like. Onywaay the thing torned out to be a Bombing Stop, in three twists an' a straight wi' baay complete. An' theor wi fower laads—bombors—I waas dumped tae dae or die. Aa neorly deed in the forst minute. The feller aa tuck ower from telt me the Alleymand waas only five yaards awaay! By! So straight off aa hoyed a bomb but somethin' went wrong an' awaay she wint back ower. It waas baad luck becos the stretcher beorors of the other Battalion haad gone an' wor laads got th' dorty wark. But the forst neet waas nowt compared tae th' daays follerin'. By! Th' folks that came tae see me—aand th' Bombing Stop. Officers of Brigade, Division an' Corpse, aal the blessed Staaff in France. Ony moment aa expected seein' Haig come roond the Travis. Well, aad hev bin ready for him. Theor was aal them fellers standin' peepin' though an armored saand baag while aa stued wi' haaf of ma body above an' pointed oot the feators of th' laandscaape. Aal on them sed "what a splendid view." They cudn't see out beyond twa thistles an' a bully tin but it pleased them. But it didn't please me tae be woken up aal hours to explain the situaation. Oh, no. So aa just put up a bit notice bord saayin' "THIS PLACE IS MINED," aand forbye wor own officers we had nae mair visitors except yen daay th' Brigadior. Obeyin' ordors aa caaled the garrison to th' "shun." in a lood voice. An' wad ye beleive 't Fritz hord me an' hoyed a rifle grenaade! Nex' time aal give the "staand easy." Noo, when th' Generaal come roond th' cornor he cort me nappin' so tae speak. Aa was on sentry and waas sayin' "Give ma compliments tae Waalter aand ax him when th' h—l's thom tea's comin'?" When his Staaffship appeors. He was laafin' but aa dwent think he hord me, he waas most likely laafin' at the Rushin' noos thon mornin'. A gud thing he hadn't come a bit orlior when we waas havng tunes on the Strombus while Batt. HQ., had theor gaas helmets on!

Yen o' wor officors used tae come aboot a good bit, snipin' aand so on. Theor waas an alleymand used tae staan' up in his trench 200 yaards awaay every time we sniped at him he used tae dig hisself in. He must ha' bin 20 foot doon aat th' finish. And thin we got him. Onywaay aa think sae. He hed a lang blaack beord aand thor svem officor fiored at it. Theor waas a cloud of blaack smoak an' we nevor seen th' Fritz agen, poor chep. By! its waarm. Thanks. Aa dwent mind if aa dae.

"AS OTHERS SEE US."

THE following is reprinted from The Broad Arrow:—"The 'Fighting Fifth' are more than a match for anything the Germans can bring out. They have to their credit one smart piece of work on the Western front that is enough to make all other regiments turn green with envy. Prior to their retirement from an important position the Huns had been working their hardest to lay a trap for us. They had made a huge mine under all their positions in that district, hoping that when the time came for their retreat they would be able to spring the mine on our men and do with a single explosion what weeks and months of hard fighting had failed to do. A scouting party of the 'Fighting Fifth' discovered the mine shaft, and a note was made of it for future reference. One night when the conditions were more or less favourable, our Northern lads stole out across No Man's Land towards the German position. Before the enemy tumbled to what was going on a party of the Northumberlands had entered the mine shaft, and a few minutes later the whole position with its defenders was blown sky high. Not more than a score of the enemy survived that visit of the Northumberlands, and you can take my word for it the enemy were in a furious rage over it. A few days later they tried to get their revenge. One midnight they sneaked through the fog and tried to rush our trenches. The Northumberlands were sleeping with both eyes open, and before the enemy reached our parapet our lads ran forward to meet them with the bayonet. In less than five minutes the enemy were thrown back in disorder and their rout was mainly due to the fact that the Northumberlands were quick enough to start an explosion of the piles of bombs that the Huns had brought over to blow up our position with. We captured a lot of prisoners in that little affair, and they were a gloomy crew. They had been in the front line trenches for 13 days and nights without relief, and had suffered severely from our gun fire. They didn't know that their comrades in adjoining trenches had been withdrawn under cover of the fog, and complained bitterly of the deceit practised on them by their own staff. The Tyneside Scots had a rough passage one night, but they came out of it with more than credit to their regiment. After advancing to the attack under very heavy artillery and machine-gun fire they found themselves in possession of a section of trenches that the enemy appeared to be evacuating. The officer commanding the Scots realised the importance of the discovery, and knew that the best way to upset the German plans was to hang on where he was. He sent word to headquarters and made his dispositions accordingly. The enemy were equally alive to the value of the position, and they brought up all their available troops to counter-attack in the hope of forcing the Northumberlands out again. The fight that followed was one of the most strenuous I have struck over there. The odds against the Northumberlands were never less than five to one, and at one period reached twelve to one. In spite of that the Northumberlands were as firm as a rock. They withstood every onset of the enemy. No less than eleven separate attacks were made, and of these the sixth was the most furious. It was directed against a portion of the captured position held by the Scots, and it was there that the odds were heaviest of all. There were only a handful of the Scots against twelve times their own number of the enemy, supported by countless machine guns and liquid fire outfits. The Germans fought their way into the trench. The Scots met them with the bayonet. For a time the issue was in doubt, but a magnificent recovery on the part of the Scots decided the fight. The advantage was pressed, and by the time reinforcing troops arrived the enemy were already in full retreat, harrassed by the advancing Scotties."

ARMY HONOURS.

War Office, Aug 25th.

The King has been pleased to approve of the following rewards for gallantry and distinguished service in the Field :—

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE ORDER.

Tempy. Lieut. George Morrison Philip, M.C., Northd. Fusrs.—In spite of continued heavy shelling and machine gun fire he spent the night in "No Man's Land" working right up to the enemy's wire, searching for and bringing in wounded. They had been lying out since dawn, and his gallantry and devotion enabled him to get at least forty men back into our lines.

17th Sept.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Allan William Dobson Mark, M.C., Northd. Fusrs.—For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in holding an extremely important point on the left of our line for 24 hours with his platoon, repeatedly beating off determined counter attacks. After his party had been relieved the position was recaptured by the enemy, whereupon he moved up again on his own initiative and drove them out a second time, regaining the whole of the lost ground. He led his men with the utmost dash and fearlessness through heavy hostile barrage, setting a magnificent example by his own personal gallantry.

MILITARY CROSS.

25th Aug.

Tempy. Lieut. Stanley George Woodbridge, Northd. Fusrs.—At a moment when his company was held up by enemy wire close to their objective he displayed the greatest gallantry in attacking the wire under very heavy fire, and cutting a way through it for his men. At the moment of completing his task he was shot through the chest.

17th Sept.

Tempy. 2nd-Lieut. Griffith Oliver Edwards, Northd. Fusrs.—For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in commanding two platoons during an attack. His coolness and cheerfulness under heavy shell fire steadied his men, and later, when sent up to reinforce, he did so with great promptness and exactitude.

Tempy. Lieut. (actg. Capt.) Edward Henry Lucette, Northd. Fusrs.—For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at a critical moment whilst relieving another company. The guide having led his company to the wrong trenches, he at once made a personal reconnaissance under heavy shell fire and in broad daylight, and led his company to their proper position. He afterwards showed the greatest courage and determination in leading his platoon into position under heavy and accurate barrage, which practically wiped them out. He then at once reorganised his men, and had them ready to support the attack of another company. By his splendid personal example during the night he maintained control of his company, although nearly all his N.C.O.'s and all but one officer had been killed or wounded.

Tempy. Lieut. George Pomeroy Sterling, Northd. Fusrs.—For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of two platoons. Having reached the objective of his attack, he discovered that both his flanks were in the air, and that the enemy were advancing in force. He held on, however, with the greatest coolness and determination at this critical moment, under heavy fire, until ordered to withdraw and dig himself in, in line with the troops on his flanks. This he successfully accomplished, setting throughout a fine example of skilful leadership and control under very difficult conditions.

2nd-Lieut. Robert Thompson, Northd. Fusrs.—He led his small party with exceptional skill and good judgment to the attack of an enemy strong point, which he successfully bombed, and eventually withdrew without casualties. The fine leadership which he displayed was all the more praiseworthy owing to the fact that he had been misinformed in the first instance as to his objective, that he encountered a strong hostile patrol on the way which he most skilfully avoided, and, finally, that our mortars opened fire upon the strong point just as he was about to commence his own attack. He proved equal, however, to coping with the difficulties and delay caused by these incidents, and handled his men throughout with remarkable ability and determination.

BAR TO MILITARY CROSS.

Tempy. Capt. Edwin Guthrie Bowers, M.C., Northd. Fusrs.—For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in leading his company through a heavy barrage, and later, after suffering heavy casualties in taking them forward to reinforce an assault under heavy fire. He rendered valuable assistance at a critical moment and maintained communication with his headquarters throughout, in a very able manner. (M.C. gazetted 1st Jan.).

BRONZE MEDAL FOR MILITARY VALOUR.

No. 3361 Cpl. J. Gordon

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

Capt. Felix George Buckley, M.C.

Capt. Felix George Buckley, M.C., who was wounded on 14th and killed on 16th Aug., 1917, was the youngest son of Maj. Buckley, R.A., and Mrs. Buckley, of New Hall, Salisbury. He was educated at Wellington College and was up at Brasenose

He served with his Battalion at Grantham, was left behind on account of illness but rejoined them in Gallipoli in Sept., 1915, and served with the Battalion continuously till his death. He was awarded the M.C. in June, 1917.

deeply. I cannot speak too highly of all he did for the Battalion.

In another letter the C.O. says:—I cannot tell you what a terrible loss he is to the Battalion, both as a soldier, whose wonderful courage was a bye word, and as a brother officer, whom everybody loved.

His Second in Command writes:—His leading platoon was not going fast enough and like the brave leader he always has been, he ran on to get them to move faster, when he was hit, he was the leading man of all his Company who would have followed him anywhere. His example was an inspiration to his Company for they fought like tigers, after he fell.

His Divisional Commander writes:—He was one of the best Company Commanders in the Division and is much missed by all who knew him.

Capt. A. A. Evans.

Capt. A. A. Evans was born in Winnipeg, Canada, on the 31st day of October, 1891, being the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Evans of the same place. He was educated at St. John's College, Winnipeg, and graduated in Arts at the early age of nineteen years. Three years later he was called to the Bar, and at the time war broke out he was junior member of the legal firm of Marlatt, Warner and Evans practicing in Winnipeg

CAPT. EVANS.

Upon the declaration of War he immediately joined the machine gun section of the —th Fort Garry Horse, proceeding to England with the first Canadian contingent. There he quickly rose to be Sergeant and later was granted a commission as 2nd-Lieutenant in the machine gun section attached to the —th Northumberland Fusiliers. After a year's service at the front he was, on the 29th June, 1916, given his full lieutenancy. Six months later, on the 3rd November, 1916, he was promoted to the rank of Captain and placed in command of A Company in the —th Northumberland Fusiliers. He was killed by shell fire on the 16th June, 1917, while gallantly cutting his way through wire entanglements in an attack on a German trench. His Lieut.-Colonel in writing subsequently stated that Capt. Evans was one of the very best officers in the Battalion and that by his death he had lost one of his dearest friends and England one of her finest sons.

Capt. Evans was well known as an athlete in his natal city, being very prominent in Rugby circles, and a member of the Winnipeg Rowing Club and Winnipeg Canoe Club. His early demise will be regretted by all ranks.

[A notice of this officer appeared in the July number but we reprint this fuller account sent from his home in Canada.—Ed. "St. George's Gazette.]

2nd-Lieut. William Ernest Avery.

2nd-Lieut. William Ernest Avery, M.E., M.I.M.E., Northumberland Fusiliers, killed on 1st July, 1916, was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Avery, of Mapperley, Burnt Ash Hill, Lee, S.E. He was born in 1890, and was educated at Aske's Haberdashers' School, West Hampstead, and under the Rev. H. P. Waller, M.A., St. Catherine's, Broxbourne. After serving his apprenticeship under Mr. Philip Kirkup, at Birtley, County Durham, and passing the examination for First Class (Manager's) Certificate and for Surveyor's Certificate under the Coal Mines Act, 1911, he was at the outbreak of war under-manager of the Berwicke Main Colliery of the Birtley Iron Company. He relinquished this position and joined the Northumberland Fusiliers in September, 1914, becoming sergeant shortly before receiving his commission on 24th March, 1915. He proceeded to the Front on 21st November following. The Commanding Officer writes:—"He was wounded not once, but twice before he was killed. He was wounded before he left the trenches and again after he got on top. He was a splendid fellow and absolutely fearless. He was concerned in two feats of land-grabbing for which we were highly complimented by the brigade. He went out on all wiring parties, and did not know what fear was." Brother officers write:—"When your son was last seen he was in a shell hole in front of the German line, sending man after man of these snipers to their doom."

2nd-Lieut. Frank Clementine Nasby.

2nd-Lieut. Frank Clementine Nasby was the youngest son of Mr. Richard Nasby, of 16, Lorne Street, Stockton. He joined the —th Battalion Durham Light Infantry in November, 1913, and after serving with unit at the front returned to the Reserve Battalion. He was on the Training Staff of the Reserve Unit for some months and was recommended for a commission which he received on the 1st March, 1917.

After some weeks' training with his new Reserve Unit he proceeded overseas on the 23rd April, 1917. He was posted to one of the Service Battalions of his Regiment and was killed in action on the 1st Sept., 1917. He was of a genial disposition and his early demise is deeply regretted by his Battalion. He is survived by a widow.

2ND-LIEUT. GEORGE WILLIAM JACKSON.

2nd-Lieut. George William Jackson, Northumberland Fusiliers, attached Royal Flying Corps, was the eldest son of Mr. George Jackson, of Morpeth, Northumberland. He was educated at Rutherford College, Newcastle, and joined the Royal Engineers at Cambridge, afterwards receiving a commission in the —th Northumberland Fusiliers on the 17th September, 1915. After being nearly a year with his Battalion he was attached to the Royal Flying Corps on the 8th August, 1916. He trained at various R.F.C. centres in the United Kingdom and received his wings in February, 1917. He went out to the Western Front on the 26th March, 1917.

He was reported as missing in May last. It is now officially stated that his machine was shot down over the German lines, and that he was killed on the 7th May, 1917, in the 27th year of his age. He had shown much promise as a Flying Officer and his early demise is much regretted by his brother officers, who sympathise with his family in their bereavement.

1872, and was educated at Eton and Trinity Hall, Cambridge.

He was gazetted to the —th Northumberland Fusiliers on 16th September, 1914, and after training with the Home Battalion in various north country stations, he joined the Overseas Battalion in France in June, 1916.

He took part in one of the actions on the Somme in 1916, and was killed on 15th September, 1917, whilst carrying out a dangerous duty in the recent fighting in the Arras sector.

Lieut. Hope Wallace succeeded on the death of his father in 1900 to the family estates, situated amidst the beautiful scenery of the South Tyne. He studied art for some years and was an amateur painter of considerable ability. In November, 1909, Mr. Hope Wallace married Ursula Mary Addington, elder daughter of the Fourth Viscount Sidmouth, and leaves a widow and two young daughters.

Regimental Notes.

Maj. H—— writes:—

It seems curious that with increasing work from morn till dewy eve the hundreds of arrivals of men fit and unfit and officers in equally un-accommodatable numbers, and corresponding departures for all parts of the Country and many "Theatres" of War, and unending "stunts," training in all the many branches of modern warfare, and with each Company the size of a Battalion in peace-time and all ranks at work at high-pressure day in and day out, there should be so little to record which

(a) Can pass the lynx-eyed censorial omnipotence.

(b) If that condition is fulfilled is likely to be of interest to the many readers in the far-flung Battalions of our Regiment.

Yet it is so, and hence the strawlessness of these few bricks, the dropping of which in a manner harmless to the great cause has become a monthly problem of some difficulty.

* * * * * *

However, here is an item which will thrill all readers from China to Peru, or, more fittingly, from the Western Front to West BxxDxN. The cricket season has closed after a fair record for the Battalion XI, and football has now begun!

C.P.H.

September, 1917.

Pioneer writes:—

The periodical writing of notes is akin to the process of double distillation. In front of us is a world stage, a mixture of tragedy, and comedy, tears and laughter. To cull from it a very very small portion monthly, to analyse it, to sift it—with one eye on the Censor, and the other, with a strange obliquity of axis, on the pleasure of the Editor and the reader!—such a task demands infinite pains. And, having selected the tiny fraction for treatment, this minute portion is again distilled into a more or less literary form, bounded on all sides not by the Canons of Nesfield or Professor Saintsbury, but by other "big guns"—enough, we know them. Friendly critics, whose only labour is to read these notes monthly, say, "Why aren't you brighter? Your notes want livening up a bit." So be it. But, pressed for a yarn or a witty remark (something overheard!) they are blank and say "No, I don't think I've heard anything very funny." All of which points an obvious moral, and leaves us as we were.

* * * * * *

Many have suffered from the fount of inspiration ceasing to trickle out ideas. The fault of the conscientious writers of the notes for the St. George's Gazette is that the fount is dammed (spelt with a double "M" Mr. Editor) at its source.

* * * * * *

This plaint over, the news of the month can be attended to, and is duly set forth in its bald brevity. The weather has been of the curate's egg type, good in parts. Work has gone on in the way of consolidation. And here the dam checks the flow of eloquence: Suffice it that the work done has been praised and the following have been mentioned in Divisional Special Orders:—

	Capt.	J. Fawcett
	,,	A. Stabell
No.	19/140 Sgt.	J. F. Hopper	W Company
,,	19/1882 ,,	J. W. Coxon	X ,,
,,	19/645 ,,	R. Orwin	Y ,,
,,	19/1032 ,,	V. Mullinder	Z ,,

Of these, Capt. J. Fawcett has been awarded the Military Cross, Sgt. J. W. Coxon the Military Medal, while Sgt. Mullinder receives his second "mention" within a month. Congratulations to all!

* * * * * *

Leave has, in contrast to these notes, "brightened up a bit." And joyous men have gone away in goodly batches to pleasant reunions after many long months of separation. Well have they earned their respite: and a hearty send off is accorded to each lot.

* * * * * *

"Tell ——— I was asking after her," is a frequent remark, indicative of many things. Long may the generous allotment continue!

* * * * * *

Those who perforce remain with the Battalion—some just returned, others awaiting their turn—amuse themselves in divers ways. A game new to most of us, has been introduced, a hybrid of tennis and badminton, with a dash of cricket. It has caught on, and many courts are in use. Required:—a tolerably level piece of ground about eight yards by five yards two posts eight feet high and some wire netting. The posts and netting may be "found" anywhere. The cricket ball is thrown underhand, and feinting is not allowed. Herein lies the beauty of the game. The query propounded by jesting Pilate, who was too much of a hustler to await a reply, is as nothing to the momentous, fateful interrogation "What is an overhand?" And the sight of six dignified officers (sergeants or other ranks, C'est la même chose) three on each side of the net, giving forth, quietly, insistently or blusteringly the physiological reasons why a certain throw could not possibly have been overhand, is a revelation of unsuspected powers of debate, and a source of vast amusement. We all do it! Locke, Bishop, Berkeley, or any other logic choppers are completely outchopped. The game, with its many ramifications and arguments, the formation of new rules on the spot is a certain preventative of ennui. Try it!

"Happy batches of men."

* * * * * *

Recently, the attentions of a pair of long range guns kept us guessing. We guessed we'd have to move. Correct. We moved, not very far, of course, and the quaint bivouacs, shelters, messes were moved en piece. Ten pairs of khaki legs under a weird, wobbling hut formed a sight that would have struck terror into the hearts of the enemy. Tanks were as playthings compared with these ugly walking structures... We are again quite comfortable thanks!

"Some leave expressions."

The following happened during the construction of some mined emplacements. A veteran was busy, and, into the gloom penetrated a voice of some supervisor from another technical unit, his rank being a matter for silence. Unable to appreciate either the situation or the criticism, the miner growled, "What de ye knaa aboot it? What de ye knaa aboot it, anyway? Man, aa was deeing this work afore ye wor thowt of!"

"Why ain't you brighter—Yer notes want livening up a bit."

The critic retired, thinking hard.

* * * * * *

The food question out here still interests us. For instance there is the cook who refers to certain dried matter as "dislocated vegetables," and tendered as an excuse for providing rissoles that "there was no fresh meat up to-day—just tinned." While a humourist, born almost to blush unseen, exclaimed to the orderly "Hi, Lord Rhondda, I want another biscuit for my ration."

* * * * * *

We welcome the following new officers:—2nd-Lieuts. Dennett, Fawley, Hall and Priestman; and 2nd-Lieut. W. R. Davies has returned from Hospital. Congratulations are duly offered to actg. Capts. Marr and Carrick. We also welcome Lieut. and Qrmr. J. F. McNeice, who has joined us from a sister Battalion. Shades of the Town Moor and Newton Road! (No prize offered for the solution!)

SOME NOTES FROM SALONICA.

28th August, 1917.

Since our last notes the —th Battalion has had rather a peaceful time. Although we have not been actually scrapping yet, we have managed to put in some other very useful work which will remain as a legacy to future generations of Macedonia.

* * * * * *

The Battalion remained at the little village, where we celebrated St. George's Day, till the middle of May when it went into the front line in relief of a Battalion of the —th Brigade where it remained until the evacuation of the Struma Valley on the 13/14th June, owing to the increase of the mosquito pest and their troublesome sequence.

* * * * * *

During this period there were two days of perfect silence in the plain. Not a shot was fired by either side. We all thought this meant a happy augury of coming events, but alas, on the evening of the second day our thoughts were dispelled by a sudden heavy bombardment of the line by the Bulgar.

* * * * * *

Our air bombing squadron paid some useful visits over our front and the Bulgar must have had an uncanny time.

* * * * * *

On the 17th May we parted with one of our Majors, much to our regret, to take over command of a Battalion elsewhere. We miss his genial smile, but while we regret his loss to the Battalion we heartily wish him every success in his new sphere of labour.

* * * * * *

Capt. R——— took over the duties of Second in Command and is granted the rank of temporary Major while so employed.

* * * * * *

One of our Captains looked us up on the 27th May, prior to his departure to take up his new appointment as Brigade Major, in the —th Brigade.

* * * * * *

On the 29th May Lieut. ——— rejoined from leave in England.

* * * * * *

On the 5th June Lieut. ——— rejoined from duty at Base Depôt.

* * * * * *

On the 11/12th 13/14th we began our trek to an entirely new area on this front.

* * * * * *

We had grown so used to watching the sluggish waters of the Struma that our change to the hills came as a welcome relief.

* * * * * *

En route we opened up a new lateral road and since then we have been road contractors to the Army, constructing which required a deal of blasting. The weather was extremely hot and is still but the men work like Trojans whenever there is any work to do. So the road lengthens each day high up the hills.

* * * * * *

Our present camp, that is the Headquarters and one Coy., (the remaining Coys. are near their work) is rather pleasantly situated on a gentle slope of a hill in a fairly mountainous region. Luckily we have a fair water supply down in the nullah running through camp and this has been dammed up in two places providing two large swimming pools, which needless to say in this hot weather, are much appreciated.

* * * * * *

August has proved to be even hotter than July. On two or three occasions the temperature in the shade rose to 100 degs. No rain has fallen since the 6th July last. The country has a parched appearance just at present and veldt fires have been frequent in the neighbourhood.

* * * * * *

There has been a very fair supply of fruit; we have enjoyed cherries, plums—yellow, green and Victoria; mellons and greengages. At present we are just beginning on the fruit of the vine. These are all growing practically wild.

* * * * * *

We congratulate Lieut. H. S. King on his award of the Military Cross and C.Q.M.S. J. Halliday on receiving the Croix de Guerre, also Pte. J. Tyson on being mentioned in despatches.

* * * * * *

Colonel C——— paid us a surprise visit on the 4th August. We were glad he was able to spend 24 hours with us. He had rather a long and trying ride across hill and dale before finding us but he was remarkably fit and looking as young as ever.

* * * * * *

Several Officers have been able to spend a few days leave in Salonica enjoying the "Frivolities" and Cosmopolitan life of an eastern city. The heat was rather trying, encouraging an eternal thirst.

* * * * * *

Alas the town, or at least two thirds of it that mattered, has been destroyed by fire, and there are some 90,000 homeless people. All leave to Salonica has been cancelled in consequence.

* * * * * *

Two of our Captains were the last two to get away on leave and arrived there on the morning of the 18th while the place was still burning. They were immediately requisitioned for police duty—Rumour has it that they rather enjoyed the experience.

* * * * * *

On the 22nd August Lieut. B——— rejoined from duty at the Base Depôt.

* * * * * *

Two of our Officers took part in a staff ride from the 7th to 11th August and one was attached as an Assistant Director.

* * * * *

9th September, 1917.

The Brigade Band has been resuscitated once more, and it was like old times to have it play at Mess again. The Band spent a week with the Battalion and their daily performances in camp were much appreciated.

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
NEAR WALLINGFORD,
29th September, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

We are short of copy. This is rather a usual position to be in at this time of year, but it should not be so. Will 5th Fusiliers please note the fact and send us along some sort of accounts of their doings for publication.

We are also running short of our supply of paper so that if we should appear on a less superfine art paper than usual please blame the war and not us. It is mainly owing to the foresight of Messrs. Grigg and Son, that we have been able to continue so long on our customary paper. Even so the cost of production has been considerably more than the 2d. charged to the N.C.O.'s and Men and when we have to again buy paper at the present price of that commodity it will be a choice of buying a cheaper quality or raising the price of the Gazette.

THE FIRST ARMY.

To the Editor of "The Times."

5th July, 1917.

SIR,—It is proposed to hold a commemoration of the officers and men of the First Seven Divisions, not only of those who gave their lives, but of those who are disabled, who are prisoners, and who are still fighting. This movement is the outcome of a feeling that, amid the countless acts of heroism recorded to the glory of our fighting men, some special recognition should be given to the achievement of the original Expeditionary Force. For it was due to their supreme gallantry that subsequent triumphs and ultimate victory became possible.

The proposal is to hold a choral commemoration at Queen's Hall in the autumn. The Bach Choir has very kindly consented to waive their usual autumn concert in order to take part. But the expenses of such a commemoration are considerable—£300 being the minimum. A committee is being formed to raise the funds necessary for these expenses. Any balance that is left from the sale of tickets will be given to some war charity.

The object of the commemoration, however, is not to raise money for a charity, but to do honour to the men who saved this country and made the winning of the war possible. It is for this reason that it is sought to defray expenses by means of donations instead of relying on the sale of tickets. If the finances were entirely dependent on the sale of tickets one of the objects of the commemoration might be defeated, and, to a large extent, the right people—the survivors of the First Army and their relatives—would be crowded out. If on the other hand, a fund covering the expenses were raised beforehand, the committee would be able to give tickets to some at least of the First Army who might be able to be present, at the same time reserving the rest for the relatives until a certain date.

Subscriptions from those who would like to help will be gladly received by Mr. Ronald Norman, 1, Cottesmore Gardens, London, W.8, who has very kindly consented to act as hon. treasurer. The Lady Mary Trefusis, The Dial House, Seaford, Sussex, and Mrs. Arthur Somervell, 1, Albert Place, London, W.8, are acting as hon. secretaries.

THE FIRST SEVEN DIVISIONS.

To the Editor of "The Times."

20th August, 1917.

SIR,—A letter appeared in the Press recently, signed with eleven representative names, announcing a great Choral Commemoration of the First Seven Divisions, to take place in the autumn. The plan for the commemoration is full of beautiful details. Besides the special music very carefully chosen on a definite scheme, and including a work specially written and composed in honour of the men who broke the first onslaught on Paris and Calais, the roll of the names of those regiments will be read to trumpet and bugle calls. Many of the women relatives of the old army have asked to be given some share in honouring their men, so it has been decided to invite them to supply banners to be used in the decoration of the hall. These banners are to bear the crests of the regiments that formed the original Expeditionary Force, and will in each case be provided by the near relations of the men in every brigade, regiment and battalion, who fought in the first days of the war, Mons to Ypres. The banners will be presented afterwards to the depôts—for remembrance. Will the officers' women-folk in each unit form small committees, and make their own arrangements for making the banners, in any style they like (but of uniform size), and allowing every woman of the regiment to give, however small a donation, to the cost? Promises of banners to be sent to the hon. secretary (Banners), Miss Brice Miller, 6, Albert Court, London, S.W., who will supply full particulars, sizes, &c.

Yours truly,

MARY TREFUSIS, Hon. Sec.
E. SOMERVELL, ,, ,,
RONALD C. NORMAN, Treasurer.
} First Seven Divisions Commemoration.

* * * * * * *

It is undeniable that the questions first as to the suitability of this form of commemoration, and secondly, as to the expenditure of money on the provision of a Banner for this purpose are debateable ones. For ourselves our only comment upon them is that as regards the first, the form of commemoration has been decided upon by those who conceived the idea of having anything in the nature of a commemoration at all and for that reason does not concern us, though we would add that a glance at the signatures appended to the first letter gives us a comfortable assurance that whatever is done will be done in the best possible taste, with knowledge and understanding of the feelings and traditions of those who formed the first seven divisions both collectively as units and individually as men of the old army.

As to the second question it will be seen by reading the second letter to The Times that it is a case of "Places aux Dames." It has been ascertained however, that there are a certain number of relatives who like the idea and we think that this being so it would be a pity not to carry out the scheme of presenting a banner and of giving to those who desire to do so the opportunity of subscribing towards its cost.

* * * * * *

We have been asked to state that it has been decided to present a banner from the women relatives of the Officers, N.C.O.'s and Men of the 5th Fusiliers. As it has been impossible to form a committee, Mrs. Ainslie has kindly undertaken to ascertain the cost and arrange the details of the banner with the Royal School of Art Needlework which is preparing a banner for many other Regiments. Subscriptions towards its cost from 6d. upwards will be received by Major B. T. St. John, The Old Mill House, Preston Crowmarsh, near Wallingford, and should be sent to him as soon as possible. A statement of accounts will be published by him periodically in the Gazette.

* * * * * *

It is suggested that, after the commemoration (the date of which is not yet definitely fixed but will probably be early in December), the banner, instead of being presented to the Depôt should be presented to the 1st Battalion but sent to the Depôt for safe custody for the duration of the War. Col. Dashwood and Lieut.-Col. Ainslie approve of this procedure.

* * * * * *

As it is probable that a large number of relatives will not see the St. George's Gazette, we propose to print off extra copies of the notes and letters concerning the banner and will send one to anybody whose address is sent to us for this purpose. It is also hoped to make the matter more widely known among the relatives of N.C.O.'s and Men concerned through the medium of the Newcastle papers.

Letter to the Editor.

THE FIRST SEVEN DIVISIONS BANNER.

To the Editor, "St. George's Gazette."

DEAR MR. EDITOR,—It was suggested, as it was impossible to form a committee, that I should undertake to order the Banner for the 1st Battalion to be used at the Choral Commemoration of the First Seven Divisions.

May I ask you to publish the following details concerning the Banner which will be of interest to the subscribers. The Banner is being made by the Royal School of Art Needlework, Exhibition Road, London, S.W. 1. It is to be 4ft. 3in. x 2ft. 11in., the background to be of gosling green silk specially dyed.

The St. George and the Dragon embroidered on yellow silk with the motto "Quo Fata Vocant" encircling on red silk, the V below, and label of red silk bearing "The Northumberland Fusiliers." The crest surmounted by the Imperial Crown and Lion embroidered.

The figure of the St. George and the Dragon will be the same as that on the Regimental Colour. The whole Banner to be finished with gosling green silk and metal fringe, cords and tassels.

No battle honours are allowed by the Authorities only the words—August-November. France, 1914—placed on either side of the crown being permissable.

The I. to be placed on the left hand top corner.

The cost of the Banner will be between £35 and £40.

The Banner is to be of the best quality and workmanship and the work of the school is very beautiful, so that I hope the subscribers will feel that all is being done that is possible, to make a worthy "remembrance" of the Commemoration.

Yours truly,

E. S. AINSLIE.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

CAPT. WILLIAM FORD ROBERTSON.

Capt. William Ford Robertson, Northumberland Fusiliers (killed), who was Adjutant of his Battalion, was the eldest son of Mr. W. E. Robertson, 60, Inverleith Row, Edinburgh. He was educated at George Herriot's School, where he was a member of the O.T.C. In September, 1914, he enlisted in the Royal Scots, and was gazetted in the December following, to the Northumberland Fusiliers. He had been on active service with that Regiment for two and a half years, and was twice mentioned in dispatches. In connection with his duties as Signaling Officer the O.C., R.F.A., writing in August, 1915, spoke in the highest terms of his work and Col. Bryan in conveying his congratulations to him on being first "mentioned" in January last, wrote most appreciatively.

CAPT. WILLIAM FORD ROBERTSON.

Major Allen, in sending the heartfelt sympathies of the Battalion to Mrs. Robertson, says that the loss of her husband is too great to realise yet. His characteristics were concientousness and hard work and certainly the Battalion never had a more thorough Adjutant. The important part he played in the Administration of the Battalion, however arduous his duties, was fully realised by all ranks and equally compensated by the complete trust they had in him. As an Adjutant he would be extremely hard to replace and as a friend his loss would be present with them always.

Capt. Robertson, who was 23 years of age, was an analytical chemist with the North British Rubber Company, Edinburgh. He married Annie, youngest daughter of Maj. McCrow, V.D., of 19, Stirling Road—Trinity—Edinburgh, to whom we offer our deepest sympathy.

(Capt. Robertson took a keen interest in the St. George's Gazette, and did a great deal to help us to keep going. Although we were not so fortunate as to know him personally we feel that by his death we have sustained the loss of a valuable coadjutor and friend. ED., St. G.G.)

LIEUT. JOHN H. FEGGETTER.

Lieut. John H. Feggetter, Northumberland Fusiliers, previously reported wounded, was killed on October 4th, aged 22. He was the third son of Mr. and Mrs. William Feggetter, of 9, Dilston Terrace, Gosforth, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and was educated at South Gosforth Council School, Rutherford College, and Armstrong College, where he was a member of the Durham O.T.C. He received his commission at the end of 1915, and after coming safely through the battle of the Somme of July 1st, 1916, was wounded in the right arm, and after a short stay in England rejoined his Batt. at the Front. The Commanding Officer wrote:—"Your son accompanied Lieut.-Col. Dix as intelligence officer; the colonel was killed whilst leading the Batt., and I greatly fear your son fell at the same time. He will leave a splendid record of service with the Battalion. Colonel Dix thought most highly of him, as did all of us."

2ND-LIEUT. RALPH LUMMIS.

2nd-Lieut. Ralph Lummis, Northumberland Fusiliers, who fell on October 4th, was the youngest son of the late George Murrell Lummis and Mrs. Lummis, of Coddenham, Suffolk, and was born in 1893. He enlisted in the Bedfordshire Regiment in January, 1910, subsequently joining the band of his Battalion. In 1912, he transferred to his eldest brother's regiment, the 11th Hussars, and received his first stripe in the following year. He served with his regiment through all the fighting of the earlier months of the war, being present at Mons, Nery, Compiègne, the Marne, the Aisne, and the fighting in Flanders up to the end of October, 1914. He was severely wounded at Messines on the 31st of that month, and returned to England. In August, 1915, he was promoted corporal, and in the following November returned to the front. He was promoted sergeant in June, 1916, and on June 15th last, was gazetted to a commission in the Lincolnshire Regiment, but was appointed to the Northumberland Fusiliers. Mrs. Lummis has now only one surviving son, her eldest, who received his commission in the Suffolk Regiment in March, 1916, and has recently been promoted lieutenant. Her second son, Cpl. Eric G. S. Lummis, Rifle Brigade, was killed at St. Eloi on February 27th, 1915.

2ND-LIEUT. WILLIAM EVELYN STANLEY POOLE.

2nd-Lieut. William Evelyn Stanley Poole, was the son of the Rev. George Russell Poole, for twenty five Fusiliers on the 26th August, 1915, but owing to ill-health he was unable to proceed abroad till the 26th June, 1917. He was killed in action on the 19th day of September, 1917. The sympathy of all ranks goes out to his mother. Lieut. Poole was in his 37th year.

2ND-LIEUT. FRANCIS PELHAM ALDRICH.

2nd-Lieut. Francis Pelham Aldrich, was the only son of the late Charles Ernest Aldrich, of Norwich.

He joined the —th East Yorks Regt. on the 28th October, 1914, and after training with that Unit until the 24th May, 1916, went to France where he was transferred to the —th Worcesters. He served with the latter regiment to the 1st August, 1917, when he came home to receive a commission. He was given a commission in the —th Batt. Northumberland Fusiliers, on the 28th March, 1917, and went to France again on the 21st May last. He was reported missing on the 6th July, 1917, but was subsequently killed in action on the same day. He was educated at Woodbridge School, Suffolk, and in civil life was on the staff of J. & L. Colemans Ltd., Norwich.

2ND-LIEUT. F. P. ALDRICH.

He was in the 25th year of his age when he was killed and his early demise is regretted by all ranks.

C.S.M. E. M. WATTS.

We have to record the death in action of C.S.M. Watts, on September 20th, 1917, at the age of 54. C.S.M. Watts was an old FIFTH man and many old FIFTH Fusilier will learn with sorrow of the loss of an old comrade whose glorious death will stand for ever in the annals of the regiment as a stirring example of that spirit of brave determination and good comradeship which has proved so instrumental in earning for the regiment the titles of "The Fighting Fifth" and "The Old and Bold" of which we are so justly proud. C.S.M. Watts was born at Charlton, in August, 1863, and enlisted in 1879. He served with three of the five battalions at home and abroad for nearly 24 years during which time it was his lasting regret and misfortune that he never saw active service. He was discharged to pension in November, 1902. When war broke out in 1914, he offered himself for service but owing to an old disability to a foot he could not pass fit for active service. Nothing daunted he underwent an operation on his foot and was able to pass the doctors. He joined a Service Battalion in October, 1914, and went with it to France, in 1915. After 3 months' service there he met with an accident and had to undergo another operation in France and was invalided home. As soon as he was fit he again volunteered for service abroad and after a good deal of trouble on his part got himself sent out to France to his former Service Battalion with which he served continuously never missing a single day in the trenches till he at last met his fate and fell leading his men to the attack in one of the recent battles.

He leaves a family to mourn him, of whom three sons are in the FIFTH and have all been in the trenches in this war and two of them wounded. Two other sons are in the Navy one of whom saw fighting in the battle of Heligoland and another is in the Mercantile Marine and he has had one ship sunk under him by a U-boat and has had many narrow escapes besides. To these we tender our sympathy and we trust that their sorrow has been tempered by the great pride they must feel in the memory of such a father.

Obituary.

MR. W. MITCHELL.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Weston Mitchell late sergeant 5th Fusiliers, which took place suddenly at the town residence of Sir J. Norton Griffiths, on the 9th inst., aged 46 years.

Digitized by Google

Weston Mitchell was a Fusilier who loved his Regiment with a jealous love, and a warm hearted man to whom an appeal by any less favoured Tommy was never made in vain.

He was the son of the late Col. Arthur Mitchell, the Queen's Regiment, was educated at St. Pauls, and joined the —st Batt. at Dover in 1893. With it he took part in the Soudan Campaign of 1898, and the Occupation of Crete and was relegated to the Reserve on the return of the Batt. to England the following year. On the Reserve being called up in November, 1899, he was posted to the —nd Batt. and shared in the earlier battles of the South African War until, as a mounted infantryman, the Boers captured him at Reddersburg in April, 1900, being liberated when Lord Roberts entered Pretoria.

On returning to civil life he became manager to Norton Griffiths & Co., the well known contractors.

MR. W. MITCHELL.

He leaves a widow to whom we offer our sympathy.

COL.-SGT. T. J. MCGUIRE.

We have to record the death of Col.-Sgt. Thomas John McGuire, whose greatly regretted demise breaks another link in the chain of memories which holds us to the past. Col.-Sgt. McGuire enlisted into the Regiment on St. George's Day, 1872, and joined the 2nd Batt. He went to the 1st Batt. in India, in 1875, and served through the Afghan Campaign of 1878-80, for which he was awarded a medal. He was always looked upon as one of the smartest soldiers in the Regiment and was respected alike by Officers, N.C.O.'s and Men. He was discharged to pension after 22 years' service in 1894, and died at Everton, on 4th September, aged 62 years. He leaves a widow and family to whom we accord our deepest sympathy. One of his sons was recently killed in action and another is still serving in France.

Regimental Notes.

10th October, 1917.

PIONEER writes:—

During the month we have had a rest. No trenches to tape out, no duckboards to fix; no long trek up and down; no "stand-to" to await raids. No, none of these. Just drill, sports, and concerts. All of which have been very welcome and highly appreciated. A gem of varied hues set in a crown of labour. (That sentence is, apparently, one of the results of the few days off). As the Editor would rejoice and gloat over some sparkling item to separate more completely the covers of the Gazette, so do we gloat over the holiday.

The boxing produced many thrills, not to mention many bruises. The hitherto undiscovered talent showed itself, and extra rounds were fought to decide several of the preliminary contests. Then leave interfered with the programme, and the finals are still for decision. The M.O. was in attendance, and the inevitable wag broke out; and appropos of the examination of one very fit pugilist he said "My, wouldn't it be a funny un if the doctor found he had P.U.O!"

The Sports were varied and the list of winners is given as a preliminary to further sports when a suitable occasion turns up

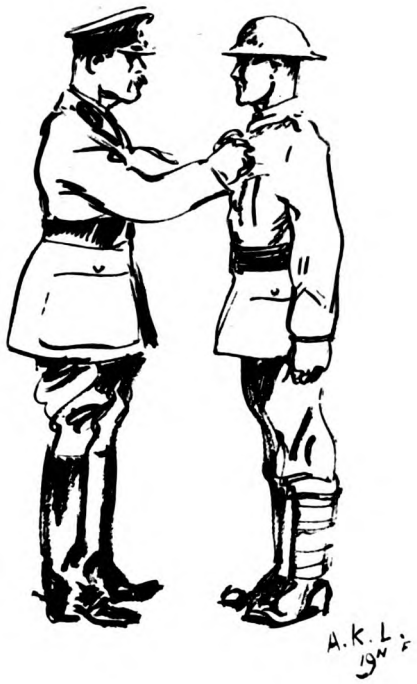
The Major-General Commanding the Division inspected the Battalion and presented ribands to those who have been awarded decorations. His words to the Battalion were highly appreciated by all ranks. No finer words of praise and congratulation could have been said. The march past was carried out with a swing, and immediately afterwards the sports were renewed.

One of the Infantry Battalions of the Division gave one concert and much enjoyment to this Battalion. Then, two nights later, X Company again sparkled with a fine programme. We welcome the advent of a male voice choir (one word seems superfluous there!) from Wales. Their singing has proved a great treat, and the choir is a decided acquisition to our already plentiful musical talent.



* * * * * *

Since when, we have been on the march, in mixed weather. Lorries met us, and as the men filed through the puddles in the torrential downpour, a monotonous voice droned "fall-in knee deep." In times like these a vote of thanks must be accorded to our worthy friend Mr. Maconochie, though one youth with a taste for epigrams remarked, "A tin of bully in the hand is worth a tin of Maconochie in the bush."

* * * * * *

Leave has again been generous, but a sad tale might be related here. We desist, and commisserate with the unfortunates.

* * * * * *

The Company Commander had delivered a stirring address to the new men on the desirability of being constantly cheerful despite the vicissitudes of campaigning. On a long march one of the men was limping badly after the ninth mile. His neighbour, too, was in difficulties, and was plodding along gamely, his grim face a little pain-distorted. Suddenly he of the blistered heel guffawed; the moral precepts of the O.C. Company had struck home. The humour of the situation appealed to him, and he chortled again:—

"What the ——— is the matter with you?" growled his grimly plodding mate.

"Oh, I'm just laughing."

"You don't seem to have much to laugh at. You're limping worse than I am."

"Well, but we've got to be cheerful ——"
"Oh, damn."
"Now, what's the use o' me laughing if you sulk. Laugh, you old grouser; laugh, man. I've got a blister as big as a Maconochie tin, but its ——— funny."

His mate's grim face relaxed, and chuckling loudly, the pair of them completed the march.

NOTES FROM A SERVICE BATTALION.

Events have moved somewhat rapidly since our last appearance in these columns. Of these I cannot say very much as I can see the Blue Pencil "on guard." However, I will do my best not to overstep the limit or hurt the delicate feelings of "Dora." About two months ago we were the victims of circumstance which, while it perhaps Regimentally was advantageous, nevertheless was tinged with a real feeling of sorrow, in saying farewell to friends of three years standing beside whom we had shared joy and trouble, and whose names had become household words in the Batt. It was a case of good-byes and good lucks, speeches of thanks and certain demonstrations of appreciation of ourselves, which produced a feeling among us very difficult to define and rather too deep for mere words. Recently however, old aquaintances have been renewed and we hope it may be not the only occasion we shall have the opportunity.

* * * * * *

Another event brought with it a slight change of title and the invasion of a host of new-comers, booted and spurred, complete with shooting sticks and fur collars. I fear the latter would have a poor chance once the "Stoss-Truppen" of a certain small but persevering Central Power got a foot-hold. However, joking apart, although it was a regrettable necessity that we had to transfer some of the men of the Batt. elsewhere it was unavoidable and I take the opportunity of extending a formal and hearty welcome to the yeomen who are now part of us. At present they are carrying out training some miles away.

* * * * *

We have forsaken the land of plain and copse for a desolate crater-field, not far from where the Batt. underwent its initial experience of active service. There are shells of course and various nasty things like that, but compared to the weather conditions the Hate of the Hun is a small affair. The long weary tramps along the duck walks and the acres of slush to be traversed, the more or less perpetual rain, and the general atmosphere of watery expanses surely justifies an additional stanza to Tommy's litany "From the eternal mud, Oh Lord deliver us."

* * * * * *

Hearty congratulations to the following recent recipients of decorations:—2nd-Lieut. W. S. Allen and 2nd-Lieut. E. S. Hope, M.C.; Sgt. Taylor, Bar to M.M. and Cpl. Procter, Lce.-Cpl. Clampitt, Ptes. Bolam and Fisher, M.M.; Lce.-Cpl. Keenan, Card of Honour. Also to Captains Brady, Craven and Lamb on their third "pips."

* * * * * *

Social changes in our personnel have been numerous of late. Maj. D. R. Osborne has gone to Aldershot on the Senior Officers' Course and Lieut. A. V. Freshwater is instructing at a Cadet School at home. Capt. R. Horan and 2nd-Lieut. Newman are both in Blighty, wounded. The former is now convalescing in the Lake District where there is plenty of water—but very little else—to drink. Capt. J. W. Lamb is also at home—sick.

* * * * * *

Lieut. G. Bates, M.C., and Lieut. A. B. Leake at present adorn Divisional and Brigade Headquarters. Capt. A. J. B. Tanfield, Lieut. J. Pearson and 2nd-Lieuts. Wilson and Cook were recent victims of gas, happily slight cases.

* * * * * *

Q.M.S. Marshall has recently proceeded to England to obtain his commission. For three years on the Orderly Room Staff, he has served the Battalion faithfully and well and the good wishes of all go with him. Several of our W.O.'s and N.C.O.'s have done likewise and the same remark applies to one and all.

* * * * * *

Leave has gone very well until recently when it has somewhat slackened off. A large number of men have enjoyed more than well-earned ten days at home. May the good allotment we have had continue! Several officers also have been on furlough, including our M.O. who had to wait for several suns to pass over the yard arm before his warrant came.

* * * * * *

My concluding note, must, I fear, be a very sorrowful one. It is, I know, an effort to write at all on my part, but I must do my best. Its subject is the death of five of our officers in action. One, 2nd-Lieut. S. Adams, was killed some weeks ago. He had only been with us a few months but during that short period had impressed everyone with his sterling qualities. The remaining four became casualties only four days ago. They were our Commanding Officer, Adjutant, Intelligence Officer and acting Medical Officer. The first named, Lieut.-Col. A,

Digitized by Google

Bryant, D.S.O., only came to us three weeks ago from a Staff appointment. From the very first we took to him as a very gallant gentleman and a fine soldier. Can I say anything more? "Bill" Robertson, as he always was and always will be known was an officer who belonged to the Battalion from the very first. Two years in France as Signal Officer and for the past twelve months as Adjutant brought him two mentions in despatches and his work and personality made him popular with every one. Lieut. R. Radham came to us from another Battalion in the Brigade a month or two ago and had quickly made himself liked among us. He had just been promoted at the time of his death and was looked on as a very promising officer. Capt. Davis, R.A.M.C., who was taking duty for our M.O. when he was killed had only just been welcomed to the Mess and was already a friend and brother officer.

The writer himself left them only two days previously and will always remember them, cheerful and confident, going into action. The deepest sympathy of all ranks of the Battalion go out to their people at home who perhaps may find a little consolation in the fact that they died with the Regiment and for the Regiment, and that the Regiment will never forget them.

RESERVE BATTALION NOTES.

All is quiet on the BxxxxN Front. Occasional raids (by the Staff) are reported from various sectors, preceded by intensive bombardment (by correspondence). In no case, however, were their efforts successful from the enemy's point of view. Some activity has been noticable among the enemy snipers (Aria and Section Gas bombing and P.T. and B.F. Officers), but a number of these pests have been duly accounted for.

* * * * * *

All ranks learnt with regret that Sgt. Watts, a fine type of the Old Fusilier, had been killed in action in France. At an age when well-merited retirement and rest might have been his portion, he made every sacrifice and went out to France to meet his death fighting with the Old Regiment he loved so well. The deepest sympathy of his comrades goes out to his family and to his son, who is now serving as an officer with the Battalion.

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
NEAR WALLINGFORD,
31st October, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

Capt. J. T. Rowland whose name appears in the Extracts from the London Gazette, enlisted in the 5th Fusiliers in 1888. For many years he was Orderly-Room-Sergeant at the Depôt, and in 1900, on the formation of the old —rd Batt. (since disbanded) was posted as R.Q.M.S., with this Batt. he went to Antigua, West Indies, thence to South Africa. After five years on the P.S. at Alnwick, he was discharged to pension in February, 1909. On the war breaking out Capt. Rowland was commissioned as Q.M. in the —th Batt. and served with that Batt. for two years, being invalided from France on account of rheumatism. He is now serving at home.

Letter to the Editor.

TO THE EDITOR, "ST. GEORGE'S GAZETTE."

THE BARRACKS,
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,
8th October, 1917.

DEAR SIR,

The following is a copy of the Weekly Statement, as published in the local newspapers, of the Northumberland Prisoners of War Organisation:—

From the "Newcastle Evening Chronicle."

28th September, 1917.

SIR,—The following donations towards the Northumberland Prisoners of War Fund have been received from the regular subscribers and adopters during the week ended 26th Sept., 1917, making a total to that date £8,493 4s. 2d. Further donations are urgently needed, and will be received and acknowledged by hon. treasurer, Mr. C. F. Lloyd, National Provincial Bank, Mosley Street, Newcastle, to whom all moneys should be sent.

Yours, etc.,
W. F. SMYTHE,
THOS. RIDDELL,
Joint Hon. Secretaries.

Mrs. Waterfield, £1; Four Friends, Riding Mill, 10s.; the Misses Thorburn, £8 14s.; Mrs. M. Craik, £5 8s.; Mrs. C. R. Roberts, £4 10s.; Central P.O.W. Committee, £2 3s. 6d.; Mrs. G. Finch, and Miss Foster, £2; P. M. Thornton, 18s.; Employees of Sabulite, £1 5s.; Mrs. A. Barker, 10s.; Mrs. Shearman, £1 10s.; Mrs. N. L. Watson, 12s.; Miss Byron Simpson, £1 10s.; Mrs. Oswald, £1; Belsay I.O.W. Fund, £3 13s.; Mrs. C. Percival, £1 12s.; Mrs. G. Tuer, £1 10s.; M. H., 10s.; Tracing Office, Armstrong Naval Yard, £2 7s.; Mr. and Miss E. Bankston, £1 13s.; Col. G. A. Pagan, £20; Mrs. Carr Ellison, £1; Tynemouth P.O.W. Fund, £16 4s.; Mrs. John Pybus, £1; Mrs. Humphrey, £6 6s.; Ponteland Parish, per Rev. F. W. Langton, £4 16s.; Mrs. M. Goodwin, £4 7s.; Miss Mould, £4; Mrs. A. M. Spencer, £4 10s.; J. Richardson, 10s.; Miss Ward, 12s.; James Kirsopp, £2; Miss Selby, 10s.; Mrs. J. Beevers, 10s.; donations under 10s. amount to £7 3s. 6d.

The Committee have received with thanks the gift by the Cerebos Salt Company of two gross packets Cerebos Salt.

In addition to the sum named therein £6,900 was obtained for the Fund as the result of a Special Appeal to the County, etc., in the early part of the present year.

The Organisation has now been working for 10 months during which period nearly 50,000 parcels have been despatched. The rise in prices and increase in number of the Prisoners add to the expenses and the time is approaching when another strenuous effort to obtain Funds will have to be made.

May I therefore ask all friends of the Regiment to do what they can to assist.

The working expenses of this large undertaking are exceedingly small, thanks to the praiseworthy manner in which the Hon. Secretaries, Lady Packers, etc. have stuck to their arduous work.

To all these ladies and gentlemen the Regiment is deeply indebted.

Yours faithfully,
E. W. DASHWOOD, Colonel,
Cmndg. Depôt Northumberland Fusiliers.

[BY E.G.B.]

AA waas absent laast month. Aa waas on paass! By! whaat a concarn. Mind, aa've hed tae wait a canny bit, gaunin' on two yeors. But taak aboot maaking up for 't ——!

Hooivor aa got across London aa canna maake oot. Gaunin' up North aa wes in wi' three gunnors, a Jock an' a civvy. Thon civvy ses tae me "Why hevn't ye got a medal ribbon?" Aa hev," ses aa, "but aa dwent weor't." "Whaat 'ist?" he axes. "The F.F.R." ses aa "forst for rum." Aa wes expectin' a roo till thon Jock looses off his rifle an' hits a coo in a field. By! hoo aa laafed. Them gunnors got the wind up. Then the Jock pulls a bottle o' th' owd an' bowld oot on hes pocket an' for a bit we wes heavily engaged. We hoyed the empty bottle oot gaunin' paast some staation an' ketched a bairn in a pram a tarrible clout on th' heid. A guud job we wes travellin' sich a bat! Paassin' doon we hoyed a bomb an' gaunin' across the High Level the civvy went. We just heerd the splaash as we got tae the Centraal.

Aa' canna saay whaat ma feelins' weor tae see the canny owd toon agen.

The wife's brother seed me forst. He wes maad-drunk. Whaat a concarn! He hollered oot he hed nae feor o' Garmans noo. Oot aa leaps an' faalls doon. Aa canna think whaat from. The wife's ant's husband picks us up. Then aa staarted salutin' the militaary polis. Aa thowt they were staaff officors.

They wadn't hev us on th' caar. A bit lassie wi' th' tickets sed she wadn't hev a menagarry on. Sae we waalked. Aa canna mind owt else thon forst neet.

Next neet we wes at th' Empiore an' aa caused a sensaation by dropping oot o' th' gaallory onto a woman's haat in the staalls. Then they waanted tae charge me extra for th' seat. Of course a remonnystraated an' they hoyed me oot. In th' street aa met a paal who tried tae join up wi' me. I mind the Doctor axing "Is this the result o' the colliory explosion?" Sae they wedn't hev him. Noo he's on munitions. Thon's the job! Aa went hame wi' him. He hes a chaampion hoose. Two pianners in the sittin' room. He thowt yen luked odd so he got a pair. They caune get the door shut noo. Aa hed supper theor an' hed to gan hame on a flaat.

But ma laast neet waas th' worst. Aa waasn't gaunin' tae be doon hearted an' aa waas detormined tae show wor folks whaat waar waas. Well, aa howked up a bit o' wor street usin' the stones for a paarapet. Aa pulled the iron off a bed for revetting. The bairn's bassynette, an' a bord caage maade a forst class wior entanglymant. Then aa collected the ammyunition an' just when aa waas set the enemey cam' ower—8 polis.

Aa opened fior with haaf-bricks an' lit a heap o' paapers for S.O.S. The bairns advanced from the flank hoying soot. The cattys opened an' then the bottles from th' neybors upstaiors. Aa hed plenty o' supports. The polis haalted an' theor second waave come up wi' hosepipes "water worfers." Then aa showed masel. Reinforced by the wife's brother, a fish wife an' three cats, we charged, ower the top we went, me shootin' Howaay the Fusiliors." The fish wife fell intoo the trench and became a casuality. The wife's brother hoyed his youngest bairn amang the polis while aa cut th' hose wi ma baynet. A strong flaank attaak come oot o' the tripe shop an' the pubs put a barrage doon. That wes ower much. Ootnumbered by five hundred tae ten the polis tooke an' raan. The fior deed doon an' the rest o' th' neet wes quiort. For me onywaay. The stretchor bearors caarryed me hame aafter aa hed addressed the troops wi the stooring words "The syem agen."

THE SPECIALISTS.

IT looked at one time as though we were all about to turn specialists in water-tight compartments that formed no bulkhead. (If that sentence doesn't seem correct, oh, my purists, then please remember that the emendation of it is your work, not mine). From the highest to the lowest ranks the insidious specialising had gone on. Not even in the most black-leg proof Trades Union was there such aloofness. You will remember—or never knew, as the case may be—of the brass finisher who was asked, mark you, asked, to file a piece of white metal. He disdainfully cast up his nose, trickled a few brass filings through his fingers, sniffed and sneezed, and then very carefully went on touching up a turbine motor blade, 1 63/64in. in length. That was his work. White metal? Poof!—He would lose caste and be levied one hour's pay if he touched it.

So was it with us. The attention of the Lewis Gun Officer would be drawn to the fact that a pin was loose on the wheel of the gun limber wagon (Mark x). But the care of all transport was in the hands of the Transport Officer. So the L.G.O. drew the attention of the T.O. to this important and vital deficiency, and told him of the urgent necessity for remedying the defect. The care, mechanically was not the T.O.'s, and he said as much, very politely, and with sundry classical allusions to the L.G.O. So the T.O. went and told the Q.M. He, worthy man, pondered heavily on the subject, and wondered if he could hand the whole case over to D.A.D.O.S.; but as the part was not missing or broken, but merely loose, he judged, in his wisdom, that it was a matter for the Pioneer Sergeant. The P.S. was consulted; he, being a joiner, turned the matter over, straightway, to the plumber. The latter contended, and with much justification, that it hardly came within his sphere, and duly informed a handyman that he ought to go over and look at it. A brain wave vibrated down the spinal column of the handyman, and up again.

"Why," said he, "its the wheeler's job," and at once set off to find the wheeler. This stalwart craftsman at once, or approximately so, strode over to the offending wagon. Lo! the pin had been driven in. There was much commotion. The rights of the wheeler had been violated, and someone must be charged with black-legging. An enquiry was held, and it transpired (it always transpires at these things) that a passing mule, had, unwittingly done the foul deed by mistiming a kick at the Sanitary Corporal. The whole business was immediately reported to the Adjutant who began a series of queries to the next-higher command for a ruling on the matter. The correspondence, having by now reached its 193rd minute may be dismissed. A G.R.O. will duly appear to settle for all time the status of mule-cum-wheeler.

You can easily see, oh persevering reader, how serious a thing specialisation is. But worse is to follow. It is necessary now to digress a little on the inaccuracies of the 1/100,000 scale maps. The massed attacks of Labour Companies, C.O.'s, Pioneers, Prisoners of War and R.E. have changed the face of the country. New roads grow under the feet of Labour Companies; it is reported, on doubtful authority, that grass does likewise. Railways, of recent construction, meander about the place apparently aimlessly. So a map of the scale above mentioned, issued from the Survey of I.B.C., is slightly wrong in some points. Now the realisation of these two facts (a) the growth of specialisation (b) the slight inaccuracy of the 1/100,000 maps is essential to the understanding of the seriousness of what follows.

Several officers were in the Mess, comme ordinairement. There entered unto them a visitor. After saying he would, with just a dash of soda, he unfolded his project and his 1/100,000 map.

"I want to get to Bony-Sur-Charbon, near to Lignereuil le Haut," said he.

"Oh, that's easy," said the Q.M. "See that point there? Well, it shows a junction of three roads. Really there are five. If you want a short cut through ——— do you know the ration dump?"

"No," said the visitor. The Q.M. looked at him pityingly, shook his head, offered his case of "Pansy Queen" cigarettes, or some other choice ration brand, and for the moment subsided. The M.O. took it up.

"Just at this point," said he prodding a carefully manicured finger into the map, "there's a convoy of motor ambulances. You cannot miss them, really."

"But what if they're all out?" queried the Signals Officer. The Doctor paled, again tapped the map. "I'm telling you that they're there, the one landmark to help Smithers to find the short cut."

"That's it," chirped up the Q.M., "I saw them pass the ration dump last week. Yes, that's it."

"Tell you what it is," said the Signals Officer. Just at the turning there, S of the second N in LIGNY-SAINT-MENNINGEN, there's a Brigade Signal Officer. Follow the wires from there ——" and he whipped out his compass. "Yes," he continued, "a true bearing of 251degs."

"I haven't a com——," murmured the by now mystified Smithers.

"That's all right," burst in the L.G.O. "Just half right from the junction of these two paths, about 500 yards away is a range for Lewis Guns. Leave that well on your left, and ride for the two poplars ————"

"Good," shouted the Q.M. "they're near the ration dump ———."

"Not those two, anyway," snarled the enfilade expert. "When you reach them ———"

"He'll miss the way," said the M.O. "for he'll miss the ambulance convoy that way, and take him miles round." By this time Smithers said he didn't mind again, but with just a dash less soda in it. The T.O. arrived, and after asking what was the question before the house, soon put matters right.

"See that spot there beside the trees. That's the artillery horse lines. Go straight down the lines for about half a mile, turn sharp right for about 200 yards, then bear off a little to the left. There's a gallop there. Keep on it for about a mile, then when you come to the broken bridge turn ———"

"Yes," said Smithers, comprehending all.

"But by the signal office and the cable line ——" began the S.O.

"Rot!" said the Q.M. "The dump's the place ——"

"Look here Smithers, the range track ———" began the L.G.O.

"Follow the line of the convoy," said the M.O. Discussion became fast and a wee bit furious. Smithers duly fortified himself, and, leaving the advice-givers wrangling in the interminable specialist way, sneaked out.

"Jones," said he to his groom. "Straight down the street, and trust to Providence."

ANTI-SPECIALIST SPECIALIST.

THE BURNING OF SALONICA.

(BY W. M. A.)

6th September, 1917.

THE 18th of August, 1917, will be handed down in the history of Salonica as one of those greater events, perhaps the greatest, which has occurred in its long period of existence covering a life of more than two thousand years. No doubt it has, during that span of life, passed through many phases, but certainly none so disastrous as that which befell it on the above date when the whole commercial part of the city, more than two-thirds, was destroyed by fire. This fact would perhaps have very little or no interest to readers of the St. George's Gazette, but for the reason that one of the Battalions of the Regiment is on active service within a hundred miles of this ill fated city. Many Officers of the Battalion in question have spent some pleasant days in the now famous city, studying and enjoying the cosmopolitan life which is to be found within its walls. Many have had expensive teas at "Floca's", and in turn visited the "Leicester Lounge," "The Odeom," "The Splendide," "Olympus," which are now no more, and enjoyed themselves more or less during their few days' relaxation from duty.

Salonica has had a varied history, in the making of which, its inhabitants could never have passed through a more terrible experience than that which overtook them on the 17th.

The fire seems to have started in the basement of a Turkish house where some hay was stored, and rapidly spread to adjacent building. With the great heat during August, everything was as dry as tinder, warm and in a ripe condition for such a conflagration. The town is built on a wide front and the houses rise in terraces from the sea shore, stretching away up the hill behind, as far as the old walls of the town, forming a great facade round the harbour. The houses in this quarter are old and full of wood and the fire raced along them with incredible speed. Some 4,200 houses were destroyed in one afternoon, and the sight from ships in the bay must have been a magnificent one.

One or two ancient manual fire engines were turned out to tackle this little task. One wonders what our London Firemen would have thought if they were handed over such weapons One, we are told, was marked "Sun Fire Office 1710!"

The British troops, who happened to be in and knew the town, rendered most valuable assistance in rendering help to the women and children as well as dealing sharply with looters. The praise of the refugees is well recorded of their appreciation of the kindness shown them by the British troops. Two Officers of the Battalion, who happened to arrive there on a few days' leave, were requisitioned for picquet and other duties during the fire, and did some very useful work, but they are shy of sending an account of their experience to the Gazette.

The following is quite genuine and was received in a certain orderly room:—

"My husband has always been accustomed to a quiet life, I do not think he is suited for infantry, please transfer him to a non combatant corps such as the A.S.C., R.A.M.C., or Y.M.C.A."

ALBERT MEDAL.

RESCUES FROM A FRENCH TROOPSHIP.

The King has been graciously pleased to confer the Decoration of the Albert Medal upon Acting Qrmr.-Sgt. J. W. Brown, R.A.M.C.; Sgt. W. Seymour, Northumberland Fusiliers; and Ptes. A. D. H. Allan and J. Cuthbertson, R.A.M.C. (T).

The following is an account of the services in respect of which the Decoration has been conferred:—

On the morning of February 5th, 1917, a serious explosion, followed by a fire, occurred on the French troopship St. Laurent at Malta. After some time it was observed that three men in the forepart of the ship, where the flames were fiercest, were cut off from the rest. None of the boats near would approach the ship owing to the heat and danger of a further explosion, until Actg. Qrmr.-Sgt. Brown persuaded a Maltese policeman to row him out; but when within thirty yards of the ship the policeman refused to go further. Brown returned, and was then joined by Seymour, Allan and Cuthbertson. They rowed directly to the forepart of the ship, the sides of which were by this time red hot, while the plates were falling into the sea. When they were within a few yards of the ship two of the three men in the forepart jumped into the sea and were rescued; the third, who had climbed up the mast, was saved later when the mast fell.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

ranks, and during that time had seen active service in Ashanti, Soudan, Crete and South Africa.

On the outbreak of war he mobilized with the Northumberland Fusiliers and proceeded to the front in April, 1915, as Quartermaster, serving continuously in that capacity until invalided home in January last. After a period in Hospital he joined his Reserve Battalion and proceeded to the front again in May last, where he served with his old Battalion until he met his death. He was awarded the Military Cross in 1916, for bravery and conspicuous gallantry in the field, and his name also appeared in this year's New Year Honours as promoted Honorary Captain. The news of his death was received with the greatest regret by both Officers and men at home and abroad. For he was a favourite with all with whom he came in contact. The greatest sympathy is extended to his wife and family.

Capt. Hugh Urquhart Scrutton, M.C.

Capt. Hugh Urquhart Scrutton, M.C., Northumberland Fusiliers, is now reported to have died of wounds, in his 22nd year, while prisoner in a Bulgarian hospital, shortly after 10th September, 1916, when he was wounded in a fight on the Struma. He was the youngest son of Lord Justice and Lady Scrutton, and was educated at Stratheden House, Blackheath, and Uppingham (School House), where he was in the sixth form and cadet corps. He was going into the army as a university candidate from King's College, Cambridge, where he had been a year when the war broke out. He at once, with one of his elder brothers, enlisted as a motor dispatch rider, was sent to France in the middle of August, 1914, and went through the retreat from Mons, the battles of the Marne and Aisne and the first battle of Ypres, with the Third Division. The two brothers were mentioned in Lord French's first dispatch. He then received a commission in the —st Northumberland Fusiliers, and was wounded at Hooge, in June, 1915. For conspicuous bravery in this fighting he received the Military Cross, and was again mentioned in dispatches. Recovering from his wound, he was sent to Salonika, and on 10th September, 1916, was reported "wounded and missing." He was wounded severely while rallying his men in a retreat, and refused to allow his men unduly to expose themselves by carrying him in. His colonel wrote:—"He was an exceptionally fine company officer. . . Of his gallantry, I need not speak. He was certainly one of the most gallant of a very gallant collection of young officers." The men of his company wrote:—"He was gallantly rallying the men at a critical time of the engagement. . . . He was a very brave man, and as our officer, he was looked up to as such by the N.C.O.'s and men of his company." He was mentioned a third time in despatches for work on this front.

Lieut. W. Garth B. Garrard.

Lieut. W. Garth B. Garrard, Northumberland Fusiliers, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. William Garrard, 74, Lancaster Gate, was accidentally killed by the explosion of a bomb on 19th October, aged 24. He was educated at Mostyn House School, Parkgate, Cheshire, and Queen's College, Oxford, where he was a member of the O.T.C., and also rowed in his college eight. On the outbreak of war he was spending the long vacation in France, and on returning, joined the U.P.S. Brigade, and then passed into Sandhurst. In February, 1915, he obtained a commission in the Northumberland Fusiliers, went to the front in May, and was soon afterwards seriously wounded. After nine months at home he was drafted to another front, where he remained till his death. His colonel writes:—"Always cheerful and working, he was one of the most conscientious men I have ever met. I am not exaggerating in saying he was loved by all who knew him. His death is a real loss to the regiment."

Lieut. Ronald Lidderdale Guy.

Lieut. Ronald Lidderdale Guy was the youngest son of Lieut.-Col. J. N. Guy, V.D., and Mrs. Guy, of 11, The Glebe, Blackheath. He was educated at Durham School and was gazetted to the —th Northumberland Fusiliers in March, 1915. After considerable service with the second line of that Battalion he was ordered to the British Expeditionary Force in May last, where he was attached to one of the Territorial Battalions. He was killed leading his platoon into action on the 26th October, 1916, in the 21st year of his age. The sympathy of all ranks goes out to his mother in her bereavement.

CPL. JOHN IRVING.

We deeply regret to have to record that No. 29932, Cpl. John Irving, Z Company, —th Battalion Northumberland Fusiliers, of 61, Cavendish Road, Jesmond, Newcastle, has been killed in action, "Somewhere in France," on 28th September last. He was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Irving, of Coquet Terrace, Heaton, Newcastle. He joined the army in June, 1916, under Lord Derby's scheme, and proceeded to France in November of the same year. After an absence of eleven months abroad, he was just on the point of returning home for his first leave in order to train, and qualify for a commission, when he paid the supreme sacrifice for his country's sake on the date above mentioned. Cpl. Irving, when in civil life, served his apprenticeship, as a boy, with Messrs. T. A. Potts and Sons, Ltd., Claydon Street, Newcastle, after which he proceeded to London. Subsequently returning to Newcastle, he was engaged with Messrs. Goodson's, Ltd., the Parisian Mantle Co.; Messrs. John Milling and Co.; and, finally with Messrs. Holmes, Terry and Co., Ltd., of Manchester, at their Newcastle branch, with whom he had served for the past 13 years. We who had intimately known the late Cpl. Irving from his boyhood, upwards, during the past 21 years, can testify to the integrity, as well as the stirling worth of his character; we deeply regret his loss, and feel quite sure he had within him the makings of a fine officer, had he been spared to receive, what he was eminently qualified for—the King's Commission. He was 35 years of age, and married in May, 1914, leaving a widow and one son to mourn his loss.

Regimental Notes.

PIONEER writes:—

9th November, 1917.

These notes are begun in a tent, more or less floating on the Sea of Mud. At least, it was a tent, but with so many novelties attached to it, one may safely call it a miniature fort. A sandbag wall surrounds it, weird draperies hang round it; and at night, with one candle aglow, the thing appears to be a fantastic Chinese Lantern.

"WHY THE —— ARE YOU CARRYING THAT DUCK-BOARD?"

All this preparation, with the sudden thrice nightly "dowsing of the glim," is a protection against too pushful planes, intent upon leaving their visiting cards upon us.

* * * * * *

The weather frequently assists our schemes. But the problem is how to keep warm. A fortune awaits the man who can invent a steady supply of bottled heat. Stoves require fuel; and blocking that source of heat are the grim figures of the Q.M. and S.S.O., each armed with a copy of Allowance Regs., and a sheaf of G.R.O's. Pill boxes are mere toys compared with a defence like that. Some ingenious students of Heath Robinson have dug down a foot in their tent and have introduced a tiny fireplace in the wall so made. The chimneys, two in number, are made of small tins apparently stuck together with seccotine. Heroic attempt! It is reported, but the statement lacks confirmation, that smoke was once seen issuing from the tin chimney.

In the stress of the times there is time for odd snatches of wit and humour.

One man, carrying a duckboard on the long trek, was shot through the upper arm. He stood, amazed at the occurrence. The next man hearing the smack said "Are you hit, Jim? "I think so!" "Then what the h——— are you still carrying that duckboard for?"

During the month Maj. H. S. Dawson, M.C., has been wounded and Capt. J. Fawcett, M.C., has been accidentally injured while proceeding on leave.

SPECIAL RESERVE NOTES.

Fusiliers will read with interest of the capture of Lydda in Palestine by our forces under Gen. Allenby, for it was there, in the third century that our Patron Saint St. George was born and, whatever that picturesque historian Gibbon may have said about him in the "Decline and Fall," St. George has reason to be proud of the Battalions which are now wearing his emblems in at least two continents "Quo fata vocant."

* * * * * *

To the list of the former officers of the old "Northumberland Buffs" who now hold General Officers' command must now be added that of Brig.-Gen. E. P. A. Riddell, who began his soldiering at Alnwick, in G Coy. of the old Battalion, 1894, and served continuously with it till 1900. We all wish "Plug" every success in his new rank.

* * * * * *

The presence of Capt. Surtees with Brigade Headquarters at Exxx Bxxxxx, revives the memory of the name of another distinguished member of his family, Maj. Anthony Surtees, who was second-in-command to the then Lord Algernon Percy, who commanded the old Battalion in London in 1780, when it rendered such signal service in the dispersal of the Gordon rioters. Among the then subalterns was Lieut. Edward Allgood an ancestor of two of our present captains of the same name.

* * * * * *

Maj. Surtees' name was immortalized in the old song written after these events which used to be sung in the Alnwick country and on Tyneside in the late eighteenth century. One of the verses ran thus:—

Success unto Lord Percy then,
For he is our brave Commander,
And likewise unto Colonel Bell,
As bold as Alexander.
To Major Surtees frank and free
Who behaves well in that station,
To all our officers in each degree,
They're the glory of the Nation.

* * * * * *

So much for the past. As for the present, the strenuous work which began on 4th August, 1914, still continues, and training and coast defence, the disposal of "B's" and "C's" and the relaxation of Football (Rugby and Association), to which must now be added Hockey, continues without intermission. The Rugby XV. is now quite a useful combination.

* * * * * *

General Macfarlane inspected the Battalion both at Headquarters and on Detachment on 17th December, and expressed himself as well pleased with the training of all ranks and their smartness on parade.

C.P.H.

NOTES FROM A SERVICE BATTALION.

November, 1917.

A certain amount of training succeeds in holding its own amongst our present diverse forms of occupation. A remarkable keenness for patrol work may be traced perhaps to the fact that the game season ought to be providing us with recreation, or must it be accounted for by the arrival of that Bosche prisoner, making some of us like Oliver Twist, eager for more?

* * * * * *

The recent experiences of life in real dugouts, lighted by electricity, have indeed smacked of the celestial in comparison with those of existence in mud and water.

* * * * * *

We are glad to hear encouraging news from Capt. Tanfield, and Lieuts. Pearson and Hope. Others of our distinguished invalids drop us occasional hints of their occupations in England—those mysterious jobs whose existence oft appears to us as a myth, so remote do they seem from life in this wilderness. A zest is added to our daily round by the proximity of an Officers' Club, the scene of former memorable merry meetings of ours. One visit to this resort was followed next morning by subdued yet anxious enquiries as to the Government price of certain articles of saddlery; luckily none of our horses have yet been lost at that place!

* * * * * *

Our gallant Quartermaster has successfully withstood the shock of hearing his beloved D.A.D.O.S. premises spoken of as the AUDIENCE. The small tooshay affords much comfort and sustenance in cases of this sort!

At the time of writing we are still very cheery as the result of a very recent Battalion dinner, one of those events to which infrequency lends a rosy mist of enchantment. For once we had little difficulty in obtaining a "room" large enough for our wants, and the result of our latest Mess Secretary's one day's leave filled us all with admiring wonder. I do not intend to inform the Food Controller of further particulars in that direction.

* * * * * *

Amongst the guests we were delighted to welcome Maj. Chenevix Trench; his presence awoke the memories of early months we spent on active service, in the comradeship of all those officers of the original Battalion whom we remember with such pride.

* * *

Capt. Palmer (North'n Regt.) and Lieut. Bates also joined us in the evening's conviviality.

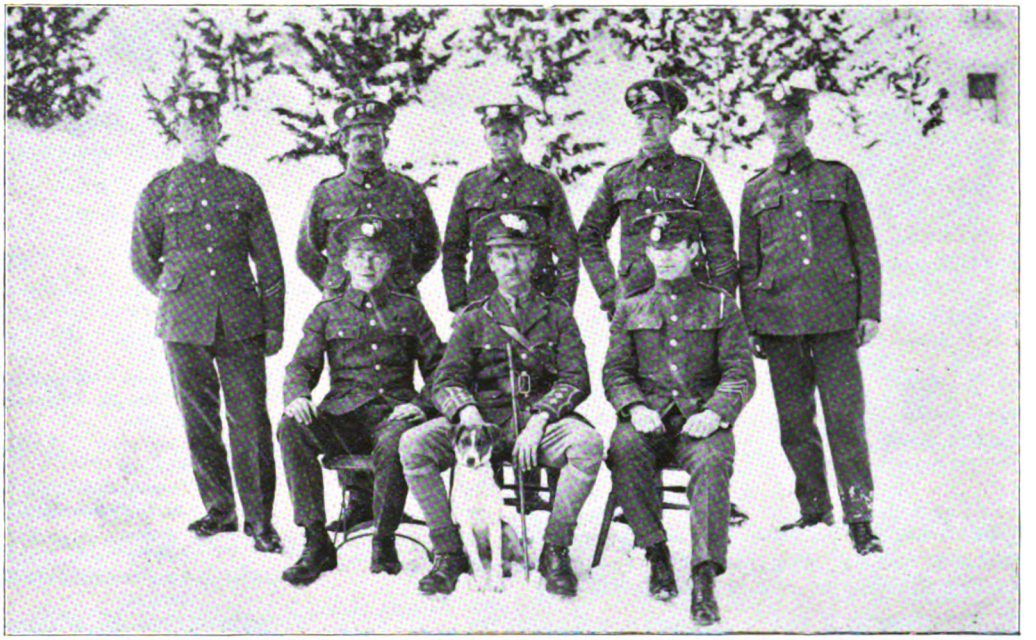
Maj. Hon. J. M. Ridley has reported for duty with us. The amalgamation effected some time ago has by no means weakened our connections with the county from which we take our territorial title; rather, we may now safely say that the Battalion is thoroughly representative of that county, which throughout the war continues to give so freely of its best manhood, whether from the town or country, the colliery or the fell-side.

We have been fortunate in coming across several FIFTH Fusiliers during the past month in the Metropolis, of these, Majs. Gething and Chenevix Trench were home on short leave. Col. Heard was passing through on his journeyings round the island and Capt. Harvey Bathurst was up for a medical board.

* * * * * *

Capt. Sutherland has sent us the interesting photo which we publish in this issue of some FIFTH Fusiliers in Switzerland taken last Saint George's Day. It is we suppose a unique photo as never before have the red and white roses in a Regimental cap been seen in this mountainous country.



GROUP OF OFFICER N.C.O.'S AND MEN IN SWITZERLAND, ST. GEORGE'S DAY, 1917.

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
NEAR WALLINGFORD,
30th November, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

We call the attention of our readers to the Northumberland Fusiliers Comforts Fund which is badly in want of funds and of goods. Cheques and parcels of comforts should be sent to Mrs. M. C. Thornton, c/o The Editor, St. George's Gazette.

NORTHUMBERLAND PRISONERS OF WAR ORGANISATION.

COMMITTEE.

THE VISCOUNTESS ALLENDALE, President.

HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND, K.G.
COLONEL E. W. DASHWOOD.
CAPTAIN A. L. NAPIER.
CAPTAIN BLACKETT-ORD.
MRS. A. L. NAPIER.
MRS. E. W. DASHWOOD.
MRS. ALEX. MCCONNELL.
MRS. T. TAYLOR.
THE RIGHT HON. THE LORD MAYOR OF NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE (COUN. GEORGE LUNN, J.P.)
THE LADY MAYORESS.
A. MUNRO SUTHERLAND (Ex-Sheriff of Newcastle-on-Tyne.)
MRS. A. M. SUTHERLAND.
H. C. STEPHENS.

Chairman of Committee:—JOHN H. ARMSTRONG.
Joint Hon. Secretaries:—T. RIDDELL, W. F. SMYTHE.
Hon. Treasurer:—W. N. C. WILSON, National Provincial Bank, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

This Organisation, which commenced its duties in the late Autumn of 1916, has been carrying on the work of despatching parcels of food, etc., to every soldier of a Northumberland Unit, who is a Prisoner of War.

DEPOT.

The packing and despatching of parcels is performed from the Organisation's Department at Hale's Garage, Pilgrim Street, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, by a large number of local ladies, to whom the Committee desire to express their deep gratitude for the onerous duties which they have and are still undertaking.

PARCELS (CONTENTS).

The number of parcels sent to each Prisoner is in accordance with the recommendations of the Central Prisoners of War Committee, as approved by the Government, viz., six parcels per month containing various classes of food and comforts in accordance with the Government Schedule. These parcels vary, in rotation, so that a variety of food, which is considered necessary, is supplied. In addition thereto 6½ lbs. of bread is forwarded weekly to each Prisoner by Messrs. Dudney & Johnson, Ltd., of

Digitized by Google

Bedford, and the maximum supply of tobacco and cigarettes allowed under the Government Scheme is sent fortnightly to every Prisoner.

Cost Per Parcel.

The recent increases in the price of Provisions have added considerably to the cost of food parcels, the average for the calendar month, including packing materials, representing a cost of £2 11s. 0d. per parcel. The cost per month for bread is 8s., and for tobacco 4s. 6d., making a total of £3 3s. 6d. per Prisoner, which is exclusive of the charges incidental to the running of the Organisation, including Rent, Storekeeper's Wages, Postages, etc.

Total Annual Cost.

The number of Prisoners on our list to-day is 567, representing on the above figures a total annual expenditure of £23,500 for food and tobacco. With the administration costs, the total outlay for one year may be taken at £24,000.

The number of Prisoners is considerably in excess of those dealt with when the Organisation began its duties, and it is to be feared that this number will be increased from time to time, consequent upon the present active operations at the front.

Prior to this Organisation coming into force, parcels sent to Prisoners by private Adopters were merely extras to add to their comfort and welfare, but since the autumn of 1916 the food supplied through this and other kindred organisations has practically been their sole sustenance.

Sole Sustenance.

"If it were not for the parcels of food we would have starved," is the statement of Prisoners who have recently been liberated, and it will be seen, therefore, how absolutely necessary it is that regular and sufficient supplies of food should be provided.

Parcels (Despatched).

The total number of parcels despatched from the date when this Organisation took up its work to 30th September last, is no less than 26,350 (exclusive of bread and cigarettes), and these at an average weight of 10 lbs. represents a total despatched from our Depôt of practically 118 tons.

Prisoners' Acknowledgments.

Special Acknowledgment Cards, enclosed in the parcels, are now being regularly received from Prisoners, who express the greatest satisfaction with their contents.

Necessity for Funds.

The above information and figures will be sufficient to show the necessity of this further Appeal, and although the amount required may appear large it should not occasion any alarm, provided the residents in Newcastle and Northumberland will recognise that the men upon whom the money is being spent are those who have represented them in the many great battles which have been fought and won, and that it is to keep them alive and to provide them with such comforts as will alleviate their sufferings and distress, that we now ask for contributions, no matter how small, for what may be considered as a duty on the part of us all.

It is not the present intention of the Committee to organize concerts, flag days, or other forms of entertainment, as they are convinced that the needs of our men have only to be stated for the money to be abundantly supplied.

The list of subscriptions received since the Organisation came into operation, represents a total of £8,996 8s. 8d., without taking into account the splendid support which the Adopters have continued to give.

WAR OFFICE, Nov. 26th.

The King has been graciously pleased to confer the Territorial Decoration upon the following officer who has been duly recommended for the same under the terms of the Royal Warrant dated Aug. 17th, 1908:—

Maj. (actg. Lieut.-Col.) G. S. Jackson, D.S.O.

RETROSPECT, 1917.

LIKE its three predecessors the year 1917 has departed amid the clash of arms. For this reason the writing of a retrospect becomes increasingly difficult. The temerity, to place on record our opinion on this world's conflict, its conduct in the past, its situation at the present, or its problematical conclusion in the future, is not ours. The knowledge necessary to enable us to write of the part taken by the FIFTH Fusiliers in the great struggle we do not possess, and if we did possess it we have not space at our disposal to chronicle a thousanth part of all that has been done, nor would the Censor permit the publication of this number if we did. It must suffice therefore to say that the old Regiment has been gallantly represented in nearly all the theatres of war. With how much gallantry is shown both by the long lists of awards including two V.C.'s which have been granted to its Officers, N.C.O.'s and men, and alas! by the ever lengthening Roll of Honour of those who have fallen.

It is true we might write reams about war topics generally, but this is done constantly, and far more ably by the professional scribes in our contemporaries, daily and periodical, and here let us say how constantly our eye is gratified and our heart made to beat more proudly by seeing in print the name of the Regiment singled out for special mention, both in the official communiques of the Commander in Chief and the descriptive accounts of battles written by the Special Correspondents We might also record our private opinion on "things" like "conchies," and "Sinn Feinners," Boloism, or Pacifists, but though these topics figure quite perceptably upon our regimentally restricted horizon they do not warrant inclusion in a retrospect.

On one subject which is not solely confined to FIFTH Fusiliers we feel we must touch en passant, and that is the issue to the original Expeditionary Force of a bronze star. It is a decoration of which all who wear it will be justly proud. Alas! many there are who will never wear it but it will be treasured by those they have left behind them as a proud memento of the life that was laid down in 1914 to save Europe.

We also in conclusion would crave the reader's indulgence to write a few words about the St. George's Gazette itself. War has hit us hard in more ways than one. The blue pencil of the Censor has knocked the stuffing out of the Battalion notes so that the hearts of many Battalion correspondents have been (apparently)! broken and they correspond no more. So also with many subscribers. Their interest in the paper went with the Battalion notes and when these ceased their subscriptions ceased also. On the other hand the enormous increase in the cost of paper and labour raises the cost of production to about five pence a copy. As it is sold to N.C.O.'s and men for twopence, it does not require a senior wrangler to decide that a good many officers' subscriptions are needed to balance the deficit. As things are we can carry on for another year at any rate, but we warn our readers that it may become necessary in 1919 to increase the price of copies to N.C.O.'s and men to 3d. or even 4d. a copy.

In conclusion may we express to all our readers, to whatever fate they may be called in the coming year, whether it be to fight, to suffer pain from wounds, to endure hardship, or to mourn a loss, our fervent wish that they may be granted such Courage, Endurance and Hope, as to enable them to face it wherever it may be and whenever it may come in the same brave spirit in which so many FIFTH Fusiliers have faced their fate in the past.

Digitized by Google

THE EDITOR.

Our Roll of Honour.

We stand one with the men who died,
Come dawn, come dark, we have these beside
Living or dead we are comrades all,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

He who died quick with his face to the foe,
In the heart of a friend must needs die slow;
Over his grave shall be heard the call,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

For a dead man leaves you work to do,
Your heart's so full that you fight for two;
And the dead man's aim is the best of all,
The battle is won by the men that fall.

O lads, dear lads, who were loyal and true,
The worst of the fight was borne by you;
So the word shall go to cottage and hall,
Our battles are won by the men that fall.

When peace dawns over the countryside,
Our thanks shall be to the lads that died,
O quiet hearts, can you hear us tell
How peace was won by the men that fell?

LIEUT. JOHN H. FEGGETTER.

Lieut. John Halifax Feggetter, who was killed in action on October 4th, in Flanders, in his 23rd year (22 years and 3 months) was the third son of Mr. and Mrs. William Feggetter, 9, Dilston Terrace, Gosforth, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and was educated at Rutherford College, from which he matriculated to Armstrong College under the Newcastle-upon-Tyne Education Authority in 1914, and entered the Honours Schools of English and Latin in 1915. Being a member of the Durham University O.T.C., at Christmas the same year he was gazetted 2nd-Lieut. of the —th Northumberland Fusiliers. Transferred to the —th Battalion, he went to France in June, 1916, and passed safely through the great Somme attack on July 1st. He was subsequently wounded (in Mametz Wood) in the shoulder, and after a short stay in England, rejoined his Battalion when he was made Signalling Officer. For his work at the capture of Croisilles he was recommended for the "M.C." He was made Intelligence Officer, and promoted to Lieut. from 1st July.

The O.C. wrote:—"On October 4th, your son accompanied Lieut.-Col. Dix as Intelligence Officer, the Colonel was killed whilst leading the Battalion, and I greatly fear that your son fell at the same time. He will leave a splendid record of service with the Battalion, Col. Dix thought most highly of him as did all of us."

Capt. G. B. Riddell wrote:—"Always the most gallant of soldiers, he had no fear of death. His men thought the world of him, and would, and did, follow him anywhere. His coolness in danger and disregard of shell fire had become almost proverbial in the Battalion, and was a constant inspiration to all who saw him."

Rev. M. Tron, Chaplain of —th "Queens" (Royal West Surrey) wrote:—"Your son was one of the most cheerful, fearless and conscientious men I have ever met, and is sadly missed by the officers and men of the Fusiliers, and the 'Queens' also, with whom he frequently came in contact."

LIEUT. JOHN H. FEGGETTER.

His eldest brother is in West Africa, the second is Chief Officer on one of H.M. Transports, and his younger brother is a Probationary Flight Officer in the R.N.A.S. The College Professors wrote of him as one of great promise.

N.B.—A short notice of this Officer taken from "The Times," appeared in our October number. Ed., "St. G.G."

Regimental Notes.

PIONEER writes:—

Another khaki birthday was celebrated during November, but the celebration was so quiet that the sound of it was lost in the general hubbub of work and the other incidentals of war. The actual festivities were postponed until a more likely time—and place. Then full justice can be done to the occasion. For did it not mean another penny per day on to the pay of most of the "old hands?" An opportunity surely, for bell-ringing, and a generous display of bunting.

The proposed service stripes too, will be an additional gain. Is it some new scheme for a more adequate camouflaging of the men. Good conduct stripes, wound stripes and service stripes—a man will only need to turn him sideways to any O.P. to become invisible. It's a subtle move.

Mud is still the chief product of this country, but there are signs that greater camp comfort will be ours in a few days. Huts are sprouting from the cold frame of the slush. For which we are duly thankful.

* * * * * *

One of us has something to do with the light railway. He has now got over his disappointment. When the usual return of officers having experience of tramways was called for he, on his name being submitted, had roseate visions of directing the tramcars in Abbeville or thereabouts. Instead he got a somewhat more forward area and has a dug-out in Mudland, with a supplementary dug-out in case of too many shells. Rather prides himself on his driving, too, and this lead to a couple of varying yarns.

OFFICER (just back from work): "Came down in a truck. F.... was driving the petrol car. Did about 500 yards in about five minutes."

F.... (later) "You should have seen Capt. .... and two others in the truck. I was doing about 25 miles per hour, and they were cowering in fright. Fairly put the wind up them."

With the sagacity of George Robey I leave it to you. The solution is too much for me.

NOTES FROM A SERVICE BATTALION.

Since the last issue of these notes the Brigade has, wonderful to relate, remained in the same district, and routine has developed into a similar kind to that we used to follow two years ago. Conditions have so far been quite good, the absence of mud to any extent has not caused us much sorrow.

* * * * * *

This state of affairs has allowed us to indulge in a round of amusements such as we had not enjoyed for some time. Shooting, boxing, tug-of-war, and football contests have led us to reawaken our interest in matters other than machine guns, barbed wire, Verylights and "pineapples." All our competitors put up good fights, but unfortunately our only great success has been our entrance into the final for the Divisional "Soccer" Championship. We reached the semi-final stage in our tug-of-war efforts, and some ardent athletes also tried their prowess at running. As regards the latter, it has been whispered that many went out but SOME returned.

* * * * * *

Here perhaps we may be permitted to record an incident of recent occurrence at a dump rejoicing in the name of the Great Metropolis. One of our 'umble 'eroes, who'd evidently had enough (of what I am not exactly sure), was dimly perceived to be staggering under a load of large dimensions. He was overheard to remark that he had always thought the number of blankets in a regulation bundle to be a hundred but he would not answer for the state of his soul if after inspection the number of blankets in his .... bundle turned out to be a hundred and fifty.

Two or three evenings ago in a decidedly different locality our ears were tickled in another way. A Battalion Concert revealed the existence of much latent talent, hitherto unsuspected, amongst our members. Of course, we were delighted, as usual, with the vocal items of our worthy corporal of the Band. Other contributions were of a quaint order and caused much merriment, fortunately we were able to carry on without having to put lights out at all. This reminds me that both "Reveille" and "Lights Out" have lately been observed with somewhat brutal frequency.

* * * * * *

We offer our heartiest congratulations to the following recipients of honours:—Pte. Rossington, G.-M.M.; Sgt. R. F. Bell and Sgt. E. Campbell, Cards of Honour.

* * * * * *

We have welcomed Lieuts. E. B. L. Piggott and F. J. Smith who returned to us, their faces beaming with happy smiles at having succeeded in rejoining their old Unit. We hear that Capt. Horan has returned to regimental duty in England, and have favourable news of our other invalids, who apparently find that Blighty is not in such a bad state as some folks would have us believe.

* * * * * *

Our good wishes for their speedy recovery and well earned rest go out to 2nd-Lieuts. J. E. Hilton and E. S. Hope, both of whom have proved their powers of attraction, even of the Huns' "scrap iron."

* * * * * *

We continue to be assured of the existence of the back areas by the lucky people privileged to attend Courses of whom the Battalion now boasts many.

* * * * * *

Once again we have regretfully to record the deaths in action of some of our comrades. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to their relatives, and especially to those of 2nd-Lieut. C. L. Stephenson, of whom one may say in all sincerity, that he indeed endeared himself to all ranks by his unfailing generosity and good nature, even under the most trying circumstances.

* * * * * *

To all our fellow Fusiliers we send our hearty Yuletide greetings and wish them the best of luck during 1918 when, let us hope, our common efforts will be crowned with the long-looked-for success.

SPECIAL RESERVE BATTALION NOTES.

The fourth Christmas spent by the Battalion in this salubrious but muddy region has come and gone. New faces filled the Officers' Mess (some hundreds of them!) and the barrack rooms, but the spirit was the same. Those who were here last year are now scattered over three continents and (be it whispered) even a fourth. The Old Toast was acclaimed in Mess and hut with equal fervour and some sad memories—"To all Fusiliers wherever they may be—QUO FATA VOCANT!"

* * * * * *

The Barrack rooms both at Headquarters and in the S—— H—— Detachment showed their usual splendour and variety of decoration and for the day the paper shortage seemed forgotten.

The Sergeants' Dance at Headquarters was a huge success, chiefly due to the untiring efforts of C.Q.M.S. Redhead and his indefatigable committee.

* * * * * *

On Christmas Eve a pretty function took place when a Christmas Tree laden with suitable gifts delighted the hearts of the children of N.C.O.'s and men of the Training Companies at Headquarters. Lieut. Barry, our industrious Quarter-Master, and all concerned, are to be congratulated on a charming entertainment, not forgetting the N.C.O. who put up a life-like rendering of the part of Santa Claus. The Commanding Officer was present and Mrs. Hawkes distributed the presents.

* * * * * *

The speculation as to what 1918 will have in store for the Regiment is fruitless: all that is certain is that in whatever theatre of war our Battalions are found and whatever work is given them to do, the spirit of the Regiment will inspire all ranks to uphold its fame and reputation.

Editorial Notes.

THE OLD MILL HOUSE,
PRESTON CROWMARSH,
NEAR WALLINGFORD,
31st December, 1917.

THE Editor would be glad if relatives, friends, or comrades of any FIFTH Officer or N.C.O. who falls in the service of the country would kindly forward, or cause to be forwarded, a photograph of the deceased (which will be returned if desired) and any biographical details in their possession. It is only meet and right that the glorious death of these gallant lads should be permanently recorded in their Regimental paper in this way.

We take this opportunity to thank all those who so kindly sent us Christmas cards and to assure the senders of our heartiest reciprocation of their good wishes.

The many friends of Maj. J. Thompson will be grieved to hear that he is now seriously ill at his residence, Newcastle-on-Tyne. During the first three years of the war Maj. Thompson acted as Headquarters Recruiting Officer, 5th Recruiting Area, but in August last, ill-health compelled him to resign this appointment. His capacity for continual hard work was probably never more developed than during this period and the services rendered by him were invaluable. His businesslike methods, tact and courtesy gained him the esteem of all with whom he was associated in the many and varied duties connected with present time recruiting.

We desire to express to our contributors our heartiest thanks for their assistance during the past year. In this respect we would especially single out Capt. Cooke and Lieut Bates who, in spite of the mud of Flanders and France, have been most assiduous in their efforts to keep the Gazette as alive and as bright as ever. Maj. Morley and Maj. Bett too have been most kind in doing some of the what we may call the heavy spade work in connection with such things as casualty lists, and the London Gazette. The latter we regret to say has had to resign his post of chief digger in the London Gazette as he is leaving Kneller Hall to take up the work of Maj. Thompson in Newcastle.

We have received the 8th Annual Report of the Northumberland Veterans Association. This excellent association is for the purpose of keeping in touch with the Veterans of Northumberland, giving them a helping hand now and again when required and seeing to it that, when one of their number joins the great majority of Veterans in Valhalla, his remains are accorded whenever possible the tribute of military honours. Although the working expenses are not great this association like many others has been hard hit by the war. The Hon. Treasurer is Mr. T. J. Downes, 152, Cardigan Terrace, Heaton, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

COMMEMORATION OF THE FIRST SEVEN DIVISIONS.

THE 15th of December, 1917, is a date which should be inscribed in the historical calender of the Fifth Fusiliers in letters of gold. For it was the date on which the deeds of "that little mighty Force which stood for England" in 1914, were commemorated in the Albert Hall, in London, by an epic in music and verse. I wrote above of the "Historical Calender" of the Regiment but there will be no "official" notice taken of this event as there was nothing official about it. It was a spontaneous attempt on the part of a section of the non military public to express in a semi public way their appreciation of General French's "Old Contemptibles." And I think it is right that there should have been nothing "official" about it. The Expeditionary Force was sent to do its duty and it did its duty, but as an ex member of our regular army I am proud to think that in doing its duty it was successful, and proud too to know that that success was due to a sense of and devotion to duty, bred of a pride of service, and an esprit de corps (call it what you will), by a combination of a sound training in discipline and a state of mutual regard and trust between the commissioned and non-commissioned ranks. It is only human nature to be gratified when one finds that duty well done (particularly when it is one's own duty which is in the case) is appreciated, and I must say that the idea of commemorating the First Seven Divisions in any way filled me with supreme gratification from the moment that its inception was announced. That others shared this feeling was shown by the crowds of old contemptibles, in khaki wearing the gold strip or in mufti with the silver badge, of widows, and bereaved relatives who filled the great concert hall to overflowing, and by the crowd even greater in numbers who were unable to get tickets for the hall through lack of accommodation.

The Commemoration itself consisted of a choral part; the reading of part of a chapter from Ecclesiasticus by the Right Hon. Arthur Balfour, P.C., M.P., O.M.; and the reading of the Roll Call of the First Seven Divisions by the Right Hon. the Earl of Derby, K.G.

The Choral part was made up of a number of carefully chosen musical numbers to represent (1) England before the war, (2) The Challenge to the Great Adventure, (3) The Cost, (4) Achievement, (5) Separation, (6) Sacrifice, Death, Reunion and Immortality. I am no critic of music or poetry, but both to my mind were beautiful, and they severally gave me exactly the impressions that they purported to convey. Certainly I listened to the last three namely, "Ode to the Vanguard 1914," "There is an old belief," and "Farewell," with a lump in my throat and many I know there were who could not keep back the tears which these beautiful words, set to beautiful music, and perfectly rendered by the Bach Choir, brought to eyes already tired with weeping for the loss of those they mourned. I quote the "Separation" song which is as follows:—

"There is an old belief that on some solemn shore
Beyond the sphere of grief dear friends shall meet once more
Beyond the sphere of Time and Sin and Fates Control
Serene in changeless prime of body and of soul,
That creed I fain would keep that hope I'll ne'er forget Eternal be the sleep if not to waken so."

as an example to show how apt a choice was made, and with this I must end my writing on this part of the programme or the Editor will be down on me for occupying too much space

Mr. Balfour's reading was splendid. In hearing him no one would credit him with his three score years and ten, but then is he not one of England's finest scholars? and moreover he is a trained orator. His reading was followed by what should have been the most impressive part of the Commemoration namely, the reading by Lord Derby, of the Order of Battle of the First Seven Divisions. Unfortunately the impressiveness was somewhat detracted from by the interruption in the form of cat calls, war slogans, and comic remarks which greeted the names of various Regiments as they were called out. It is true that these were but typical of that lightness of heart and love of Regiment which enabled the "old contemptibles" to perform a well nigh impossible duty, but to my mind a better opening might have been found for the release of their pent up feelings. However it, no doubt, could not be foreseen and at any rate it warmed my heart to hear the thunderous cheers that greeted the calling out of the R.A.M.C. and the Nursing Service, both of which have done so much for and are so loved by Tommy Atkins of the old and new armies and his officers.

The order of Battle was followed by the hymn "For all the Saints" sung by choir and audience and the Reveille and God save the King ended this historical and unforgetable occasion.

Another most important item in the Commemoration was the display of banners and wreaths which lined the hall. The banners were beautiful and were the gifts, to the various units, of the women who were connected with them. The banner presented to the FIFTH has already been described in the Gazette. It was hung just under the Royal box in which were seated Their Majesties the King and Queen, Queen Alexander and their suites. The wreaths were given by various public schools.

The Fifth Fusiliers were allotted a big box on the right of the hall as you face the organ. In it were the following: Lieut.-Col. Ainslie, C.M.G., Col. Gordon, D.S.O., Maj. and Mrs. St. John, Lieut.-Col. Herbert, D.S.O., Col. and Mrs. Bonham Carter, Maj. and Mrs. Ovans, Maj. and Mrs. Stephen, Capts. Cogan, Hoffman and Edwards, Lieut Lawson, Maj. and Qrmr. Landon, D.S.O., Sgt.-Maj. Drayson, Cpl. Stafford, Cpl. Pullen, Pte. Isles, Mrs. Yatman and Mrs. Gatehouse. Besides this there were fifteen other seats allotted and these were occupied by Mrs. Ainslie, Mrs. Wilkinson, Mrs. Laws, Mrs. Herbert, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Watkin, Mr. H. A. Vachell, Mrs. Gunner, Mrs. Van Neck, Lady Wilkinson, Capt. Matthews, Mrs. Sloper, Mrs. E. Lamb, Mrs. McAnnally and Mrs. Norrington.

The work of acting as secretary in the matter of arranging and distributing the tickets was undertaken by Mrs. Ainslie, who also organised the "Banner Fund," and all the details connected with the designing, etc., of the Banner. I feel that Mr. Editor will gladly accord me sufficient space to place on record my appreciation of her labours which I know is shared by all Fifth Fusiliers and particularly those who were able to be present at the Commemoration. I also am in a position to know what a great deal of work was entailed by all she did and what difficult work it was to decide to whom to allot the limited number of seats at her disposal.

Previous to going to the Albert Hall Lieut.-Col. Ainslie, Maj. Landon, Sgt.-Maj. Drayson, Cpl. Stafford, Cpl. Pullen and Pte. Isles were entertained to lunch at the Clothworkers Hall, by the Lord Mayor of London and the City Guilds.
